PRAISE A-PLenty FOR COO-RAGEOUS PIGEON

Resting up after record-making flight from Edmonton to Victoria, two-year-old hen pigeon Revived

Hope modestly listens to praise from owner Bert Owens, 3332 Painter Road, Metchosis.

HOMER HOMES

Modest Pigeon Whizz Bang Performer

By Times' Pigeon Reporter
Revived Hope, the two-year-old homing pigeon who completed a record-breaking 600-mile flight from Edmonton to Victoria at 7 p.m. Tuesday, is quiet, soft-spoken, modest bird.

In pigeon parlance, she is a red checker hen. And in any language, she's a whizz-bang performer. So far, she is only one of 16 pigeons released at Edmonton on Sunday to reach home.

"Home" is the pigeon loft of Bert Owens, 3332 Painter Road, Metchosis.

FLEW, FLEW, FLEW

Interviewed there today, Revived Hope was markedly reticent. "It was a good flight," she admitted. "But nothing unusual. I just flew and I flew and I flew, and then I stopped flying because I was home."

It was the longest speech she had made in many weeks, said Owens. "And she's still pretty tired," he added.

Asked if she flew at night, Revived Hope said "of course not. That's strictly for the owls."

Added Owens "We figure she rested about seven hours per night. That's the number of dark hours, when pigeons don't fly. We figure her total flying time at 47 hours, five minutes — and that's real speed for 600 miles."

Revived Hope's actual course was probably much longer than 600 miles. She had to cross the Rockies — among other mountain ranges — and no doubt found her way through passes, rather than straight over the top.

Queried on this point, Revived Hope refused to open her beak. She simply shook her head.

Revived Hope's Edmonton-Victoria flight tops one made recently from Edson to Victoria, by Ruth, a blue bar hen pigeon who covered almost 500 miles a week ago.

The record flight will be the last solo for Revived Hope. Her immediate plans: to settle down and raise a family. In fact, lots of families.

PROVINCIAL OFFICES SHUT DOWN 12 TO 1

From Aug. 1, provincial government offices will be closed from 12 noon to 1 p.m. daily. This was announced today by Premier Bennett, who said government employees now will be given a uniform lunch period in that time.

Previous method of staggering the lunch hour to keep government offices going on a skeleton staff has resulted in "confusion and public inconvenience," the premier said.

The order will not apply to necessary services and offices which must remain open throughout the day by statute. It does apply to government offices throughout the province, not just in Victoria.

Glitter, Pomp To Mark Royal Visit to Ottawa

OTTAWA (BUP)—A tightly packed program of receptions, dinners and a glittering state ball are being planned for Queen Elizabeth's visit to Ottawa in October.

The program now drafted, subject to the Queen's approval, will provide plenty of opportunities for Ottawans generally to see her and Prince Philip, and some opportunities for the socially prominent to meet her.

But the time schedule will leave little if any room for extraordinary engagements.

In general, the program is expected to be this:

Saturday, Oct. 12—Arrive by air in the late forenoon at Uplands RCAF base, south of Ottawa, for a lavish military reception. Drive by a circuitous route through the federal parkway to Centertown, to lay a wreath at the National War Memorial, and then drive along the Ottawa River embankment to Rideau Hall, her (and Governor-General Vincent Massey's) state residence in the capital.

Late in the afternoon, attend a reception—but not a press conference—for about 200 correspondents covering her visit, at Government House. Dine quietly in the evening with Mr. Massey and his family.

Monday—attend morning prayer at the Anglican Cathedral, atop Nanny Goat Hill, east of the parliament buildings. Relax in the afternoon, and attend a dinner given by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker at his official residence, 24 Sussex Street, near Rideau Hall.

Tuesday—spend the forenoon working on dispatches from London, open the first session of Canada's newly elected parliament in the afternoon, and attend a state banquet at Government House for possibly 100 guests, followed by a bill for perhaps 400.

Tuesday—rest and work on further dispatches in the forenoon, attend a civic luncheon by the city of Ottawa at noon, and visit the neighboring city of Hull, Que., in the afternoon, to sign the visitor's book and receive a civic address of welcome. In the evening, go sibly, attend a dinner given by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, the cabinet, Opposition parliamentary leaders, and the Supreme Court bench.

Wednesday—Leave in the forenoon for Washington, New York, and Jamestown, Va., where the 350th anniversary of the first English settlement in North America is being celebrated.

LATEST ATOMIC BLAST DAZZLES 700 OBSERVERS

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—The ninth shot of the Atomic Energy Commission's current test series exploded in a brilliant blue-purple flash here today.

The blast sent a great cloud of dust rolling across the desert, past trenches where 700 military observers crouched some 3,000 yards away.

In 50 seconds, the time observers estimated it took the shock wave to jar News Nob, 13 miles away, the dirty, purplish-looking cloud mounted to an estimated 20,000 feet.

Gunmen Loot Montreal Bank Of $10,000

MONTREAL (CP)—Two gunmen and an accomplice who drove the getaway car escaped today with more than $10,000 from a bank holdup. A woman teller fainting and thereby saved the bank another estimated $10,000.

Police, who reported the loss estimate, said the two armed and masked men hid in the furnace room before the bank—an east-end branch of La Banque Canadienne Nationale—opened for business.

The two then burst into the main lobby. One herded the staff into the vault at gunpoint while the other stuffed money into pillowcases.

Monique Dufresne, only member of the staff who knelt the combinations to various compartments in the vault, fainted. The bandits gathered what loose money they could find in the vault and in the teller's tills. Then they fled to the waiting car, which was later found abandoned.

U.K. Probes Closure

LONDON (AP)—Britain announced today she is checking directly with the Kremlin to determine whether Russia has actually closed most of Vladivostok Bay to foreign ships and planes. If the reply is "yes," the foreign office will consider the move a "substantial encroachment on what appears to be the high seas."

Israeli-Hired Ship Runs Suez; Man Held

JERUSALEM (AP)—The Danish freighter Birgitte Toff, en route to Israel with a cargo of Burmese rice, radioed early today she had cleared the Suez Canal and expects to reach Haifa by nightfall.

Israeli sailor-writer Ralrael Eylon, whom Egyptian police removed from the ship for questioning at Suez, was not returned to the vessel.

Egyptian officials said they arrested Eylon because he was taking photographs of the waterway and his behavior was "suspicious."

Israel awaited a reply from UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and the Security Council to her appeal for action

CANADIAN DOLLAR SOARS TO YEAR HIGH AT N.Y.

NEW YORK (UP)—The Canadian dollar soared to a new 1957 record high of $1.05 13/32 in relation to the U.S. dollar in foreign exchange trading today, only just short of the $1.05 1/2 all-time record set in 1930.

Police Crack 'Human Wall' In Strike Clash

Cut Rough Stuff Union Leaders Urge

LONDON (UP)—Forty policemen swinging nightsticks today broke up a "human wall" picket line set up by some 300 strikers at London's Covent Garden fruit and vegetable market.

Eleven of the strikers were arrested after a melee in which a vegetable truck was set afire and hundreds of crates of fruit smashed.

The clash erupted when the strikers locked arms across streets in the Covent Garden area to prevent produce trucks from entering. The workers went on strike to protest reclassification of their jobs.

Transport union leaders appealed today to members to cut out similar rough stuff in the nationwide bus strike that has crippled bus transport outside of the London area.

Clashes between pickets and bus crews operating in defiance of the strike were frequent Tuesday, the fourth day of the walkout.

CHILDREN MANHANDLED

At Nantwich, Cheshire, children were dragged out of a school bus by strikers and made to walk. Police also made a baton charge to clear Nottingham's central bus terminal of pickets who refused to let non-strikers take out buses.

Frank Cousins, general secretary of the mammoth Transport and General Workers Union, issued an order that pickets are to use only "peaceful means and persuasion" to stop non-strikers handling buses.

Police were assigned to ride buses in many areas to prevent incidents.

Couple Adrift For 66 Hours

SODUA POINT, N.Y. (AP)—A Canadian couple was washed ashore today after being adrift for 66 hours in Lake Ontario in a 14-foot motorboat.

James M. Cook, 51, and his wife, Helen, 47, of Belleville, Ont., were taken to hospital in Wolcott, N.Y. They were reported suffering from exposure and shock.

New U.S. Jet Bomber Averages 930 MPH

DAYTON, Ohio (UP)—The B-28 Hustler, the air force's supersonic bomber, flew today from Fort Worth, Texas, to undergo a series of take-off tests.

The plane is described as "the most advanced jet bomber ever built."

The air force said the plane, flying an "aroundabout route" averaged 930 miles per hour on its flight from Fort Worth.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Hear us, O God of grace, on behalf of those who have lost the joy that once they had. Lift them out of the indifference and the self-centered habits into which they have fallen. Restore to them the joy of thy salvation. Bring them back into the fellowship of Thy people, the fellowship of love and grateful well-doing. Give them back their place and part in the work of Thy kingdom; in Jesus' name. Amen.

Now, if we could only confine them Alberta exports to pigeons...

If lung cancer is as bad as the docs say it is you'd think them guinea pigs would have sense enough to quit.

Go Into Action Against Rebels

BAHREIN, Persian Gulf (Reuters)—RAF planes today flew 12 sorties against a mud-brick fort at Izki, about 50 miles south of the capital of the sultanate of Muscat and Oman.

A spokesman said severe damage was caused and that more sorties are planned for Thursday against a rebel headquarters fort at Nizwa, the stronghold of the leader of a rebellion against the British-backed sultan.

Nizwa is the regional capital of Oman. It was captured last week by rebel tribesmen led by Khalil Ben Ali, the Iman or religious leader of Oman. He fled Nizwa in December, 1955, after a fight with the British-Taimur. The sultan claimed the Iman was attempting to set up an independent state in violation of an agreement between the two leaders.

Villagers Given Warning

The pro-British sultan asked Britain's help in quashing the rebellion.

The RAF planes took off from Sharjah, British base about 200 miles north of Nizwa.

British troops moved up from Bahrain to Sharjah, but no large-scale use of British troops is foreseen. However, Britain probably will provide minor reinforcements of the sultan's land troops.

The sultan has 1,500 fighting men. They are officered by 10 Britons.

Prior to today's action, RAF planes dropped leaflets in rebel-held areas warning the villagers to leave.

Sir Bernard Burrows, British political resident in Bahrain, said further action against the rebels would be decided upon after the "show of force" from the air.

He said there was evidence

A-Pool Ratified

PARIS (AP)—The French Senate today put a 222 to 70 stamp of approval on the treaties setting up the West European Common Market and Euratom atomic pool. The action completed France's parliamentary ratification of the measures.

Police director Joseph Grifflits of Outremont, the Montreal island city where the burglary occurred, said the figure was "plus or minus the $500,000 mark."

"Reports attempting to compare the theft with the celebrated $1,200,000 Brinks burglary are grossly exaggerated," he said.

MID-EAST CRISIS SPOT

Underlined on map is Nizwa, a rebel stronghold in the fight against the Sultan of Muscat and Oman, bombed by British planes Wednesday. The raids followed warning to rebels to halt their war against the pro-British sultan.

DEBTS GALORE INSTEAD OF COSY HOME

House That Jack Didn't Build Turned Into Hole in the Ground

DETROIT (AP)—Where his dream house once stood, truck driver John Korenic now has a hole in the ground.

He also has a mounting list of creditors.

The 35-year-old trucker's troubles started last month after he borrowed $4,000 to buy a small white bungalow.

After 15 years of marriage, he was happy at the thought of moving his wife and two children into a home of their own.

Before he moved however he decided to install a basement. He paid a contractor $600 down on the $2,550 job.

The house slipped its supporting jacks and crashed into the basement.

Next he received a note from the city informing him that his capsized bungalow constituted a hazard and would have to be removed.

For $350 a wrecking crew hauled away Korenic's dream house, leaving only the basement excavation.

Then Korenic borrowed another $1,000 and bought a brick home, condemned for the route of a new expressway. For another $1,000 he contracted to have the house moved. He paid $500 for lifting utility wires on the route.

The moving date is next week, but now he has hit another snag.

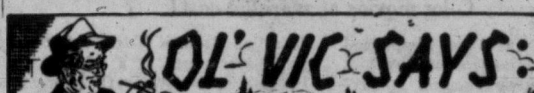

Korenic's lot is 30 feet wide. The building code requires a house to be at least three feet from the lot line. The house's blueprints show it 25 feet wide.

"The ordinance is specific," he said dismally. "The house is 12 inches too wide."

After listening sympathetically to Korenic, the suburban Hamtramck city council Tuesday night said it would consider waiving the restriction if the neighbors don't object.

Korenic said the neighbor on one side appeared "a little reluctant" and the other wants to consult an attorney before committing himself.

"This seems to be the house that Jack didn't build," he said.

Now, if we could only confine them Alberta exports to pigeons...

If lung cancer is as bad as the docs say it is you'd think them guinea pigs would have sense enough to quit.

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP)—Counsel for John Kasper and six Clinton segregationists convicted of interfering with racial integration of Clinton High School vowed today to appeal.

RABIES FROM CATS PROBED

VANCOUVER (CP)—The possibility that three Kamloops children may have contacted rabies from pet kittens is being investigated by pathologists at the University of British Columbia.

Two kittens given to the Kamloops family six weeks ago were sent to the UBC laboratory after they scratched the children. Tests are being conducted under supervision of Dr. Joan Tailyour.

Dr. Donald M. Black, provincial health officer at Kamloops said the possibility of rabies appears small. He has not yet recommended anti-rabies shots for the children.

Old Marpole Bridge On Way Out

The old Marpole Bridge, main highway connection between Vancouver International Airport and the city until the recent opening of the multi-million-dollar Oak Street Bridge, is to be removed, Highways Minister Gagliardi said Tuesday.

"I have no other choice," Mr. Gagliardi said. "The North Fraser Harbor Commissioners wired me after the bridge was struck Tuesday morning that it was in danger of imminent collapse. I will have to start Wednesday to get it out of there."

The highways minister said he might ask Fraser River Pile Driving Company to see what should be done.

He has instructed officials of his department to proceed with plans for removal of the old bridge.

COME ON GIRLS WHAT'S WRONG?

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's bachelors outnumbered spinsters by 422,593 last year, and the margin had widened in the previous five years.

The 1956 census listed 1,691,761 single males over 15 compared to 1,379,351 in 1951, the bureau of statistics said today.

In the same period, the number of single women over 15 increased to 1,269,168 last year from 1,242,437.

Red Cross To Inspect POW Camps

GENEVA (AP)—The Algerian rebels have promised to permit Red Cross inspection of camps for French prisoners "in the near future," the International Red Cross committee said today.

The committee's delegates have inspected 150 French detention camps for rebel prisoners, in accordance with the Geneva convention on prisoners of war. The Algerian "army of liberation" has hitherto refused to permit similar inspection of camps in rebel-held territory.

"The International Red Cross committee now has received an assurance it may visit a certain number of French prisoners in the near future," the announcement said.

The rebel authorities also have promised to provide a list of the names of the prisoners concerned.

Nehru Reveals 'Mad Killer' Being Hunted As 5 Savagely Shot Down

HOBBS, N.M. (AP)—A mercenary killer, whose pre-dawn rain of bullets shot down a truck driver and two young divorcees on isolated roads Tuesday, was sought today in a statewide roadblock net.

The killer may have later tried to abduct a third woman. And speculation arose that the slayer might be the same man who shot down two California policemen Monday.

Officers called the killer "a madman." He pumped at least five bullets into the body of truck driver J. D. Cantrell, 27, of Carlsbad, N.M.

He then drove the two women, Mrs. Barbara Edwards Lemmons and Mrs. Dorothy Fern Gibson, both 23, of Hobbs, about 29 miles from where Cantrell's body was discovered and left them lying dead. Six empty .22 calibre shells were found near the bodies.

KIDNAP ATTEMPT
 In the afternoon, a sleepy-eyed man in his 30s tried to kidnap the postmistress of Tinnie, a village 158 miles northwest of the scene of the slayings.

Virginia Guest, 40, routed her would-be abductor with a pistol shot after he started for his car, where he said he had "something which would make her" accompany him.

Sheriff Jewell McAdoo of Lea County said apparently Cantrell had stopped to help the two women fix a flat tire on U.S. Highway No. 180 about 36 miles west of this southeastern New Mexico oil centre. He was slain there.

POLICEMEN SHOT
 Two El Segundo, Calif., police officers, Richard Phillips, 29, and Milton Curtis, 25, were killed Monday.

Sheriff McAdoo said he has air-raided some of the shells to Los Angeles for ballistics comparison with those which killed the two policemen. Clues to the killings were few, McAdoo said "assault could have been the original intent." in the slayings, "although it does not appear the women were assaulted."

Huge Surplus In Wheat Piled Up In Crop Year

Drop in Exports
Estimated Near
35 Million Bushels

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canada's wheat crop year ends next week with a surplus approaching the 700 million bushel mark, equal to about three boom years' wheat stocks.

The Bureau of Statistics reported today that exports of wheat during the week ending July 10 amounted to 4.9 million bushels, compared with 7.7 million in the same week a year ago. Weekly export figures for the past two months have been running generally, well below the previous year's figures.

Little can be done in the time remaining before July 31, the end of the crop year, to clear the huge surplus, last reported as well over the 700-million bushel mark.

UNABLE TO SELL

Exports for the crop year to July 10, from last Aug. 1, have amounted to 209.4 million bushels, compared with 248.3 million in the same period of the 1955-56 crop year.

Government officials do not know exactly how much wheat is now in storage on producers' farms, but it must be in the neighborhood of 400 million bushels. "Because of farmers' inability to sell wheat, they have been feeding some of it to livestock."

Farmers sent close to 10 million bushels to market during the week ending July 10, almost as much as in the same week a year ago, bringing cumulative total marketings for the year to 318.2 million bushels, compared with 295.2 as they approached the mid-July mark last year.

On July 10, the bureau said, there were 386.8 million bushels of wheat in storage and in transit in North America, compared with 337.6 million a year ago.

EXPORTS TRAILING

The last export report revealed that Canada has exported 204.5 million bushels from Aug. 1, 1956, the start of the current wheat year, up until July 3. Wheat was being exported then at just over six million bushels a week, and exports were trailing the previous year by about 35 million bushels.

Final figures for the 1956-57 crop year will not be published officially before mid-August. But it was clear that the nation would be left on July 31 with the largest stock of wheat on record, close to 700 million bushels. The average carry-over at the end of the crop year for the past 10 years has been about 234 million.

Accident Blamed On Poor Highway

CAMPBELL RIVER—Holes on the Island Highway here, left in the wake of sewer excavation work two months ago and not yet repaired, were blamed for cuts and bruises suffered Sunday by Catherine Cassidy.

The 2½-year-old tot, driving with her father, George Cassidy, fell from the car when it turned over after hitting a series of holes. She was treated at Lourdes Hospital.

Soo Indians Protest Change in Schools

OTTAWA (BUP)—The Diablenaker government will treat all Canadian native Indians fairly and is "particularly anxious not to push the Indians around." Justice Minister Davie Fulton told British Union Press today.

Fulton, acting minister of citizenship and immigration, in charge of Indian affairs, was commenting on reports that a group of Indians from the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., district were coming to Ottawa to protest against a reported plan to transfer their children from Indian to white schools.

Government officials said they understood that the Sault Ste. Marie delegation represented only a minority group of the Indians of the area.

The Indians, led by Chief William Measwage of the Serpent River Reserve Board, and Mrs. Cliff Lesage, one of the mothers, said they did not want to send their children to white schools in September, and would keep them home in protest.

Officials here said, however, there was no intention to force the Indian children to go to schools off the reservations, and that the

GANGSTERS ALONE KNOW ANSWER

Multi-Million Loot Still Poser As Rest of Petrov's Body Sought

MONTREAL (CP)—Search resumed today in the Laurentians for parts of a body believed to be that of Larry Petrov, missing from his home since July 2 and feared by police to have been victim of a gangland slaying.

Petrov was awaiting trial on a narcotics charge and also was wanted for questioning in connection with a suburban Outremont bank robbery, believed by some police to be one of the largest in North America.

A man's leg found during the weekend in Lac Ouareau in the Laurentians has been identified by medico-legal experts as coming from a man fitting Petrov's description.

While the search for the body was in progress, speculation was revived on the amount taken in the Jan. 14 bank robbery during which 132 safety deposit boxes were emptied of cash and securities.

The Gazette says estimates of the loot "now run into the millions in cash and securities, but the only people who know are the thieves."

The newspaper says earlier estimates had placed the loot at between $300,000 and $1,000,000 "but these figures have been termed conservative in the light of additional information gathered by police in their search for Petrov."

"If the latest estimates are substantiated," the newspaper says, "this would dwarf the $1,300,000 taken in the celebrated Brinks robbery in Boston."

La Presse quoted Outremont Police Chief Joseph Griffiths as saying he believes the loot did not exceed $1,000,000.

"We may never know the exact amount," he said, "but I am almost certain that it is about $500,000. It is improbable that the safety deposit boxes contained such a fantastic sum as is reported, though this is not impossible."

Some police sources said people might be reluctant to complain about the full amount of their loss because of income tax regulations.

The Gazette says RCMP officers were surprised to find more than $1,000,000 in cash in a box they examined several years ago.

China Dotted by Monster Lakes As Aftermath of Lethal Floods

SHANGHAI (Reuters)—Great areas of southern Shantung province still look like huge lakes from the air despite the fact that the devastating central-east China floods have obviously receded.

On a regular passenger flight from Peiping to this Yangtse metropolis traces of the flood over Shantung and Anhwei province could not be seen because of clouds, but the "dutiful son"—the Yangtse—seemed under control and was not flooding.

The third of the country's eastern rivers—the Huai—appeared to have been flooding fairly badly in the lower reaches, while further north in Shantung many smaller rivers had overflowed their banks, inundating huge areas.

Small boats dotted the landscape at a place where thousands of workers could be seen repairing a dike.

10TH RECORD SET BY U.S. LIVING COSTS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government's cost-of-living index bounced up another one-half of one per cent in June to its 10th record high in as many months.

Food prices were reported to have jumped 1.4 per cent from May to June. That was the major factor in the advance, which carried the consumer price index to 120.2 per cent of the 1947-1949 average.

However, the price advance was an across-the-board affair. The average prices of all commodities except foods rose 0.2 per cent and the cost of services—transportation, laundry, repairs, medical bills and the like—also climbed 0.2 per cent.

Canada's Security

IN OPPOSITION, CONSERVATIVE members of Parliament criticized Canada's security arrangements, or at least their administration. In office Mr. Diefenbaker's Government proposes to study the present methods of guarding essential secrets from our foreign enemies and possibly to change them.

These investigations are wise. They may prove useful. No government is immune to mistakes in this highly complex matter and various foreign governments have made tragic mistakes from time to time when dealing with their servants who occupy sensitive posts.

If the Diefenbaker Government can administer security regulations more successfully than its predecessor by all means let it do so. But let the Government and the public realize at the beginning exactly what they are trying to do.

Unfortunately, during the last few months, the proper purposes and the methods of security in a free society like ours were widely confused by the tragic Norman case.

Some Conservatives obviously did not understand the Liberal Government's position, and a few misrepresented it for political reasons. To their credit, however, the leaders of the party rejected the temptation to play politics with this subject during the election campaign.

That temptation passed, or should have passed, when the Conservatives took office. They now bear the sobering responsibility of protecting both security information and the personal rights of their officials.

Whether the former Government's administration of security was efficient or inefficient is a question about which men may honestly disagree. There should be no question about the basic principles of the present system and Mr. Diefenbaker has not questioned it.

In brief, the former Government held that it must carefully investigate the ideological opinions of all its servants who had information of possible value to a foreign enemy. But having decided that an official was reliable or unreliable, it refused to reveal its reasons in detail.

It would not give to Parliament the secret dossiers on which its decision was based. It could not do that without the risk of grave injustice to innocent men. For of necessity an RCMP file must contain all sorts of reports, rumors and unsubstantiated information, even some statements that (as in the case of the late Mr. Norman) turned out later to be false.

It is the duty of the police to seek out every clue but if every clue and suspicion is then to be placed on the public record the result is not security but witch-hunting.

If witch-hunting is to be avoided Parliament must trust the judgment of the existing Government in this peculiarly delicate field and so far that trust has been given. It should be given to the Diefenbaker Government, as to the St. Laurent Government, and happily in Mr. Davie Fulton the nation has a minister of justice entitled to full trust.

Mr. Fulton may be able to tidy up and improve the present arrangements. He and the Prime Minister no doubt will make sure that Canada's security files are not permitted to leak into Congressional committees and to be spread on the public record by irresponsible American politicians. If necessary Canada can refuse to share this information with the United States, as Mr. Pearson threatened to do after the Norman case.

But the new Government will be very unwise if it alters the present system fundamentally. It is certain, we believe, that the Canadian people do not wish to imitate their neighbors' system of trial by rumor, with which the great majority of thoughtful Americans already are disgusted.

Paper Is Precious

IN THE WESTERN WORLD WE take paper for granted. Paper carries the day's news. In one form or another it wraps just about everything we buy. It is used, or wasted, on a gigantic scale. In the United States, The New York Times reports, every person, man, woman and child, uses 300 pounds of paper, on average, every year.

It is hard for us to imagine a country where paper is a scarce luxury and must be used over and over again until it can be used no more.

Yet in most of Asia the average person uses less than nine pounds of paper a year. An out-of-date newspaper is a household treasure. An old magazine is a bonanza. If anyone doubts that, let him consider what his household would be without paper.

Inconvenience, however, is the least part of the paper shortage in the poorer countries. They lack the material necessary to convey information, to educate the people, to develop the democratic process, sometimes to print election ballots.

The Asia-Pacific Forestry Commission in Bandung is tackling this problem by planning to grow more timber, the cheapest source of paper, but this will take a long time. Meanwhile scientists are experimenting with other sources such as sugar cane residue, hemp, bamboo, sisal and straws.

Here we have no such problems. The material of paper grows all around us and we have the machinery to process it. We have so much paper, indeed, that we waste it prodigally—and pay heavily for that waste.

As The Times remarks, we should begin to conserve paper, for at our rapidly increasing rate of use we shall need all we can get one of these days. And if international trade could be placed on a sane basis we would find huge, profitable markets for our paper among foreign peoples who will want more and more of it as their living standards rise.

Facts of Life

WHEN BRITAIN, WEST GERMANY and other Western nations decided to trade with Communist China it was thought that this move—vigorously opposed by the United States—would lead to a widespread official recognition of the Chinese Government. Actually the effect seems to be just the opposite.

Having split with the United States on the issue of trade, few of the Western states are ready to press the disagreement further by sending ambassadors to Peking or voting to seat Communist China in the United Nations.

Without these formal steps they have already re-established relations of a sort with China and will receive the benefits of Chinese trade, whatever they are worth (probably not much at the moment, by financial reckoning anyway).

When the United Nations Assembly meets in the autumn Russia is expected to renew once more its proposal that the Peiping Government be given China's permanent seat on the Security Council, now occupied by the phantom regime of Formosa. But the United States probably can rally sufficient votes to defeat this resolution.

For some time to come the United Nations presumably must continue to live with one of the grim, illogical facts of international life—the phantom of Formosa representing a nation of six hundred million people, the real government of China excluded and such a barbarous oppressor as the Government of Hungary seated respectfully among the peace-loving nations.

This, unfortunately, is the sort of world we presently inhabit. But all the current fictions do not alter in the least the formidable fact of the Chinese Government, which is here to stay.

And Worse to Come?

THE QUEEN IS CONCERNED about the telephone bills for Buckingham Palace. They have risen to £25,000 a year against the £10,000 per annum during her father's time.

Even to royalty the invention of Alexander Graham Bell is no unmixed blessing. Doubtless it summons them when they would prefer to remain undisturbed—even as it calls the least distinguished of subjects.

But serious as costs and annoyance may be to Buckingham Palace, Her Majesty escapes, at this point, what is probably the ultimate fault of the telephone. The Royal children are not yet teen-agers.

NEW GOVERNMENT HOUSE

ARCHITECTS' VIEW

'To Achieve Dignity'

This brief was prepared for the Vancouver Island Chapter of the Architectural Institute of British Columbia by Charles Craig and Roderick Clark, architects, and submitted to the Provincial Cabinet.

ON BEHALF of the Vancouver Island Chapter of the Architectural Institute of British Columbia, we herewith request consideration of the following brief in respect to a new Government House for the Province of British Columbia.

We believe that the best interests of the people will be served by an architectural competition for the new Government House, for these reasons:

B.C. is advancing more rapidly than any province in the nation in wealth, in culture and in industry. Let us not house the titular head of our Government in an archaic, mid-Victorian structure, which flouts our energies, our progressive thinking and our tremendous future.

Our province has been built on free competition. What better way to build the core of our governing body than to compete for the design of such a core? History could only condemn a government which for the sake of expediency rebuilt a Government House copying a concept which is completely outdated, when the best designers of our nation are available to compete for the design of what should be, and must be, a great and lasting piece of architecture.

Unique Opportunity

Our Government now has the unique opportunity to build a monument to her people and to her Queen, and an opportunity which no other province has had in the past half century. This opportunity must bear with it a definite responsibility to produce a structure worthy of the dignity which must exist between a people and its monarch. We believe, very strongly, that this responsibility must be met with the highest quality of design, otherwise our Government will have failed to assume its responsibility.

For the sake of expediency, we understand that preliminary planning has been undertaken on the new building, at an estimated building cost of some $800,000. We are convinced by experience that the absolute minimum time required to produce working drawings and specifications for a structure of this size, if it is to be properly planned, is eight months after preliminary sketch plans have been completed. Any shorter period can only produce ill-conceived design, major discrepancies in structure and services, and incomplete drawings and specifications.

We also know from experience that the absolute minimum time required to obtain tenders and construct a building of this size, in this area, is 12 months after completion of working drawings and specifications. Any shorter period can only produce inferior structure and workmanship, higher costs and more expensive maintenance. Any action which might be taken to proceed with construction before working drawings are completed invariably results in much higher costs, major compromises in both design and operation, and in an unsatisfactory end result, without in the least saving any appreciable time.

Assuming that preliminary planning is now complete, on the above basis, construction could start in March, 1958, and be completed in March, 1959. This would not make the new Government House available for the centennial year. An architectural competition could be programmed to add not more than two months to the timing as outlined above.

General Rules

We recommend that such competition be based on the following general conditions:

Open to registered architects in the Province of British Columbia and carried out in accordance with the requirements of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada.

The Chief Architect of the Government to be appointed as the assessor, responsible for conducting the competition.

The program for the competition to include the general requirements of the building with the object of selecting the best architect. The specific requirements of the building to be drawn up by the assessor during the period of the competition.

In this way the competition could be commenced almost immediately.

Premiums totalling $5,000 to be awarded for the competition in accordance with the assessor's report, the architect placed first being employed to carry out the work.

The period of the competition to be limited to two months following the publication of the program.

Native Materials

In conclusion, we request that the Government give its most earnest consideration to the achievement of a Government House which has been inspired by open minds, designed with a clear concept of its function and built with our finest native materials.

If we are to reflect the spirit of our own virtue times, if we are to achieve a dignity and graciousness in today's democracy, if we are a proud people, then we must produce a residence for Her Majesty's representative which is a monument to such thoughts.

As Our Readers See It

New Zealand Conditions

With regard to the article (Monday, July 15) and your correspondent's letter (Saturday, July 20) regarding conditions in New Zealand, my wife and I would like to clarify one or two points, having recently arrived from there after a number of years residence.

Firstly, with regard to the free medicine and hospitalization mentioned by Mr. Jones in his article: it is quite true that everybody pays one shilling and sixpence in every £1 earned—as mentioned by the latter correspondent—but it is equally true that in most cases, and indeed where it is needed, medicine is free; because people with children, two or more, would get back as much as they paid in, or more, in child allowances. Therefore, all phases of the medical side of social security to these people, is quite free.

From our knowledge of current wage rates in New Zealand Mr. Jones' figure of 55 cents an hour for carpenters is quite wrong. The going rate when we left New Zealand one year ago was about $1.00 per hour—we know that since we left there has been a wage increase and on top of this to get employees in New Zealand every firm has to pay more than the basic rate. Also with 30,000 unfilled jobs, layoffs and unemployment are things New Zealand has not known for many years.

Misplaced Criticism

Criticism by Mrs. Lydia Arsens respecting the professional status of the investigating team about to study the controversial Hoxsey cancer treatment is so misplaced as to appear ridiculous.

No layman and especially the suffering laymen that Mrs. Arsens would send, are in a position to comb the files for factual evidence, or to bring back an objective and unprejudiced finding.

If faith can cure cancer, then the patient has the key within his own hand and heart, and his efforts to open the door would be backed 101 per cent by the entire medical profession. Doctors, surgeons and researchers are dedicated to throwing wide open any and every portal that would shed light upon the maladies of mankind.

Meantime, mankind is the arbiter of his fate especially when adulthood has been reached. Would Mrs. Arsens suggest a professional team would bring back the "wrong" answer? They, like herself, are also imbued with faith—otherwise why would they be "seekers." K. M. WORTHINGTON-LAKE

Story of Crutches

For the benefit of those theists who write me such bitter and scurrilous letters from time to time, I would tell a simple story.

A surgeon once called upon a poor cripple and kindly offered to assist him in any way he could. The good doctor began by discussing quite learnedly on the origin of disease; on the comparative values and properties of certain medicines; of the advantages of exercise, air and light, and the various ways in which health and strength could be developed and enjoyed.

These remarks were so full of good sense, so filled with accurate thinking and knowledge, that the cripple becoming thoroughly alarmed cried out: "Do not, I pray you, take away my crutches—they are my only support and without them I would be miserable indeed! I'm not going to take away your crutches," said the surgeon, "for I am going to cure you and then you will throw the crutches away yourself."

That, my friends, is all that this writer has ever aimed at doing by his letters to the editor—encourage or persuade others to throw away their crutches of superstition.

Tourist Rebuff

Having purchased your paper of July 19, I am compelled to write you concerning a small paragraph in the Monte Roberts column, quoting a criticism of tourists.

To me, this is a little "bit" that could and should have been omitted. Being a Canadian, born a Canadian, of Canadian parents—English and Scotch originally—I have spent much of the morning trying to convince some of our neighbors at this court, that this is just one man's opinion of the "tourist."

These people are from California, Oregon, Washington, Alberta. Does Victoria really not want these people?

My husband and I are from Ontario, Sarnia to be exact. In our district we welcome all tourists—as we were sincerely welcomed in Calgary, Alberta.

This is our first trip to your beautiful city. We hope not many of these "tourists" resent this little article as the people in our immediate vicinity today do.

They Can Do It Here

A front page item in The Sunday Sun of Vancouver says a Vancouver heart specialist stated Ronnie Richardson had a hole in the wall of the lower part of his heart between the ventricles, and that his only chance was to go to the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, U.S.A.

Last November when I was a patient in the Royal Jubilee Hospital of Victoria the woman in the next bed had had a similar operation performed right here by a Victoria heart specialist. She made a glorious recovery.

And I have good reason to know the operation cost considerably less than the $5,000 to $6,000 stated in the Vancouver Sun.

Information could be obtained from the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Algeria---Build-Up for Blow-Up

By NEAL STANFORD In The Christian Science Monitor

ALGERIA is the world's present hottest crisis spot. That is not just my opinion but the opinion of some of Washington's best-informed officials. They do not say it out loud. They do not cry it from the rooftops. But when talking quietly and privately about world affairs—disarmament, Korea, the Middle East—these top Washington officials always come back to Algeria.

Watch Algeria, they say: it's building to a blow-up; it was Korea, then Indo-China, then Formosa, then the Middle East; now it is Algeria.

The trouble in Algeria is that an immovable object has met up with an irresistible force. The irresistible force is Arab nationalism; the immovable object is French patriotism.

Those are not the names that Arabs and Frenchmen apply to these opposite forces. The first denounce French chauvinism and colonialism; the latter, Algerian rebellion and subversion. The French insist that Algeria is a private internal problem; the Algerian nationalists, that it is a question of self-determination.

Irreconcilable Positions

What makes the Algerian issue so critical and immediately dangerous is that the French and the FLN (National Liberation Front) have taken outspoken and irreconcilable positions. They have talked and fought themselves into a deadlock. The bombast on one side has its equal on the other. The atrocities on one side have been matched by atrocities on the other.

And to further inflame the situation the Arab countries are united back of the FLN's fight for independence. Also Communist elements are doing their best—or worst—to stir up trouble and chaos.

The current United States role in this North African crisis is that of peacemaker or middleman. The French are its allies; the Arabs, its friends. As President Eisenhower said the other day: Washington wants to be decent and fair to both sides.

MARKED
BEFORE NATIONALITY

It seems to me that nationality is of little importance in a human being's general make-up. The same instincts are there, whether we are born under a northern or a southern sun; we rejoice and are happy about the same things, and the same things cause us grief and sorrow, and to my mind the influence that the actual country in which we are born wields over us is extremely small. I think that it's certainly smaller than that absorbed from our family background or gained through our education.

It may be publicly denied, but I would say that privately the administration's heart is with the Algerian nationalists, but its head is with the French Republic. It sympathizes with the aspirations of the native Algerians, but it also recognizes the French rights and legalities involved.

How long it can continue to ride these two horses, which are so obviously pulling in opposite directions, is the key question. Passions in Paris and Algiers are so inflamed that Washington cannot say a kind word for one side without the other expressing its displeasure both openly and diplomatically.

Mr. Dulles, who is both lawyer and diplomat, is trying to keep Algerian and Frenchman his friends. But this has become increasingly difficult. Feeling is growing here that Uncle Sam will soon have to abandon the moderator's role and decide whether heart or head governs his Algerian policy.

An example of mounting pressures was in the recent much publicized speech by Senator John Kennedy (D) of Massachusetts demanding that the administration support Algerian's political independence. It can be argued that the senator quite unceremoniously upset the administration's Algerian apocryphal by his blast and critique of Washington's policies.

Some opinion holds that Algeria is not a problem Washington can solve and that the Kennedy approach does more harm than good. But it can also be argued, as the senator did, that it was time for the United States to cut this Gordian knot and force a solution.

Drastic Steps Due

Whether it is time for the United States to take drastic steps to quit the role of peacemaker or go-between would seem to depend on whether France's remaining stake in Algeria is more endangered by continued French efforts at pacification or by some concessions and steps leading toward independence.

Senator Kennedy has made it clear that he thinks the time is well past when a decision to support Algerian independence should have been taken. They know they could hold Algeria militarily. They have half a million troops there, plus security forces and others, as against fifteen to twenty thousand rebels.

Incidentally, while Mr. Dulles may extol the French for having completed the independence of five nations within the last four years—Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia, Tunisia, and Morocco—he is not unaware (as some of his attitudes and public comments in this period have indicated) that a greater French willingness to accept the inevitable independence of these several nations would have considerably eased their current problems. And that could be the case in Algeria also.

Big Job at Stake

NEW YORK—Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld is not the sort of man who would campaign openly for his own re-election as Secretary-General of the United Nations, but it might not be unfair to say that Mr. Hammarskjöld has been doing some fence-mending during his current visit to Europe.

What's happening during his visit no doubt will influence some of the European states in their thinking about whether or not they want to back Mr. Hammarskjöld for another term. It also will have an effect upon Mr. Hammarskjöld's own attitude about remaining in office.

The current betting here is that the European nations, although many of them are somewhat cool toward the Secretary-General, will back him for another term, and that he will accept. But it may not be just a cut-and-dried item on the agenda, because elections are never a certainty and because the job of Secretary-General is one of the world's diplomatic plums, plus the fact that the gross pay is $33,000 a year, plus $20,000 annual allowances, all tax-free.

The Secretary-Generalship is up for discussion because Mr. Hammarskjöld's five-year term of office ends in April of next year, and the subject is likely to be discussed by the Security Council and the General Assembly this autumn.

INFLUENCE, NOT POWER

The job is not one that carries much power with it, but in Mr. Hammarskjöld's hands it has come to represent considerable influence. The main problem that he has encountered has been that in trying to serve so many masters, he has been unable to endear himself to all. He is not a popular figure in Britain or in France, but it seems unlikely that this feeling is strong enough to bring official British or French opposition to his re-election for another term.

The United States has let it be known that she will support Mr. Hammarskjöld's re-election, and a good number of countries are expected to follow Washington's lead in this matter. How the Asian and African nations will react remains to be seen—should they develop an appetite to have one of their own number become secretary-general an interesting battle could be in prospect, especially if the Communist nations should decide to get behind an Asian or African candidate.

What might happen in such a case would be a repeat of the deadlock that occurred in 1953, after the resignation of the then-secretary-general, Mr. Trygve Lie.

In six closed meetings during the month of March of 1953, the council wrestled with the problem of a successor for Mr. Lie. There were three main contenders—General Carlos P. Romulo of The Philippines, nominated by the United States; Stanislaw Skrzyszewski of Czechoslovakia, nominated by Soviet Union, and Mr. Lester B. Pearson of Canada, nominated by Denmark.

Seven affirmative votes were needed in the Security Council, and General Romulo received only five, with two against and four abstentions. The Soviet nominee was voted down, the vote being one in favor, three against, and seven abstentions.

Mr. Pearson then received nine votes in favor, which was enough to make him secretary-general, but the Soviet Union exercised the veto against him. It is reported that the Soviet delegate had asked for time to consult his government on Mr. Pearson's candidacy, but that the issue was pushed to a vote by the United Kingdom delegate, Sir Gladwyn Jebb—and it's always been a subject for speculation as to what the Soviet's vote might have been if a delay had been granted.

Following its veto of Mr. Pearson, the Soviet Union proposed Madame Pandit of India for secretary-general. But only two votes were cast for her. The name of the Iranian delegate to the United Nations, Mr. Entezam, was mentioned, but did not come to a vote.

HOW IT HAPPENED

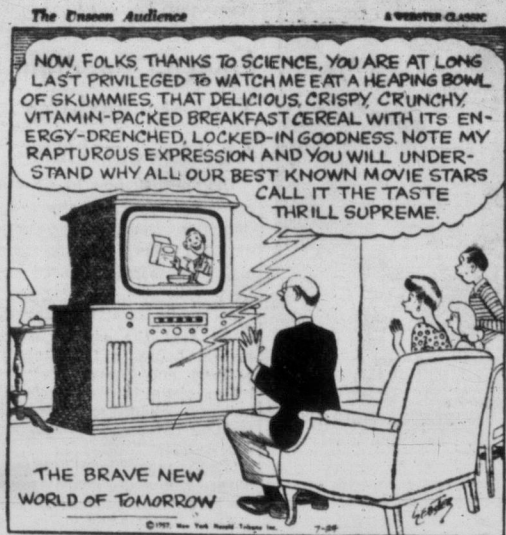

Finally, it was the United Kingdom that thought of Mr. Hammarskjöld. The U.K. did not nominate him, presumably because of its close ties with the two Commonwealth candidates, Mr. Pearson and Madame Pandit. Instead, at Britain's urging, it was France that nominated the virtual unknown from Sweden, and he received 10 votes in favor, to none against. Mr. Hammarskjöld flew from Sweden and took the oath of office in April, 1953.

If there is to be a contest for the office, and at present the odds seem against it, it's certain that Mr. Pearson's name would come up for consideration. That of course would raise the question of the attitude of the present Canadian government plus the question of Mr. Pearson's own personal ambitions. General Romulo no doubt would enter the ring again, and so would Mr. Entezam of Iran. The Soviets would doubtless have a candidate of their own.

Should Mr. Pearson become secretary-general, it would almost certainly mark the end of whatever domestic political ambitions he might have. Because the secretary-general must be to a great extent an appeaser and a tread-water expert. Whoever holds the office for the next five years is likely to be less popular in the West, including Canada, than Mr. Hammarskjöld is at present.

'Split Canada' Talk Stirs Controversy

LONDON (CP)—A British commentator has aroused conflicting views about relationships between English-Canadians and French-Canadians.

In a comment on the June 10 election, BBC Washington correspondent Christopher Serpell said the voting emphasized the division between English Canada and French Canada. He illustrated this by telling of an incident in an elevator in a Montreal building when four French-Canadians refused to answer a question posed in English.

In Toronto, Serpell said, he found an "active dislike" of French-Canadians. He was beginning to believe there was something in the saying that "Canada is the child of a broken marriage."

R. M. Fowler, chairman of the royal commission on broadcasting, wrote from Montreal to challenge Serpell's argument. Fowler said there is no doubt in his mind that there has been a "significant improvement" in relations between Canada's two main language groups. He had lived in Montreal 12 years and he had never seen an instance of conduct such as that in the Montreal elevator.

A French-Canadian doing post-graduate work in London, Henri de Segur, wrote to support Serpell's argument.

"English-Canadians are more interested in New York than Montreal," wrote de Segur. "As for Toronto, it is Canada's largest provincial city. Its body, a mere carbon copy of the average American skyscraper city. Its soul, the stock exchange."

"French Canada, and especially the province of Quebec, is without a doubt the rendez-vous de l'élite intellectuelle of Canada."

The letters were published in the Listener, a BBC publication.

Nowlan Named Cabinet Member Handling CBC

OTTAWA (BUP)—Revenue Minister George Nowlan will report to Parliament on the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Prime Minister John Diefenbaker announced Tuesday night.

Under the Liberal government the Crown agency had reported through the former revenue minister, Dr. J. J. McCann.

Under the act of parliament establishing the CBC, the responsible minister is to be designated by an order-in-council and is not identified by department as is the case with most Crown agencies.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that Nowlan would also be the minister to discharge any other functions specified in the Canadian Broadcasting Act.

Feeding, Watering Needs Study

The feeding and watering of garden plants is one of the phases of work which needs some study by every gardener.

There are certain rules of growth and nutrition which, once recognized, remain as essential details in the gardener's experience, ready to be called into use as the occasion arises.

As with human life, it is during the growing period that a balanced diet must be available at all times. Less is required through the ripening or maturing period, and during dormancy when there is no root action, it is unwise to supply extra nutrients.

With a normal garden soil of average loam to clay-loam texture, little additional fertilizer is required if composted material is added yearly as a top dressing. However, in poor soils which have been depleted through many years of growing plants with no replacement made, some of the favorites will need a boost at this time of the year.

The bush roses, for instance, which have been flowering for weeks, will produce a fine crop of bloom again in September if the old flower heads have been properly cut back. A little fertilizer now will help.

The fall flowering perennials which have a long growing season will make finer stems and blooms if given a feeding at this time.

No fertilizer should be applied in the garden to shrubs or perennials after the end of July. Most plants will then be busy at maturing their growth to survive the vagaries of winter. Fertilizers would induce further new growth, which, being immature, would succumb to frost.

Dry fertilizer may be applied at the rate of a measuring tablespoonful around a large plant, or watered with a solution at the rate of a teaspoonful dissolved in a gallon of water. The soil should previously be watered in either case to allow the fertilizer to reach the root areas. When using dry fertilizer, also water well after applying.

By the beginning of August, garden watering will have to become more selective, applying it in quantity only to those subjects which require it to complete their cycle of growth. The remainder will need only an existence allowance from then on.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Is Tennis a Racket?

LONDON—An aftermath of this year's Wimbledon is that complaints by players about how much they were paid to appear in this tournament have brought out some intriguing facts about this "amateur" event.

Sweden's Sven Davidson, seeded No. 4 in the men's singles, complained that he received only £30 to appear in Wimbledon, whereas the payments to topline Australian and U.S. players were in the hundreds.

Dorothy Knode, seeded No. 4 woman, complained that she got £100 while her fellow American, Darlene Hard, seeded below her at No. 5, received £150.

The Lawn Tennis Association, which runs Wimbledon, likes it to be believed that they are dedicated to safeguarding the principles of amateur sport. To further this belief they refused permission to four British Wimbledon stars to appear at a commercially sponsored tournament at Margate to give expenses-paid exhibitions.

Yet in what would seem to be an unguarded moment LTA secretary Basil Reay has replied to players' complaints in these terms: "We do no more than contribute towards a competitor's expenses. We come to an agreement with the player's own association on how much we can give. Naturally the question of a player's status comes into it."

The key word would seem to be "status."

REYBURN

The amount paid is not based on seeding. If one of the lower seeds is a big crowd-pleaser he will be paid more than an efficient, dull player seeded above him. Payment is made on the basis of box-office drawing power.

To call the money "expenses" is farcical, as borne out by the example of Miss Knode and Miss Hard. Each came from the States to play at Wimbledon, so theoretically each was put to the same expense in getting over here. Yet the LTA "contributed towards the expenses" of Miss Hard £50 more than her compatriot.

Low Hoad's payment to turn professional was $125,000, as against the hundreds he gets to appear at Wimbledon, so it would seem that the Lawn Tennis Association has helped us to arrive at a new definition of an amateur: An amateur is a player who is paid less than a professional.

Is the Queen left-handed? Based on the way she held a spade while planting a commemorative tree, people are asking whether she is basically a left-handed person who has been switched over to the right in most things she does.

Pictures of her planting the tree show her with the left hand at the top of the spade as she scoops the earth into the hole. But isn't that the way many right-handed people do it, using the strong hand to take the weight of the spade?

I know I do it that way. It's the same with picking up a magazine and leafing through it. Right-handers hold it in the right hand and turn over the pages with the left; left-handers vice versa.

OPIMUM HABIT

Two-Year-Old Cured of Drug Craving

SINGAPORE (Reuters)

The opium treatment centre here has cured its youngest patient of a craving for opium—a two-year-old baby.

Dr. Leong Hon Koon, a specialist in opium addiction treatment, said Monday the child caught the habit from his mother, who continually smoked from a pipe and blew the opium fumes into his face.

GERMAN WOMAN GAVE TIP

Victoria Chemist Helped Allies Overcome Nazis

The story of a German woman in New York who unconsciously helped Britain to beat Germany in the First World War is told by Noble W. Pirrie, retired Victoria chemist.

The woman was employed as librarian at the Chemists' Club in New York two years before the United States entered the war.

Mr. Pirrie, formerly an assayer in Vancouver, went there on assignment from the British Ministry of Munitions to try to discover a new method of producing much-needed acetic acid for the manufacture of explosives.

"There was a desperate shortage of acetic acid at the time," Mr. Pirrie said, "and Britain's supply of explosives was seriously threatened."

WORKED IN DARK

"The German lady who worked as librarian in the Chemists' Club had no idea I was working on explosives and, as America was then a neutral country, she kept any feelings she may have had about the war to herself."

"She gave me every help in seeking a method of producing acetic acid. Every day she dug out volumes of books and spent hours plowing through them."

"This went on for close on a week. Then one morning she greeted me with a bright smile and said 'I think I have what you want.'"

"She produced a German text-book and translated a passage which said that acetic acid had been obtained from acetylene by means of a catalyst. (A chemical which, without undergoing change itself, aids a chemical change in other bodies)."

"I was thrilled with this discovery and thanked the German woman for all her help, but still did not tell her what I wanted the information for."

CATALYST FOUND

"The next task was to find a suitable catalyst. I caught the night train to Montreal and consulted first thing with the professor of chemistry at McGill University."

A number of experts were called in and it was decided that mercury would make the best catalyst.

Mr. Pirrie then consulted with the British ministry of munitions and the Canadian government and later a large plant for the manufacture of acetic acid was set up at Shawinigan Falls, Ont.

"The plant produced four times as much glacial acetic acid as could be found anywhere else in the world and the problem of supplying sufficient explosive for our war effort was solved."

Mr. Pirrie was appointed director of explosives for Canada in November, 1915, and became special representative of the British ministry of munitions on all matters pertaining to chemicals and explosives in Canada and the U.S.A.

Later in the war, Gooderham & Worts, the whisky distillers, turned over their plant for the manufacture of chemicals needed to manufacture cordite for shells and cartridges.

Tric Tics Clicks With 'Peg College'

WINNIPEG (CP)—Tric Tics, a United College newspaper that almost died because its first edition was too successful, has just celebrated 30 years of publishing with a 130-page year-book.

College authorities in Winnipeg almost banned the paper after its first issue in the spring of 1926 because the student staff worked so hard their marks suffered.

This year's anniversary book contained a reproduction of the first Tric Tics as well as histories and pictures of the graduating class.

When some of the students who worked on the first issue failed their exams, school authorities stipulated that all staff members must have a good scholastic average before working on the newspaper.

"They refused an offer from the British Ministry of Munitions to pay them a rental equivalent to their profits for the previous three years," Mr. Pirrie said.

"It was a patriotic gesture on the part of Albert Gooderham, the head of the firm, and it earned him a knighthood after the war."

His war work completed, Mr. Pirrie settled in Victoria and for many years conducted his own financial investment business. Now retired, he entertains friends at his home at 1310 Summit Avenue and enjoys looking back over an eventful life.

Born at Bombay, India, 1878, he was taken to England as a child and was educated at Chatham House, Ramsgate, Kent, and the Royal College of Science in South Kensington, London.

He served in the South Africa War with the Royal Engineers and afterwards studied metallurgy in Australia, Nevada, California, Mexico and British Columbia.

He opened an assay office in Vancouver in 1911 and conducted it successfully until 1915 when he turned his talents to the study of wartime explosives.

Mr. Pirrie's vast chemical knowledge is now limited to the occasional production of home-made wine in which he is assisted by his wife, the former Muriel Evelyn Young, daughter of Col. T. F. Young.

NOBLE W. PIRRIE ... he found a way

"I am quite content now to just talk about the places I have visited," Mr. Pirrie says. "I have no desire to live anywhere else but Victoria."

French-Canadian Tourists Enthuse At Flowers Here

The current show of Victoria flowers evoked delighted exclamations from a party of more than 200 French-speaking Canadian tourists from Quebec who spent Monday in the city.

An employee at the Empress Hotel said the visitors spent several hours in the Empress gardens and conservatory between visits to the legislative buildings, Helmcken House, the Malahat Drive and the Butchart Gardens.

"C'est magnifique!" was a phrase frequently heard around the hotel lobby between visits.

90th Birthday Celebrated By Victorian Fred Rempley

Forty-seven years a member of the same church in which he was married—this is the record of Fred Rempley, 1535 Belcher, who Tuesday marked his 90th year in a quiet celebration with friends in his home.

Married in 1910 "to an English girl" in St. John's Anglican Church here, he has rarely missed a Sunday in attendance. His wife died in 1940, the year he retired.

Prior to retirement, Mr. Rempley was for 25 years a gardener, "everything from grave digging to looking after the walks" in Ross Bay Cemetery. And before this for a couple of years had an express agency in the city "with two horses." The latter was in 1908-1910.

He's lived in the same house since 1910. It's music—he had them off. neat, with a pretty garden. That's his hobby as well as his former occupation—gardening.

What accounts for his old age? "I'm not sure what ... perhaps keeping Sunday and living a good Christian life." He doesn't drink, never has, but "likes the occasional puff" of tobacco.

Usually he wears glasses, but at the birthday party—sandwiches, tea, cake, and a bit of violin.

Born in Suffolk, he has been a Victoria resident since 1902, and came to Canada "a couple" of years before that, living in Ontario.

Off-Balance Eating To Overload Scales

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP)—If Americans don't change their eating habits the average American will weigh a whopping 370 pounds and his wife will tip the scales at 346 by 1957, an expert predicted Tuesday.

A nation of fatties was predicted by Don R. Grimes, president of the Independent Grocers' Alliance food stores, at a meeting of the National Macaroni Manufacturers' Association.

Grimes said men weighed an average of 137 pounds in 1870 and women were 21 pounds lighter than their husbands. By 1950 both had put on an additional 20 pounds.

"Milady's waistline in 1870 was about 24½ inches," Grimes said. "Today it's 25½. But I'm not going to tell what it'll be a thousand years from now."

Freak Accident Kills 6-Year-Old at Farm

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP)

A six-year-old boy died Tuesday night on Bertha (Mom) Whyte's farm for homeless children when his head got caught in the ventilator hole of an outdoor privy.

Mrs. Whyte told police she believed Mark Markussan had been lifted up so he could look through the opening and had become accidentally suspended with his neck through the 5½-inch hole.

Mrs. Whyte said she was called to the scene behind the farm's main dormitory by other children. She held onto Mark while her husband Bert worked with a saw to enlarge the hole. But the child, one of 105 at the farm, was dead on arrival at hospital.

Five police cars answered the Whytes' call for help. It was the first accident on the farm in eight years, Mrs. Whyte said. She explained the children did not use indoor washrooms in the dormitory during the day because of a water shortage.

Gift for Israel Builds Building

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion told parliament Tuesday the first permanent parliament building will be erected with funds supplied by the late James de Rothschild. De Rothschild, who died last May, bequeathed $6,000,000 (Israeli about $3,360,000) for the building, which will stand in the Israeli sector of Jerusalem.

SEISMOGRAPH TO BE PLACED IN LILLOOET

A new seismograph for the recording of earthquakes has been installed at Lillooet, according to officials of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich.

Seismologist W. G. Milne said part of the reason for establishing the instrument at Lillooet was to record the shock when the top of Ripple Rock is blown off early next year. It will also record distant and local earthquakes.

Seismographs have also been placed at Banff and Horsehoe Bay, he said. A third highly sensitive instrument was installed in Alberni about two weeks ago.

Atom War End Or Clean Bomb?

End Nuclear Menace First, Scientists' Plea to Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of atomic scientists says the United States should concentrate on ending the threat of nuclear warfare instead of on development of a "clean" hydrogen bomb.

The scientists said recent statements that a "clean" nuclear weapon—one free of radioactive fallout—can be developed could be interpreted as "an oblique attack" on current U.S. disarmament proposals.

More than 50 scientists attached to the Los Alamos (N.M.) chapter of the Federation of American Scientists joined in signing the statement, sent Tuesday to President Eisenhower and others.

Three University of California scientists, Drs. Ernest O. Lawrence, Edward Teller and Mark M. Mills, told Eisenhower June 24 that a clean bomb could be developed in four or five years if nuclear tests are not halted.

The Los Alamos group's statement, entitled "putting nuclear weapons testing in perspective," said:

"The dominant concern of U.S. policy must be to seek out and take all equitable steps in disarmament and in international relations which can be expected to diminish the risk of war. When placed in contrast with this objective, technical improvements in the means of waging war are insignificant."

"If it be true that mankind faces a future in which either 'clean' or 'dirty' nuclear bombs will be employed, then of course, weapons testing must continue to develop so-called 'cleaner' bombs."

Widow Nabbed For Running 'Spy Nest'

BONN (AP)—West German security agents reported Tuesday the arrest of a white-haired, 68-year-old widow on suspicion of spying for the Communists in her quiet hotel—a favorite spot for foreign diplomats.

The federal security agency said Mrs. Charlotte Wallbruch was arrested on suspicion of treason after microphones were found under the floor of the rooms occupied by the diplomats.

But the key figure in the case, Gerhard Roller, a 33-year-old architect from Communist East Berlin, has escaped to the East.

The security agents told this story:

About two or three years ago Communist agents of the East zone espionage organization headed by Ernst Wallbruch heard that the widow Wallbruch was in financial difficulties. They offered her money to turn her small private hotel in the resort suburb of Bad Godesberg into a spy nest.

DIPLOMATS AS GUESTS

Her guests included many diplomats, from Britain, Holland, Pakistan, Yugoslavia and Afghanistan. N. W. Senin, counsellor of the Soviet Embassy, stayed there for a time.

Roller came from East Berlin and, on the pretext of repairing the hotel bell system, installed tiny microphones under the floorboards of each room.

These were connected to a recording apparatus in an attic. There Roller spent hours recording the conversations of the unwary diplomats. The tape recordings were sent to Berlin in spice tins.

The recordings were supplemented by reports from Mrs. Wallbruch written in invisible ink on the back of apparently innocent family letters. Sometimes she flew to Berlin to deliver reports personally—and also collect her pay.

The widow's Communist paymasters were so pleased with her efforts they offered her enough money to buy the hotel, of which she was only tenant. But, the agents said, she declined for fear that this would betray her.

Funeral Today For Retired Glass Worker

Funeral service was to be held this afternoon for Roy Spearin Wilkinson, 69, resident of Victoria for 30 years who died here Monday.

The funeral at St. Mary's Mortuary was to be followed by cremation.

A retired glazier, Mr. Wilkinson made his home at 911 Caledonia Avenue.

Surviving are his widow Doris, at home; two daughters, Mrs. P. H. Graham and Mrs. R. R. Rant, Victoria; a son, William, in Squamish; eight grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Mary Holden, Vancouver.

Okanagan Fruit News

CHERRIES — It is very unlikely that there will be any more Okanagan Cherries after this weekend.
APRICOTS — Adverse weather conditions slowed ripening to some extent but produce is now in full swing and you can expect plentiful supply for some time yet.
PEACHES — Indications point to an excellent crop this year, but again cool weather has slightly retarded the fruit from maturing. The first Rochesters should be available soon, with the peak by the end of the month.
CUCUMBERS — There is an excellent crop of field cukes this year. These are tops for salads and pickling.
TOMATOES — Okanagan field tomatoes should be available in good supply next week.

New Features For Beaver Lake Labor Day Show

Several new features have been added to entice holiday crowds to Beaver Lake on Labor Day.

Major event will be the annual Elk to Beaver swim for boys and girls aged 19 and under.

To date 35 entries have been received for the three-part swim—one for those 13 and under, one for 16 and under, and one for 19 and under. Entry forms may be obtained at Beaver Lake's tearoom, or by phoning 9-4131.

Four new features of the holiday will be contests in horseshoe pitching, fly-casting, log birling and outdoor checkers.

Horseshoe pitching champion for Vancouver Island, Jimmy Keating will hold classes for teenagers Friday nights prior to the event. "Graduates" will compete for cups, trophies and crests.

Instruction in fly-casting will be given by PO Rod Bolt, RCN.

Both contests will be sponsored by the Optimist Evening Club.

A weekly amateur show, with young finalists to appear on Labor Day, will begin at Beaver Lake Friday, Aug. 9.

Entrants must be under 21 years of age. Official accompanist will be Andy Anderson, heading an orchestra provided by the Musicians' Union.

Victoria merchants will sponsor individual shows and provide prizes.

Copper-Made Indian Goods Discovered

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP)—In an old Huron Indian village near this town, 22 miles northwest of Orillia, students of the University of Western Ontario's summer school of Indian archaeology have unearthed one of the largest finds of copper artifacts known in Ontario.

The students found eight knives, two awls, a medallion, beads, various "cuttings" and four strips of copper apparently ready to be worked.

No copper artifacts have been found before in the place, known as Forget Site.

Prof. Wilfrid Jury, under whose direction the students work, said the relics appear to be of the same form as those made by the so-called "copper-culture" Indians who lived in the Minnesota area hundreds of years before the Huron Indian area of Ontario.

Speculation places the age of the artifacts as high as 5,000 years, but the Forget Site is known to date back only about 1,000 years. However, Prof. Jury said the copper is not of European origin.

Two theories are advanced for their presence in the area. One is that migrating Indians from the south brought the items here and traded them to the Hurons.

Another theory is that the method of making artifacts was handed down through generations. The Huron Indians somehow may have obtained the copper from the south and fashioned them here.

Centennial Arch For Beacon Hill Ready for Start

Ben Tennyson, Victoria masonry contractor, is hoping to make a September start on his centennial commemorative archway for Beacon Hill Park.

The arch will be constructed from the remains of the old Birdcage legislative building and Government House, both destroyed by fire last winter.

Granite from the wreckage of Government House and bricks from the Birdcage have been set aside by the provincial public works department, and Mr. Tennyson today inspected the materials.

"I am confident there is enough material available for a distinctive archway," he said.

What Mr. Tennyson has in mind is an archway straddling the road at the Superior Street entrance to the park.

He will confer with deputy public works minister Clive Campbell on a suitable design.

Third Rocket Soars Into Sky Over Manitoba

Seen 610 Miles Away From Site

FORT CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — The third successful scientific rocket to be fired at this northern Manitoba rocket launching site blazed from its sheath-like tower Tuesday night and soared to a height of more than 50 miles. The rocket was triggered off just before midnight as part of United States participation in the International Geophysical Year. The latter part of its flight was marked by regular flashes each 10 seconds as signal grenades exploded from its nose-cone.

CLEAR VIEW
A clear sky enabled many residents in nearby Churchill townsite and Fort Churchill, 610 miles north of Winnipeg on Hudson Bay, to view the rocket's path. Officials said it reached a speed of about 3,850 feet a second. An Aerobee, it was about 2,000 feet a second slower than the giant Aerobee Hi that soared to an altitude of 180 miles July 4. Another Aerobee was fired Monday night. It rose about 35 miles above Hudson Bay and was visible at the end of its flight in the light of the midnight sun.

Both rockets carried 19 grenades in their nose-cones. These were shot from the nose at 10 second intervals from heights of more than 30,000 feet.

FLASHES RECORDED
As each grenade explodes the bright flash is recorded by ballistic cameras on the ground near the launching site.

The time the sound of the explosions take to reach the earth are recorded. Scientists calculate the density of the air at various heights.

The last grenade explodes inside the rocket's nose to destroy any grenade that misfires.

A pattern of nine microphones on the ground record the angle of the sounds of the exploding grenades, from which speed and direction of the winds at the various heights can be calculated.

The ballistic cameras also record tracks of stars and give definite position of the exploding grenades in relation to the sky.

Scientist in charge of the Aerobee project was William Stroud of the Naval Research Laboratories, Washington, D.C.

Japan First Shipbuilding Nation Still

LONDON (AP) — Japan held her place as the world's leading ship-building nation during the second quarter of 1957, Lloyd's Register of Shipping reported Tuesday.

The three-month return—giving figures for every shipbuilding nation except Red China and Russia—showed that 97 ships totalling 502,873 tons, were launched from Japanese yards during the period and 93 ships of 600,293 tons were completed. Britain, driven into second place last year, launched 72 ships of 369,250 tons during the quarter and completed 81 of 445,170 tons.

West Germany launched 104 ships—more than any other nation—during the period, but gross tonnage of 311,875 was well below the British and Japanese levels. German completions were 97 for a gross tonnage of 264,957.

Switzerland took fourth place with 22 ships of 185,321 tons launched and 19 ships of 183,380 tons.

The Netherlands jumped ahead of the United States into fifth place with 54 ships of 138,920 tons launched and 49 ships of 119,208 tons completed.

American shipyards launched 16 ships of 47,767 tons during the period and completed 18 of 129,033 tons.

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — A reward of $500 has been offered by actor Cornell Wilde for arrest and conviction of a thief who stole $95 from his wife. "It's a matter of principal," he said, explaining the reward offer. "I don't want crime to pay for anyone."

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

After taking a look at our game regulations, most sportsmen on this continent are convinced that Vancouver Island is a hunter's paradise.

We are allowed to take eight grouse per day and three deer, including two antlerless animals, during the hunting season.

Compared with most places, we have an abundance of game. Biologists tell us that we should kill more deer and grouse. Yet, a surprising number of hunting trips are little more than a waste of time.

Sounds a bit harsh, doesn't it? But just take a squint at the habits of a fellow representative of at least 50 per cent of our city-dwelling hunters.

He can hardly wait for a new hunting season to open. He may finish work Friday afternoon, jump into his car and drive a good distance in order to get an early start on opening day. Or he may sleep at home. Either way, he's ready to hit the woods at daybreak—in an area he has never seen, or in a place he hasn't visited since the previous season.

He hasn't any definite idea where he should find the deer or birds. Nor does he have any idea if there are more than a few within walking distance.

Our friend is taking pot-luck when it isn't necessary. He may hit it right and come back with a good bag. But he has an even better chance of collecting little more than a crop of blisters.

Deer Can Change Living Habits

All of us do it at times, but it isn't the wise way to hunt. Grouse and deer can change their living habits from year to year and even on Vancouver Island there are places where game is scarce.

A lot can be done in the next five weeks to prepare for happy hunting in September.

Those planning to go into new territory this season could do worse than take time to wander around on a couple of weekends. If the game isn't in one section, there is still time to look over another area. They can find out where the biggest coveys of grouse are hanging out and where the busiest deer trails are located.

Knowing an area is a big part of the battle in successful hunting. Every year we see sportsmen who bag a limit of grouse a few miles from Victoria while others hurry 100 miles or more up the Island to find only a few birds.

Lots to Do in Next Five Weeks

This promises to be an outstanding season. A good number of grouse coveys were seen during a weekend jaunt in the Sooke district and the number of young birds in the average brood appeared to be larger than usual. Berry crops seem better than in most years, we have had a fair amount of rain and it is probable that grouse will still be on the lower levels when shooting starts August 31.

That, of course, was only one area. But reports from other sections of the Island, with a few exceptions, indicate similar conditions. A couple of August days spent wandering around could make the difference between wasting time on opening weekend or finding good hunting.

A good start can be important, since no one likes to take time out during the season to scout new territory.

It's just the old business of being prepared. And by the way, have those old boots that let you down last year been replaced yet, and have you let the gunsmith examine that gun that kept jamming?

There's lots to do in the next five weeks. Now is the time to start making arrangements for that annual hunting trip after big game and to start shopping for new sights, rifles, compasses, knives and other stuff that helps make hunting a pleasant experience.

When the hunting season arrives, let's be ready. And let's collect.

Ratification a Step Closer

LONDON (AP)—Ratification of Derek Ibbotson's 3:57.2 time as a world mile record was a step closer Tuesday despite some complaints the race last Friday was not run properly.

Six official witnesses at the White City Stadium have signed necessary forms asking the International Amateur Athletic Association for ratification.

After collecting the signatures Phil Gale, track referee at the White City, said he had "not the slightest doubt that the record will be recognized by the British Amateur Board and by the IAAF."

However, Walter C. Jewell, vice-president of the U.S. Amateur Athletic Association, said he declined to sign the application.

Jewell said he thought Mike Blagrove, a half-mile, was used to pace Ibbotson. After the race Ibbotson admitted he "asked Blagrove to run a fast half-mile" before dropping out of the race.

Pacing is frowned upon.

Little Fall Never Hurts Very Much

It may be too late to hurt, but Gorge Hotel of the Senior A Softball League has finally lost a game.

With a seven-game bulge over second-place Half Way House after a six-game winning streak, the Hotelmen saw their fortunes end at Central Park Tuesday as third-place Arrow Furniture tripped them 9-2.

But it may be too late for the rest of the league to stop them. Even Half Way House can only tie the league leaders if they win all their remaining eight games while the Gorgemen lose their last six. And Arrow Furniture, nine games back, are mathematically out of the running. But if they're out, Arrows are not down, as proven Tuesday.

Southpaw Don Lyon held Gorge to only four hits as he was almost unbeatable after Ab Wiebe touched him for a two-run homer in the first inning.

Arrows went ahead to stay in the fourth inning when Tim Walker chased in three runs with a four-bagger off Gorge pitcher Dave Price. Arrows got to Price for eight safeties during the contest.

DETROIT (AP)—Controversial Ted Lindsay, who scored 700 points in 13 brilliant National Hockey League seasons with Detroit Red Wings, has been traded along with all-star goalie Glenn Hall to the last-place Chicago Black Hawks.

The fast-dealing Red Wings got in exchange four players—Johnny Wilson, Forbes Kennedy, Hank Bassen and Bill Preston—and what Detroit officials called "a considerable sum of cash."

Red Wings had made no secret of their efforts to dispose of the 31-year-old Lindsay, the highest scoring left winger in league history and a key player on eight title-winning teams.

The most penalized player in Detroit hockey history, Lindsay and general manager Jack Adams haven't seen eye-to-eye over the past couple of seasons. A Red Wings standout since 1944, the brash little forward was stripped of the team captaincy last season and frequently had been publicly criticized by the general manager for his outside business interests.

But Adams said: "All these wild rumors of personal differences between Lindsay and myself are without foundation."

Lindsay, a first-team all-star choice eight seasons, scored 85 points—second only to teammate Gordie Howe—last season. One of the smaller yet fiercest competitors in the NHL, Lindsay ranks as the fourth highest goal scorer of all time with 321 goals.

He called a press conference for 11 a.m. MDT today, explaining "there are some things I would like to say... nothing startling and nothing derogatory. I just feel that after 13 years in Detroit, I'd like to say a few things."

Lindsay, who broke in with the Red Wings when he was only 19, had insisted all along as the trade rumors popped up that he never would accept a trade and that he wouldn't play for another team but he accepted Chicago terms before the trade was completed.

This is the second major trade worked by the Red Wings in the past several weeks. They recently gave up several players to get back goalie Terry Sawchuk, whom they traded to the Boston Bruins in 1955.

It was apparently then that Detroit would dispose of the 25-year-old Hall, rookie-of-the-year in 1955-56 and the league's second best goaltender last season.

The 28-year-old Wilson, a left-winger who scored 48 points for Hawks last season, returns to the club that traded him off two summers ago.

Kennedy, who will be 22 in mid-August, was one of the league's top rookies last season when he scored 21 points for the Hawks.

Mike Crane of Berkeley, Calif., top-seeded, eliminated R. B. Goetz of Victoria, 6-0, 6-1.

In the junior women's competition, Susie Butt of Victoria defeated Joanne Champion of Bremerton, Wash., 6-3, 6-2.

McCann's No-Hit Job First in Oak Bay Loop

The first no-hit, no-run game in Oak Bay Little League history went to the credit of Kersey right-hander Larry McCann Tuesday night at Windsor Park as he struck out 13 Evans-Coleman-Johnson batters in posting a 10-0 shutout.

It was far from a perfect game as McCann walked three and five others reached first base on Kersey errors.

The win gave Kerseys a solid grip on the third league position. In the Hampton Little League, first-half champion Beavers clinched top spot in the second half on a 10-9 win over Cubs at Hampton Park.

They had to come from way behind to gain the win on a six-run rally in the sixth and final inning.

Play-off action in the Capital City Colt League had Dowell's Cartage move into the finals with a 6-2 sudden-death win over Mor-

Nine Victorians Enter Title Meet

Nine Victoria athletes will compete against the top swimmers from Canada and the Pacific coast states in the Canadian open swimming and diving championships at Vancouver's Empire Pool tonight through Saturday.

Expected to be the top threats for Dominion titles in the starry Victoria YMCA entry are juniors Jane Wheaton, Alice Genge and Sally Holland.

Miss Wheaton captured the intermediate girls' aggregate championship in the Pacific Northwest championships last year. Miss Genge won a PNW freestyle crown and Miss Holland holds PNW freestyle and butterfly titles.

Also representing the "Y" in women's events will be Gail Parker, and junior Janice Jackson.

Miss Parker will try the senior 440-yard Miss Jackson is entered in 110 and freestyle events while in both the 110-yard junior and the 220-yard senior breaststroke.

Outstanding Talent in Women's Events

Only one event, the 1,650 yards senior men's freestyle, will be contested tonight. The main program will begin at 2 p.m. Thursday at the University of British Columbia pool built for the 1954 British Empire Games.

Bill Slater of Vancouver, who placed fifth in the 1,500 metres at the Melbourne Olympic Games last year and who holds 12 Canadian records, is favored for tonight's event.

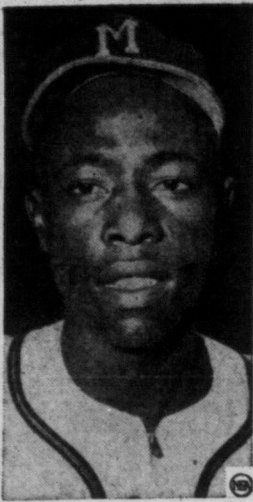

The cream of United States and Canadian talent will be represented in women's events. Nancy Ramey of Seattle, the American Olympic star who won the 100-metre butterfly and 200-metre freestyle at the Washington State championships last weekend, will swim against these top Canadians: Betty Whittall, Montreal, named outstanding athlete at the 1955 Pan American Games; Helen Representing the Victoria "Y" junior boys will be Doug Dickie, Bruce Warburton and Bob Whitton. Also swimming from Victoria, under the colors of the Victoria Amateur swimming Club, is senior Otto Waitzner.

Waitzner is competing in the 110 and 220-yard butterfly and the 440-yard freestyle.

Dickie will swim in the junior 110, 220 and 440-yard freestyle, while Warburton will tackle the 110 freestyle and both the junior and senior 220-yard breaststroke events.

Wheaton is entered in the junior 110 butterfly, the senior backstroke and the junior 220-yard medley.

Willey Pushed To Sidelines

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Paul Willey of Vancouver lost to Donald Bell of Bethesda, Md., 4-6, 6-2, 9-7 Tuesday in the second round of the 58th annual Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis championship.

Henry Van Rensselaer of Greenwich, Conn., an unseeded 37-year-old former Princeton player, upset Gil Shea of Los Angeles, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3. Shea, ranked ninth in the U.S., was seeded third in the tournament.

It was the only upset of the day as defending champion Vic Seixas and all other seeded players won their matches with little difficulty.

Seixas defeated Fred McNair of Washington, 6-2, 6-3.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR
KENT, O. (NEA)—Dr. Carl E. Erickson was appointed director of health, physical education and athletics at Kent State University. He is a former Boston University football and baseball star.

Hank Majors' Handiest In Late-Inning Clutches

NEW YORK (AP)—Hank Aaron of Milwaukee Braves is the leading clutch hitter in the major leagues.

A system devised by The Associated Press, in which tabulations of all game-winning blows are kept, shows Aaron is tops with seven.

He also leads the National League in batting, home runs and runs batted in.

In the AP tabulations, credit for a game-winning blow is given to each player who puts his club ahead to stay in the sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth or extra innings.

Only actual runs batted in count. A steal of home is not included.

HOAK, SKOWRON CLOSE
Close behind Aaron in the clutch department are Don Hoak of Cincinnati Redlegs and Bill Skowron of New York Yankees. Hoak has produced six game-winners while Skowron tops the American League with five.

Aaron's key blows have come against Philadelphia Phils and Pittsburgh Pirates, twice each, and Brooklyn Dodgers, New York Giants and Cincinnati, once each. Three of them were homers, one a triple, two were singles and one was a sacrifice fly.

Hoak, a pleasant surprise for the Redlegs, has hit with telling effect against the Dodgers, his former teammates. His payoff safeties helped beat them three times in late innings—once with a grand-slam homer and twice with two-run blasts.

PINCH-HIT HOMER
Skowron, his league's pace-setter in runs batted in, had game-winners against Chicago White Sox, Baltimore Orioles, Boston Red Sox, Washington Senators and Kansas City Athletics. His most vital effort was a pinch-hit grand-slam home run

PRO GRID PROBE

Bell Tells Congress Reserve Clause Vital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League told Congress today pro football needs both a player draft and a reserve clause to survive.

Bell said in testimony prepared for the House anti-trust sub-committee that without these and other "equalizing" practices "the highly competitive and colorful sport that we know today would come to an end."

He contended the Supreme Court's decision holding pro football subject to anti-trust laws "jeopardizes the continued existence" of the game.

Bell, a former player and coach, was the initial witness as the sub-committee delved into football as part of its investigation of the legal status of pro sports enterprises.

The Supreme Court's football ruling last winter touched off the inquiry. While declaring football open to anti-trust regulation, the court left unchanged previous decisions exempting baseball.

Now the sub-committee headed by Rep. Celler D-N.Y. wants to determine whether all professional team sports should be treated alike by legislation—either within or without the anti-monopoly statutes.

Celler's group already has heard from baseball witnesses and plans later to look into basketball and hockey.

ANSONIA, Conn. — Karl Heinz Guder, 127, Germany, knocked out Joe Walcott, 132, Bridgeport, N.J.

We knew
we had a "honey" of a car

BUT...

...this year's Pontiac has even us running out of praise for the good looks that have put it at the top as Canada's most wanted car. Could be good styling always comes out on top.

Remember when all the male fashion magazines were full of pink shirts? Store windows blushed pink on every side and, for a little while at least, shirt dealers were very happy. Then the clearance sales began and dealers tried everything they could to dispose of the pink shirts that people weren't buying any more. One more fancy fad had come and gone.

We think there's a moral in this that applies to the car business, too. And when we take a look at Pontiac's sales record this year, we're sure of it. Canadians everywhere appreciate Pontiac's quiet, graceful beauty... the absence of flash and gaudiness. They recognize and appreciate the sort of workmanship in every detail that only General Motors can put into a car. They like the friendly treatment and the efficient service they find whenever they deal with a Pontiac dealer.

But see for yourself as you drive. Just count the Pontiacs... and you'll agree the rising tide of Pontiac popularity is turning into a veritable torrent.

GENUINE 'WATER BABY' was seal picked up in dipnet by tugboat deck-hand Don Sherwood, who saw seal beside tug in Stuart Channel and feared it would be hit by propeller. He took it home where his wife, Jean, found it would take only warm milk from baby's bottle. Estimated at two weeks old, it liked to lie in the sun. It has been sent to zoo in Nanaimo. ISLAND DIGEST

Fish Lure Lured More Fish Lures

COURTENAY—Vancouver Island's world-famous fishing rivers and lakes give up more than fish under the right circumstances.

Casting in Oyster River a few days ago, Sgt. John Barre, RCAF photographer at Station Comox, was having tough luck. He had caught no fish and lost all but one of his lures.

When it snagged in mid-stream the irate sergeant decided to do something about it. Wading into the hip-deep water, following his line, he eventually reached the spot where the hook seemed to be snagged. Reaching down he caught hold of an old jute bag, and dragged it free.

He struggled back to shore with the idea of unhooking the offending bag and at the same time removing it as a fisherman's hazard.

Retrieving his lure, Sgt. Barre just about to throw the old sack into the underbrush when something caught his eye. Another lure!—and another lure—and still another.

Imbedded solidly in the old jute sack was a total of nine beautiful lures all in top shape and now belonging to a happy airman.

Other fishermen's bad luck was his fortune. But he didn't catch any fish.

GRIMMER BAY NEW SITE OF FERRY SLIP

PENDER ISLAND—Grimmer Bay, south of Port Washington, has been chosen as site for the new government ferry slip here.

H. K. Gann, inspector of ferries, and J. Copeman, engineer, both of Victoria, explored the shore line and took soundings that resulted in selection of the new site.

The old slip at Port Washington will be abandoned, but in the meantime it is handling all traffic that used to land and depart at the Hope Bay dock via the Cy Peck. The latter wharf is out of commission because of the loss of a concrete counterweight on the weekend.

JAGAT SINGH BAINS

Mishap Victim Given $25,000, 40% Damages

Accident victim Jagat Singh Bains, 50, was awarded $25,000 damages in a judgment of Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane handed down in Supreme Court here Tuesday.

Over-all damages were set at $63,000, but the victim was judged 60 per cent to blame for the accident last Oct. 12 which left him in a paralyzed state approaching a coma, he was awarded the lesser sum.

The suit on behalf of Bains was against 18-year-old driver Robert Fyfe, and his father, E. W. Fyfe, owner of the panel truck which collided with the victim who was riding a bicycle at Douglas and Garbally.

The judge ruled the young driver was only 40 per cent to blame for the accident and so should pay only 40 per cent of damages.

The judgment said the cyclist had failed to keep a sufficiently sharp lookout for traffic, and that the truck was proceeding normally except for the driver's failure to reduce speed when his vision was obstructed.

Special damages such as medical care came to about $3,000.

Nfld. Folk Fail to Ask For Pensions

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Carl Abbott, director of the old age pension division in Newfoundland, stated recently he believes hundreds of Newfoundlanders 70 and over don't bother to apply for pensions.

He deduced this, he said, from death notices that often reveal a person over 70 who is not on his department's records.

Mr. Abbott said the department conducted a survey several years ago to find out just why the aged were ignoring federal benefits.

"Most of the answers fell into three categories," he says. "I never got around to it," "I couldn't find my birth certificate," "I didn't bother."

He said one woman, eligible for the pension since confederation with Canada in 1949, lost $2,500 by not registering.

Asked why she delayed applying for so long, she replied, "I just couldn't bother."

Says Mr. Abbott, rather desperately: "We are very anxious to contact Newfoundlanders 70 years and over who are not registered with us."

"It's this department's job to contact these people... but we can't pay them if they don't register."

JULY BUSINESS REVIEW

Boom Levelling Off, Expansion Continues

MONTREAL (CP)—The forces which created the Canadian boom of the last two years have diminished, the Bank of Montreal says, but are still felt as the economy enters the second half of the year.

The bank says in its July business review it is becoming evident the pace of expansion is much less rapid than a year ago. In some industries sales curves have levelled off. In others they tilted downwards.

This, coupled with higher unemployment, would "command close attention in the months ahead."

Expansion continues, however, and the biggest factor remains the "huge and still rising" volume of money invested in new plants, equipment and housing.

The bank says the total value of work put in place this year may reach $8,776,000,000, topping official February estimates by $243,000,000 and last year's spending by $876,000,000.

INFLATION STILL EVIDENT

The inflation which characterized the volume of investment is still evident, it says. Thus, the Bank of Canada has maintained its tight money policy.

Consumers pay $2 per cent more for goods and services than they did a year ago in "impressive evidence" of inflation. The consumer price index stood at a record 121.6 at the beginning of June. Prices of 1949, the base year, equal 100.

Further evidence of inflationary pressure was to be found in Canada's trade balance. Home demand for materials and equipment raised the level of imports while exports rose only slightly.

The deficit was largely offset by the influx of foreign capital into Canada, said the bank. Foreign money continued to pour in, especially from the United States, because of high Canadian interest rates.

PRODUCTION CUTBACKS

Some Canadian industries, particularly those producing consumer durables such as refrigerators, washing machines and television sets, have reduced output.

"For the most part, however, the strength of demand for capital materials and equipment and the buoyancy of consumer spending and export sales have led to the maintenance of a high volume of production."

But production generally had levelled off because of the offsetting trends.

Output and employment were still significantly higher than a year ago, however, and 1957 would probably be a record-breaking year in nearly every major sector of the economy.

Wage Demand Wins Backing From Doctors

VANCOUVER (CP)—Doctors at Royal Columbia Hospital in New Westminster Tuesday condemned the hospital board for rejecting a wage increase for nurses, recommended by a conciliation board.

Nurses at the hospital have voted to strike July 30 unless the increase is granted.

In a letter to the hospital board, the doctors at Royal Columbia said:

"We earnestly urge the board to adopt this immediately, thereby averting a strike and assuring continued patient care," the letter said.

"We are of the opinion that the onus for any resultant medical calamity... will be the direct responsibility of the board."

Sunkist ORANGES bring magic to—SALADS!

Canadian SALAD WEEK

JULY 25TH TO AUGUST 3RD

MEN REALLY GO FOR CRISP, COOL SALADS!

And salads are so good for the whole family. Refreshing salad greens provide important vitamins and elements needed by children for normal growth... by adults for continued physical fitness...

MAKE YOUR SALADS COLOURFUL!

The bright golden colours of fresh orange slices or sections add a delightful touch to any salad. Fresh Sunkist Oranges blend so well with Canadian salad fruits and vegetables.

ORANGE SALAD BOAT by Sunkist

To make the salad, arrange a row of peeled, sliced Sunkist oranges with apple slices on one side of the bowl, and orange slices alternating with bananas on the other. Fill the center with chunks of fresh watermelon and tuck in decorative bits of green around the edges. If you don't have a decorative boat-shaped bowl, use an oval meat platter and dress it up with these fresh fruits. Add iced tea with lemon and sweet rolls for a delightful summer lunch.

CANADIAN SPECIAL SALAD by Sunkist

1 clove garlic
1 small head lettuce
1 small bunch romaine, endive or chicory
1 large green pepper, cut in rings
8 to 10 stuffed green olives

3 stalks celery, sliced diagonally and cut in 1-inch lengths
3 cups Sunkist orange slices (about 6 oranges)
1/2 teaspoon salt
Western Sour Cream Dressing coarsely ground black pepper

Rub large salad bowl with cut clove garlic. Tear greens into bite-size pieces and place in bowl. Add green pepper rings, stuffed green olives, Sour Cream Dressing to moisten. Sprinkle lightly with enough Western pepper. Makes 6-8 servings.

WESTERN SOUR CREAM DRESSING

2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons grated onion
1/2 teaspoon coarsely ground pepper
1/2 teaspoon whole dill seeds

1/2 teaspoon powdered dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
1 cup sour cream

Combine all ingredients, stirring well. Store in refrigerator in jar with screw top. Serve on Canadian Special Salad.

The finest oranges and lemons grown carry the Sunkist Trade Mark right on the skin. Accept nothing less.

Famed French Actor, Sacha Guitry, Dies

PARIS (AP)—Sacha Guitry, famous French actor who delighted audiences for more than half a century, died Tuesday after a long illness. He was 73.

Guitry won fame as author, playwright, poet, actor and director but was most widely known as a performer. Attendees said one of his last feeble sentences before he died was: "I must not miss my cue."

He died in bed in the house he inherited from his father on the Left Bank near the Eiffel Tower and the broad Champs de Mars.

Guitry had been ill for more than two years—confined to a wheel-chair with neuritis that left him partly paralyzed.

PRODIGY AT FIVE

Guitry was a Russian and began his career in his homeland. A prodigy, he appeared on the stage before Czar Alexander III when he was five.

During his career he wrote, produced and played the lead in more than 100 plays and movies. He also wrote books, essays, verses and librettos for several operas.

Guitry stayed in France during the Second World War occupation. Severe criticism greeted publication of a book of essays entitled "From Joan of Arc to Philippe Petain, 1429-1942."

After the liberation of France from Hitler's Nazis, Guitry was held for two months with suspected German collaborators, and then was cleared of charges and released.

TRIED 11 SCHOOLS

After the debut in Russia, Alexandre Pierre Georges Guitry, known as Sacha only on the stage, was brought to France for schooling. He failed to merit a diploma at any of 11 schools or colleges.

His first play, a one-act verse production, was put on in Paris in 1902 when he was 17.

In 1919 he played his first screen role. He later adapted some of his stage production to

HE'LL NEVER STOP LEARNING, TRAINING

Tenor Butchart's Garden Guest Impressed

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

"What amazes me about a beautiful place like Victoria is that there are no big live shows running through the tourist season."

Charles Edward O'Neill, towering 28-year-old dramatic tenor from Connecticut and guest star for Thursday's Butchart Gardens symphony concert, believes visiting Americans and other vacationers would welcome some after-dark entertainment.

"After all, everyone doesn't fish."

He was impressed with the attendance figure of upwards of 6,000 for last week's Butchart concert.

"That's a lot of people for anywhere on the continent," he commented.

O'Neill, all nearly six-and-a-half feet and 280 pounds of him, is dedicated to the process of becoming an operatic singer and a top-notch one. He knows there is only one way to the top—which is never to feel you have reached it.

He does not envision and does not wish to envision, an end to training and studying. At first he sang because it came naturally, then he started to train and had to learn how not to do things as well as how to do them.

"I used to be most egotistical," he tells you emphatically. "It took my wife—a wonderful woman—and my beloved teacher to show me the importance of humility."

"The dramatic tenor and coloratura soprano are the hardest voices to train," he comments. "Great care must be taken not to force these voices."

Improper use, even now, could destroy his chance of development, he will tell you.

At the moment he is studying operatic roles at the Metropolitan, in preparation for a possible debut this coming season. The repertoire includes Aida, Carmen, Tosca, Pagliacci, and Samson and Delilah.

42-YEAR COURTSHIP ENDS AT ALTAR

LONDON (UP) — Jack McCord, a 74-year-old Alaska pioneer, will marry America's leading woman lawyer here Thursday after a 42-year-old courtship that stretched from the Yukon to Cleveland and London.

The bride is Miss Grace Doering, 66, Cleveland, who met McCord at the San Francisco world fair of 1915 when he left his Yukon gold strikes to see the sights of the big city.

JOKERS RUIN TRICK

Hemeon Brings Home, Magicians' 'Harvey'

Mr. Hemeon attended a convention of the Pacific Coast Association of Magicians with his wife-assistant, Lottie.

U.K. to Cut Crack Guards Regiments

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's crack guards regiments are to be trimmed under the government's plan to halve the army's strength by the end of 1962, it was announced today.

A government white paper said the cuts will reduce the army's strength to between 160,000 and 170,000 men. Present strength is about 370,000.

The new streamlined army will be produced in two phases. The bulk of the cuts in the fighting arms will be completed by the end of 1959, the remainder in the following three years.

The Brigade of Guards will be reduced by two battalions — the third battalion of the Coldstream and the third battalion of the Grenadiers.

Both these front-line regiments date back to the 17th century. The Coldstreams were formed in 1650 by Oliver Cromwell. Six years later the Grenadiers were established.

The rest of the infantry will be reduced by 15 battalions. This will involve 21 amalgamations of regiments — any of them with names that ring through Britain's battle history. The armored corps will lose eight regiments, the artillery 20, the engineers five.

Former MGM Boss Denies Attempt To Regain Job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Louis B. Mayer, ex-boss of Hollywood MGM studio, denied Tuesday that he is campaigning to get his old job back.

His reply was in response to a statement Monday by president Joseph R. Vogel of MGM's parent firm, Loew's Incorporated, that a stockholder group coached by Mayer is trying to win control of Loew's.

Vogel announced he was calling a special meeting of stockholders Sept. 12. He said he would ask for the ouster as directors of Joseph Tomlinson, a Toronto contractor, and Stanley Meyer.

Vogel said Tomlinson and Meyer were working to seize control of the company "against the interest of stockholders." He charged Mayer with being the "guiding spirit" of the alleged move.

Mayer made the denial before boarding a plane for San Francisco. He said he may have a statement before the stockholders' meeting.

CAR POOLS SUGGESTED FOR GARDEN CONCERT

An appeal was issued today by Ian Ross, owner-manager of Butchart Gardens, for those planning to attend the final Victoria Symphony concert of the season, Thursday evening, to form groups, thus sharing transportation.

While a limit to the number of people the gardens will hold has yet to be reached, parking facilities are limited. Fewer cars therefore, will make it possible for more people to enjoy the concert.

Two buses, operating on a shuttle system, will again convey patrons of the "fairland" concerts from the furthest parking point to the gates.

Unimpeded departure from the gardens has been made possible by Mr. Ross and the Saanich police through well-organized parking which allows any car to leave at any time, and by this season's new two-lane dispersal.

MONTÉ ROBERTS

Anybody like to join Whoa-Backs, Unanimous?

Whoa-Backs, Unanimous, is an organization which I have just this minute thought up, but I feel sure it will go a long way.

Whoa-Backs, Unanimous, is open to all persons who agree with me that things are going along too blamed fast these days.

Whoa-Backs, Unanimous, is dedicated to slowing things down.

I will admit my interest in WBU may be due to my advancing years. Psychiatrists could no doubt prove the desire to launch this organization stems from my unconscious wish to hold back the hands of time.

This is no doubt true. But there must be many kindred spirits who would appreciate a slackening of the maddening pace of everyday life. I assure you, they are all welcome in Whoa-Backs, Unanimous.

Nor should it be thought that WBU is embarked on a losing cause. I can see no reason why victories can't be scored on a dozen fronts.

For instance, one of the first acts of WBU would be to prevail on the publishers of the Saturday Evening Post to publish the Saturday Evening Post on Saturday Evening, not the previous Tuesday morning.

From this beginning it would be an easy step to persuade other magazine publishers to publish the August issues of monthly magazines in August, not in July.

It is too late to change the situation this year (see advertisements in this issue), but by next year Whoa-Backs, Unanimous, hope to persuade the furniture manufacturers to hold their August sale in August.

A much tougher job for WBU will be the campaign to Whoa-Back the automobile people.

Any minute now, the automobile people will unveil the 1958 models, thus making the 1957 models obsolete in time to start designing the 1959 models.

The minutes, hours, days and years rush past at a fast enough pace as it is, without this added assistance from the car manufacturers.

Only a united front can have any effect.

Do your part. Join Whoa-Backs, Unanimous.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A Washington motorist wants to know if he can bring his cat to Victoria in August—and has written to publicity commissioner George Warren about it.

"We would like to know about bringing a cat into Victoria and if it should need shots and things," the letter said.

Mr. Warren welcomes everyone to Victoria and cats are not excluded. He said so in his reply to Renton, Washington.

Ten by-laws will be considered at city council meeting Thursday.

They cover local improvements, working agreements with commissionaires and firemen, traffic and the gas station exemption by-law dealing with closing hours at which a public North-South-Otto Leemont hearing will be held.

World famed lieder singer Aksel Schlotz will be heard in recital at Victoria College, Friday, at 8:15 p.m.

The recital is sponsored by the Victoria College Summer session.

The public is invited to attend. There is no charge.

Some 25 persons have applied for the position of truant officer since the job opened about two months ago, senior municipal school inspector John Gough said Tuesday.

Decision on the appointment will not be known until the school board meets in August.

The job requires "some social work experience," Mr. Gough said, as it is not merely a question of finding children and taking them to school, but also to determine why they have not been attending.

Air Force Band Enthralls Crowd In Beacon Hill

Band of the Royal Canadian Air Force played to an audience of more than 1,000 in Beacon Hill Park Tuesday night, prior to their appearance at today's Government House garden party.

The Air Force musicians, a number of whom come from British Columbia, delighted the audience with their expert rendition of martial, ballet and show music, earning particular plaudits for their melody from "My Fair Lady."

SWING THAT AXE

Working drawing for statue of logger, based on Times photo taken by Bill Halkett at Sooke loggers' sports, has been prepared by W. St. J. Miller, a patent attorney who divides his time between Calgary and Victoria.

Mr. Miller, an enthusiastic supporter of the idea to make the logger statue a centennial project, will present the drawing to L. J. Wallace, chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee.

Police Asked To Take Stand In Bottle Case

J. Alan Baker, legal counsel for teacher Pat Thomas in the "broken bottle" case, has sent a letter to the Esquimalt Police Commission asking whether or not the police intend to lay a charge against the youth involved.

"Until we know what the police intend to do, Mr. Thomas cannot decide whether to lay a charge himself," Mr. Baker said.

The letter relates a legal scramble following an incident at Esquimalt High School May 31, in which a 17-year-old student allegedly threatened Mr. Thomas with the jagged end of a bottle and said "I'm going to kill you."

Mr. Thomas says he left for Vancouver in June with the understanding that police would lay a charge against the youth.

Esquimalt Chief Gilbert Stancombe maintains the charge should be laid by Mr. Thomas.

"I still have some hope that the police will do something about it," the teacher said today from Vancouver.

He stated the police commission "has no business" writing a letter to the Greater Victoria School Board asking whether he intends to lay a charge.

"The school board isn't my representative in this case," he said. "If (the commissioners) want to know anything about my attitude, why don't they ask me or Mr. Baker?"

NOT SCHOOL STUDENTS

The chief's suggestion that a letter from the youth's father may lead to an investigation of delinquency in the high school is "outrageous," Mr. Thomas said.

Since the youth is not a school student, "This case has nothing directly to do with internal school discipline," he said. "The police cannot shift their responsibility on to the school staff."

School board chairman W. H. Goldby said today a special meeting of the board definitely will be called to consider the letter from the police commission "if any useful purpose can be achieved."

Premier Still Tight-Lipped On By-Elections

Premier Bennett insisted today he still has given "no special thought" to the dates of three provincial by-elections which must be held this year.

To reports that he will name the dates at a Social Credit banquet at Cloverdale Saturday night, Mr. Bennett said:

"The premier doesn't announce these things. It has to come from the provincial secretary."

The Cloverdale banquet follows a nominating convention for Delta Riding, one of the three now unrepresented. The other two are Cariboo and Burnaby.

Writ for the Burnaby by-election, made necessary by the death last January of veteran CCF member Ernest Winch, must be issued not later than Aug. 9. Polling must take place within 60 days after that.

Last dates for issuing of writs in the other two ridings are Oct. 27 for Delta and Jan. 10, 1958, for Cariboo, but it is expected that all three will be held on the same day in September.

Miss Ruth Cowper To Be New Matron Of DVA Hospital

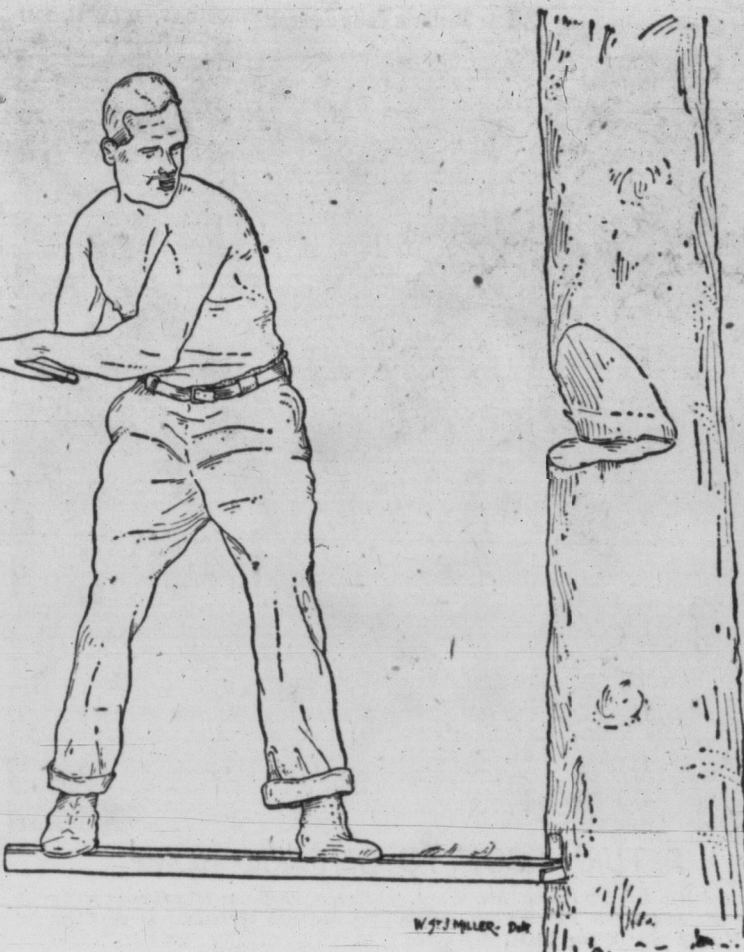

Miss Ruth Cowper, B.A., RN, a graduate of the Ottawa Civil Hospital School and the University of Toronto, has been named the new matron of Veterans' Hospital in Victoria.

Miss Cowper was with the RCAMC overseas during the war and has been a member of the Department of Veterans Affairs since 1947.

Her last appointment was with the Westminster Veterans' Hospital in London, Ont. Miss Cowper replaces Miss J. D. Roberts who retired at the end of May.

Famous Swimmers Arriving For Jaycees Strait Swim

With only 12 days to go before the mass Jaun de Fuca swim, internationally known swimmers are beginning to arrive in Victoria to train for the Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored race.

Two contestants, Jene Perle, Long Beach, Calif., and Jason Greganos, New York, a former Greek army major, arrived here Tuesday to start their training.

Amy Hiland of Long Beach, Calif., began her training several weeks ago.

Several other swimmers are expected to arrive here from California and eastern United States within the next few days.

In all, 18 swimmers will take part in the race on August 4.

Mike Goegehan of Campbell River, and Bert Thomas who swam the Strait last year, were refused admission in the race because they filed their applications after the July 15 deadline.

Lieut. George Colwill, chairman of the Jaycee swim committee, said the two swimmers had plenty of time to file their applications before the deadline.

"We thought they were not interested," he said. "The two applications came too late."

California will have the largest representation in the swim. There are six. All are experienced swimmers who have won or participated in major swimming events in the United States.

Victoria will be represented by five swimmers.

The remainder will be from Vancouver and eastern United States.

The Junior Chamber has set aside a jackpot of $10,000 for swimmers who cross the strait. The first prize is $5,000; 2nd, $2,500; 3rd, $1,500 and 4th, $1,000.

If none of the swimmers cross the strait, the prizes will be cut in half.

The chances are high that some of the contestants will cross the strait, providing, of course, there is no high winds. The tide on Aug. 4 will be at its lowest ebb and swimmers will be challenged by few swift currents.

Other entrants in the swim are: Ben Laughren, Cpl. Bruce Holmes, Anita Long, Allan Small and Billie Benedict, all of Victoria; Paul Herron, Oakland, Calif.; Fred Rogers, Myra Thompson and Toule Blake, San Francisco; Gerhard Haufmann, Anna Burlan, Vancouver; Janice Whyte, Detroit, Mich.; Charles Grover, Roxbury, Mass.; Robert Black, Atlantic City, New Jersey.

THURSDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Rotary: Empress Hotel noon luncheon. Ernest Heybroek will report on the Rotary International Convention at Lucerne.

Oak Bay Kiwanis: Oak Bay Beach Hotel, 6:15 p.m. Dick Batey of CJVI will speak.

72 DEGREES ON THURSDAY CITY OFFICIAL TEMPERATURE

Victoria's official thermometer is expected to touch 72 degrees Thursday at Gonzales Observatory, according to the weatherman.

It will be even warmer in sheltered areas in the district, he said.

Minimum temperature overnight will be 50 degrees and winds will be light.

Decision Reserved In Robbery Hearing

Decision on a charge of robbery with violence against Donald Quaithe, 130 Linden, was reserved to Aug. 1 by Magistrate Henry C. Hall in city police court today.

Only Crown evidence was heard.

Quaithe was charged on complaint of Donald William Carson, 618 Grenville, who said he was beaten and robbed of his car and $110 the night of July 8 on Harbor Road, the car being recovered at Lamson Street School next morning.

Defence counsel George Gregory submitted that if the case were brought to a judge and jury, the evidence heard today would cause a verdict of not guilty.

He claimed protection of the Canada Evidence Act before testifying. Cameron said he left the car for a few minutes with Paul G. Cook, RCN, who has pleaded guilty to robbery with violence.

When they returned—Carson and Quaithe were still in the car with a bottle of wine—Cameron says he fell asleep and the thing he knew he was being awakened in Lamson School grounds.

MONEY DIVIDED

He said he went with three others towards his home, a short distance away, and in a woodshed split $72, which someone had given him. He did not know who.

Mr. Gregory suggested Cook had told Cameron earlier he intended to roll Carson.

"Yes," Cameron replied.

He did not know, he admitted, whether Quaithe was present during the time he was asleep in the car.

Oak Bay Student Tops List

Merritt Girl Leads All B.C.

Oak Bay High School graduate Robert Michael Taylor, 18, has been named top student in the Greater Victoria school district.

List of grade 12 scholarship winners in B.C. was released today by the department of education. A statement of marks has been mailed to each student.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Taylor, 2795 Foul Bay Road, Robert scored an average of 91.6 per cent in June provincial examinations.

He will receive a Chris Spencer Foundation Award of $225 and a general proficiency scholarship of $175. Robert intends to enter Victoria College in September, majoring in history or English.

Governor General's Silver Medal was awarded to Catherine Ann Batten of Merritt, B.C., for top average in the province, 94.8 per cent.

SECOND HIGHEST

Vancouver student Ronald Milne Lees won the Governor General's bronze medal for second highest standing. His average was 93.3 per cent.

In the past nine years, Victoria students have won seven silver medals. Last year's winner was John Gilliland, graduate of Victoria High School who is now attending Victoria College. His average at that time was 97.25 per cent.

ISLAND STUDENTS

Two up-Island students tied for top honors in school districts 62-74 and 79. Scholarships amounting to $400 each have been awarded to Robert Michael Blake of Alberni and Katherine Joan Casper of Nanaimo. Each earned an average of 89.5 per cent.

Students who failed to pass grade 12 examinations will be given credit for all papers in which they obtained 50 per cent or more. Supplemental examinations will be held in regular examination centres Aug. 19 to 24.

VANCOUVER ACTED

The premier said the City of Vancouver has been allowing rebates to landlords renting out three single rooms, and the new order is to extend that practice throughout the province.

The relaxation order followed protests by Victoria Social Credit MLA and Alderman Donald Smith against interpretation of the act. He urged that all resident homeowners who rent out any number of rooms receive the rebate.

George Gregory, Victoria Liberal MLA, charged that the government had made a "mockery" of the legislature by making a new interpretation of the act.

Premier Bennett said today the extension of the rebate to include sleeping rooms was within the statutory limitation of the act.

Top Service Athletes For Highlight Games

A march-past of British Columbia's top servicemen athletes will be the highlight of the opening ceremonies at the annual Victoria Highland Games and service sports at Macdonald Park Saturday.

Air Commodore A. D. Ross, GC, CBE, CD, commander of 5 Air Division, RCAF, in Vancouver, will open the games officially, then will take the salute of the athletes.

Navy competitors will wear blue uniforms, the army red, and the air force white. Sea Cadets also will take part in the march past.

The games will constitute inter-service championships for B.C. as far as the track and field events are concerned, but the "heavy events," such as hammer throw, discus throw, shot put, and tossing the caber, will be open to all comers.

Highland dancing and piping events will take up a large proportion of the program, with more than 200 entries already on hand, including one of the largest totals ever from outside the province.

Dancing and piping will start at 9 a.m., and the sports at 1:30 p.m. A Sea Cadet tug of war has been scheduled.

Official opening and parade, with upwards of 70 athletes taking part, will be at 2 p.m. Massed bands will play for the ceremony.

CAR-WASHING STAND on the Safe-way parking lot, Burnside and Tillam, will be opened Saturday at 9 a.m. by the Optimist-Evening Club of Victoria. Volunteer members will wash cars from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays through the summer to raise money for boys' work projects. Above, getting in shape for the first car are president John McAllister (left) and ways and means chairman Joe Burns. (—Times photo)

No More Bathtime Battle If Dog Has Dry Shampoo

By PENNY SAVER

Aren't dogs the spoiled critters these days! They don't even have to endure being immersed in a bathtub and scrubbed with soap and a brush anymore, and what's more important, their owners don't have to have the ordeal of doing the scrubbing.

There's a new dry shampoo for dogs (and cats, too) in a local store that means that even a weekly bath won't be much of a chore.

The shampoo comes in a pressurized can, and you just spray a few blobs of the soapy lather onto the dog.

Then you rub it all over him, and wrap him in a towel and rub him until he's dry and fluffy. It's an ideal method for cool weather, as the dog doesn't have a chance to get chilled. And since he's hardly dampened at all, he won't get himself all muddy by leaping straight from his bath into the nearby loose dirt.

The shampoo kills fleas and deodorizes at the same time. I'm told that dogs really enjoy the whole process!

A good-sized tin of the shampoo costs $1.49.

CANNED COOL

I knew that you can buy canned heat, but I've somehow missed the fact that you can also buy canned cold.

You place the can, unopened, in the refrigerator until you're ready to use it; then put it, still unopened, into your cooling chest or daypicnic basket with the food you want to keep cool.

The cold will last until you're ready to eat. It's also useful for a fisherman to keep his catch fresh until he gets home, and you won't have any bother with dripping melted ice.

A tin is $1.19.

LETHAL WEAPON

Seems to me that toy water pistols are getting more lethal all the time. No longer does a water pistol only give out a squirt or two of water before it has to be re-filled.

I found one that has a storage tank connected by a tube to the pistol. The tank can be filled with water and put into a large jeans pocket or a shirt front, so that the young gunman can carry out a prolonged attack. Price is 75 cents.

Give me a ring at 2-3131 if you'd like to know where I shopped to day.

"Why don't you stumble awkwardly over and join their little game until you run out of wind?"

Glorious Weather Adds To Success of Party

Rev. J. C. McDonald opened the garden party at Metchosa in the beautiful gardens of Capt. Miss Glyde and Mrs. McCreight and Mrs. H. E. Hubbard. The party, arranged by members of the Women's Auxiliary, St. Mary's Anglican Church, Metchosa, was a great success, due to the glorious weather which brought out many friends of the parish from Victoria.

Ronald Weir operated a public address system and music added to the pleasant atmosphere. A ballet dance was performed by Frances Weir during the afternoon.

Sales proceeded briskly at all the stalls, to make a net result of $365 for the W.A. General conveners were Mrs. R. Weir and Mrs. J. F. Taylor. Mrs. G. Nelson and Mrs. J. Taylor were in charge of a home-cooking stall, and Mrs. L. Evans and Mrs. C. Rhode managed a Griffith.

RETURN SOON TO ONTARIO HOME

Rev. and Mrs. Handley Perkins, Elspeth and John, are returning to their Toronto home on Monday after a few weeks' visit with friends and relatives in Victoria. They motored up-Island on the weekend, and Mrs.

Perkins, the former Miss Gwendolyn Cox of the city, who hasn't been on the Island for 15 years, was "so interested to see the changes." The family will travel back on the "Canadian."

On Etiquette

Toasts and fees:

What is the amount that the bridegroom gives to the clergyman at a wedding of about fifty guests? At the trousseau tea, the groom's mother will receive with the bride-to-be and her mother. Does the groom's mother wear a hat? Is it correct for the best man to propose a toast to the bride, and do the bride and groom remain seated when it is proposed? Do they drink to the toast or not? What should the groom say when he responds? Is it proper to click glasses?

Louise Davis answers:

The amount that the bridegroom gives the clergyman isn't determined by the size of the wedding. It depends on what he wants to give and on how much he can afford. Twenty or 25 dollars is a fair figure but it might vary according to localities and their economic standards. However, the clergyman would be grateful for any amount, more or less, but he would never want anyone to go beyond his means just for the sake of a gift. I suggest that the bridegroom's mother wear a hat at the trousseau tea unless the bride's mother would like her to remove it. Even

Victoria Girl Becomes Bride At Recent Vancouver Ceremony

Of interest to Victorians is the recent wedding of Miss Verna Jean Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Graham, Southgate Avenue, Victoria, and William David Smythe, son of Mrs. J. D. Smythe, Ottawa. Rev. R. A. Redman officiated at the afternoon ceremony in Marpole United Church, Vancouver.

Pink and white floral arrangements decorated the church. The bride, charming in a pink wedding gown, walked up the aisle on the arm of her father. Velvet threaded beading and lace appliques outlined the border and Empire waistline of her dress, which was ballerina length with a bouffant skirt of tulle over taffeta. A coronet of lace and seed pearls held her veil in place. She carried a bouquet of cascading pale pink elfin roses, lily of the valley and stephanotis.

Mrs. Gordon Graham, matron-of-honor, and Miss Judy Smythe, bridesmaid, wore identical gowns of deep pink nylon over taffeta, with Empire waistline outlined with velvet ribbon. Miss Kathleen Auld, junior bridesmaid, wore a dress of pale pink, similarly styled. All carried deep pink elfin roses with stephanotis, and wore pink velvet headresses.

Mrs. Graham, mother of the bride, chose a dress of beige lace over satin, with beige accessories and a corsage of bronze roses. A deep turquoise taffeta dress with black accessories and a corsage of white roses created the costume of Mrs. Smythe, mother of the groom. Gordon Graham, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and Jim Spencer and Ken Vansacker were ushers.

After the wedding a reception was held at the Skyline Hotel at Richmond, where Mr. O. N. Wells, Sardis, B.C., proposed a toast to the bride's happiness, and are planning to make their home in Ottawa.

Salad Week Brings Zest to Summer Eating

This is the time of year when every member of the family craves a change of menu that will stimulate the appetite and still provide the nourishment active people need.

Salad week across Canada begins Thursday, and gives housewives the opportunity to make the most of the midsummer supply of fresh fruit and vegetables.

Here are some summery, though hearty salad recipes. They are easy to make and will keep from morning until suppertime without losing any of their appeal.

Party Chicken Salad

Two cups ready-cut macaroni, 2 well-beaten eggs; 1 cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 canned pimiento, chopped, 1 cup chopped onions, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 1/2 cup diced cucumber, 2 cups diced cooked chicken, cucumber slices for garnish.

Cook macaroni uncovered in rapidly-boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Rinse in cold water and drain again. Meantime, combine eggs, mayonnaise and salt and cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thick. Combine all ingredients and mix well. Turn into individual molds and chill one hour. Unmold and garnish with cucumber slices. (Serves 6-8).

Macaroni Salad Ring

Two cups ready-cut macaroni, 2 tablespoons finely-chopped onion, 1/4 cup diced green pepper, 1/2 cup cucumber diced, 1/4 cup chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup mayonnaise. Cook macaroni uncovered in rapidly-boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Rinse in cold water and drain again. Mix lightly but thoroughly, and pack firmly into greased one-quart mold. Chill several hours.

Unmold and serve with assorted cold meats. (Serves 6).

Orange Cranberry and Avocado Salad

Two cups fresh cranberries, coarsely ground, 1 cup orange chunks, 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup chopped nuts, 2 medium avocados, 7 to 8 oranges, peeled and sectioned, salad greens.

Combine ground cranberries with orange chunks, sugar and chopped nuts; chill. Peel and slice avocados. Arrange alternating slices of avocado and orange sections in circles on crisp salad greens. Fill the centres with the chilled cranberry mixture. Serve with plump lemon wedges. Makes 8 servings.

Crab Salad—Western Style

Two cans Canadian crab meat, drained and pieces separated, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 1/2 cup chopped green pepper, 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped,

1 teaspoon grated onion, dash of Tabasco sauce, 1 teaspoon salt, freshly-ground pepper, 6 tablespoons mayonnaise or boiled salad dressing, 2 tablespoons chili sauce, 4 to 6 lettuce cups.

Combine crab meat, celery, green pepper and eggs. Sprinkle with grated onion, Tabasco sauce, salt and freshly-ground pepper. Mix together mayonnaise or boiled dressing with chili sauce. Add to salad ingredients and toss lightly. Heap into lettuce cups. Garnish with olives. Makes 4 to 6 servings, depending on size of lettuce cups.

SOUTH SEA CRAB SALAD

Three cups of crab, 1 cup thinly sliced celery, 1/2 tsp. onion salt, 1 minced, seeded green pepper, 1 can No. 2 pineapple chunks, drained, 1/2 cup sour cream or mayonnaise (or 1 3-oz. package creamed cheese thinned with milk).

Toss all ingredients together. Chill, serve on lettuce or nest of coleslaw. Makes six servings. For bridge parties, serve in halves of pineapples.

NEW APPOINTMENT

OTTAWA (CP)—Salvation Army Maj. Mabel Croll says there aren't enough hours in each day to do all the things she would like to accomplish. Nevertheless, the newly-appointed superintendent of Ottawa's Grace Maternity Hospital says nothing beats nursing as a career.

Native of Winnipeg, and superintendent of the Grace Hospital at Calgary for the last three years, Maj. Croll at the Ottawa hospital succeeds Brig. Ida Ellis, who retired after 35 years in the Salvation Army.

In Honor of the Bride

Miss Loretta Mitchell was honored at a shower given by her aunts, Mrs. R. Hussey and Mrs. R. Whaler, at the home of the latter on Chandler Road. The bride-elect was presented with a corsage of red roses and a rose-decorated basket of gifts from the guests present, who included Mrs. B. Hussey, Mrs. P. Mitchell, mother of the bride-to-be, Mrs. E. M. Hamilton, grandmother of Miss Mitchell, Mrs. R. Cathels, Mrs. J. Fournier, Mrs. F. Hamilton, Mrs. E. Harris, Mrs. R. Crocker, Mrs. M. Hamilton, Mrs. A. Hamilton, and Misses Julia Whalen, Marlene Mitchell, Janice Frame, Beverley Reside, Loretta Hussey, Eleanor Hamilton, June and Diana Cathels.

A second shower for Miss Mitchell was given by Miss Janice Frame and Miss Beverley Reside, at the home of the latter on Bouchier Street. A corsage of blue carnations was given to the bride-elect, while her mother received pink carnations and her grandmother, white carnations. Gifts were arranged on a table-decorated with pink, mauve and blue streamers. Guests at the shower were Mrs. F. Mitchell, Mrs. E. Hamilton, Mrs. K. Harrison, Mrs. A. Delisle, Mrs. D. Beck, Mrs. E. Holm, Mrs. A. Binks, and Misses Pat Moulds, Jo Ruid, Connie Sampson, Margaret Horne, Carole Salonen, Barbara Baker, Marlene Mitchell and Judy Reside.

Miss Stella Harper, August bride-elect, was honored at a shower given recently by her aunt, Mrs. H. Calver, at her home on Cedar Hill Road. Corsages of roses and violets were presented to the guest of honor, to her mother, Mrs. J. Harper, and to the mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. R. Thurstone. Gifts were arranged in a basket deco-

Ten Tips to Make Salads More Appealing, Colorful

Poultry Products Institute of Canada, Inc., suggests 10 easy tips to help make summer salads even more appealing.

Use appetizing color combinations. Be careful, for example, of mixing different shades of red such as that of radishes, beets and tomatoes.

Use a variety of greens in a tossed salad. Besides lettuce there is spinach, tender young beet tops, endive, chicory, Swiss chard and kale.

Contrast textures. Use a crisp food with cooked or soft foods, fruits or vegetables. This is one reason we add diced celery to chopped egg salad.

Have salad ingredients cut, torn (for greens), or broken into pieces convenient to eat.

Use imagination. Try combinations of foods new to you and your family.

Add eggs, cheese, turkey, chicken, meat or fish to salads to make them substantial main courses.

Have all ingredients clean, well chilled and drained.

Don't "over-dress" a salad. Use enough dressing to moisten, but not drown.

Vary dressing used and vary the flavorings. Try combining boiled dressing or mayonnaise with peanut butter, finely chopped hard-cooked eggs, chopped toasted almonds, chopped maraschino cherries, chopped ripe or green olives, chili sauce, sour cream, chopped sweet pickle, fruit juice or whipped cream. French dressing may be varied by adding catsup, grated cheese of various kinds, horse radish, finely chopped hard-cooked eggs, or various herbs or spices. Use flavorings which complement the salad ingredients.

Arrange salad attractively. A rounded arrangement has more eye appeal than a flat one.

EASY TOMATO SAUCE

This thin piquant tomato sauce does wonders for meat loaf or grilled hamburgers. "Easy Tomato Sauce" is easy to prepare because it's made with instant minced onion, the moisture-free onion that comes from the container finely chopped. Simply mix the onion with the other ingredients and simmer 10 minutes to let the rich, fresh onion flavor pervade the sauce.

One (8-oz.) can tomato hot sauce, 1 (8-oz.) can water, 1 bouillon cube, 2 teaspoons instant minced onion, or 2 tablespoons finely chopped ray onion, 1/4 teaspoon basil, rosemary or oregano.

Measure all ingredients into a saucepan. Bring to a boil and simmer 10 minutes. This makes a thin sauce to spoon over meat loaf or grilled hamburgers. The sauce may be thickened, if desired. Makes about 1 1/2 cups sauce.

Wandering Hanna Returns to Coast

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER — Christian George Hanna arrived here Tuesday after trying out several jobs in the Kamloops area and creating a fuss by "disappearing."

Hanna, the man without a country who was given conditional admission to Canada last January after 15 months on a Norwegian freighter, fled to Kamloops from Vancouver after forfeiting bail when he failed to appear in police court here on a drunk charge.

Jack Diamond, Vancouver packinghouse operator now has offered Hanna a job as a laborer.

While in Kamloops, Hanna turned down jobs with Canadian Pacific Railway, an Ashcroft sawmill and the Douglas Lake Cattle Company. At one point he "disappeared" from Ashcroft and could not be found.

Immigration Minister Davie Fulton said last week that Hanna's continued stay in Canada is "conditional on his good behavior."

NO SETTLEMENT

KITIMAT — Conciliation officer W. T. McLaughlin has left here without bringing about a settlement in the dispute between United Steelworkers of America and the Aluminum Company of Canada.

Negotiations are continuing. Steelworkers representative Wally Ross said Tuesday "No body has moved very much" from the original positions on wages, but "some progress has been made on the non-money items."

No application has been filed for a conciliation board.

REMANDED FOR SENTENCE

NELSON — Gerald Charles Lanigan, 20, of Nelson, was remanded for sentence after he pleaded guilty Tuesday to assault causing bodily harm to a young girl. Magistrate R. S. Nelson is awaiting a report from police in Saskatchewan, where Lanigan lived until about three months ago, before passing sentence.

The case had been adjourned from Monday so the accused might secure counsel. He did not do so. Prosecutor B. K. Arlidge called the girl and a Nelson doctor to testify.

FIRE RAZES PLANT

VERNON — Fire destroyed a wood-processing plant here Tuesday night.

The factory, one of the few sources in the Okanagan of wood shavings for packing around fruit in boxes, housed the operations of Western Canada Pad & Drum Company Ltd. and Wood Products Co-operative Ltd.

Forty-one persons were employed at the plant and a third shift of 16 was due to start work next week when fruit-packing activity would be at a peak.

BODY IDENTIFIED

VANCOUVER — Police have identified the body of a man found in Stanley Park early Tuesday as that of Thomas Carson, 45.

The body was found on a secluded trail with three stab wounds—two of them shallow—in the chest. Police said the dead man had an ice pick clutched in his right hand and another in his pocket. Police said Carson had no known relatives.

SEVEN-YEAR JAIL TERM

VANCOUVER — Charles Lavallee, 41, was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment Tuesday for having 49 capsules of heroin for the purpose of trafficking.

He was arrested June 15 with William Mukosey, 27, after they picked up a drug cache. Mukosey earlier had pleaded guilty and received a two-year term to be served at the expiration of a seven-year drug trafficking sentence he was already serving.

DRUG SENTENCES

VANCOUVER — Possession of drugs has brought sentences totaling 45 months to three persons here.

The three sentenced Tuesday were Jean Dale, 45, and Byron Boyd, 20, 18 months each; and 53-year-old William Weinstein, nine months.

BOMB HOAX CLEARS THEATRE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police evacuated 240 persons from a downtown theatre Tuesday night after an anonymous telephone caller said there was a bomb in the building. Nothing was found. The theatre was cleared a month ago for a similar hoax.

Electricians Move to Block Firing Threat

VANCOUVER—City electricians are moving to avoid a firing threat by insisting on a two-year contract in any settlement of their current strike.

This was made clear Tuesday by union business manager A. M. Morrison following a meeting with council during which fresh proposals were submitted by the strikers.

Aldermen asked the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers for their best terms on a one-year contract.

The union refused to consider a one-year deal and replied that its best offer was a two-year contract giving periodic raises totaling 23 per cent. (Originally the union demanded 20 per cent more on a one-year contract for the 37 men involved.)

During the strike, traffic signals have completely or partially failed at many important intersections.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS collected by Mrs. Ben Gerber (MOTHER OF 5)

Lots of babies take most readily to new foods at the beginning of a meal, when they're hungriest. But other little individualists take more happily to something new after those first hunger pangs are satisfied with familiar foods. After a few trials with both "styles" you'll soon determine which one your little one likes best.

Carriage cue. If baby takes an outdoor snooze in his carriage, be sure to park it in a shady spot. Sun beating down on a carriage roof can really make an oven of baby's little "bedroom."

Air-conditioning in the house? When you bring baby from outdoors into an air-conditioned room, slip on a shirt or wrapper to spare him the shock of a sudden chill.

New idea—for baby's dinner. Here's something new and different in the way of a taste surprise—something extra in the way of nutrition.

Gerber's Protein Cereal Food contains 35% protein... derived from a combination of oats, wheat, soy beans and yeast. What's more, its nutritional value is further fortified with iron, calcium and B-vitamins. Of course, it's precooked and ready to serve with milk, formula or other liquids. Best of all, it has a toasted, nut-like flavor that babies (especially picky ones) love. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

New, pleasant way to give baby extra protein in easy-to-digest form—new Gerber Protein Cereal Food. Today, most doctors specify food with a high protein content for rapidly growing babies and toddlers. Gerber Protein Cereal Food contains 35% protein... derived from a combination of oats, wheat, soy beans and yeast. What's more, its nutritional value is further fortified with iron, calcium and B-vitamins. Of course, it's precooked and ready to serve with milk, formula or other liquids. BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

Scouter Hugh Isaac from Calton, Alta., with assistant scoutmaster Arthur Hoigt, troop leader Hayse Yarrow, patrol leaders Robin Hood and Dale Gimbel are making a tour of Victoria. They left their home in Calton July 5, going to Powell River, where they were shown over the paper plant.

From there they went to the RCAF station at Comox, where they were shown radar installations and jets in flight.

Their next move was to Parksville, where they stayed at scouters Herb and Betty Bibbs for a week enjoying salmon fishing, digging clams and oysters. They were invited to make a tour of HMCS Fraser that was at Nanaimo Bay.

Leaving Parksville on July 19 for Victoria and staying at the YMCA, they have visited the museum, Thunderbird Park, attended the band concert in Beacon Hill Park, and made a trip to the observatory on Little Saanich Mountain.

Scouter George Bennett, SM of the Third Victoria Troop, took them for tours of the silverware plant, giving them the highlights of how silverware was made and polished.

They paid a visit to the Victoria Press plant, where they saw the Victoria Daily Times being printed, and they expressed their pleasure in being able to say they had seen the paper in the making at the Powell River plant and turned into finished product as a daily newspaper. During the visit they met Stuart Keate, publisher of the paper and president of the B.C. Council of the Boy Scouts Association.

A trip to Port Angeles is planned for today, where they hope to meet scouts of the U.S. They leave for Vancouver on Thursday, where they will be the guests of a West Vancouver troop.

Scouter Isaac and his boys expect to reach Calgary on July 30. The group comprises a real international party; among them are a Welshman, an Englishman, a Norwegian, a Bavarian, and one from the U.S.

MYSTERY CRUISE

VANCOUVER—A yacht with 17 persons and a helicopter aboard left Vancouver harbor at dawn today on a mystery cruise up the B.C. coast.

The 104-foot Seattle charter yacht Eudora was believed on a geological survey mission for a United States minerals firm. No one aboard would disclose the vessel's destination or exact purpose of the trip.

'FINEST WALK IN WORLD'

3-Day Slog Oddest Attraction Offered New Zealand Tourists

By J. C. GRAHAM

Canadian Press Correspondent

QUEENSTOWN, N.Z. (CP)—One of the world's oddest tourist attractions is offered visitors to New Zealand—a three-day slog, all on foot.

Walking is becoming a forgotten habit in this motorized age. Yet the strange thing is that New Zealand's 32-mile mountain hike is booming as never before.

The walk along the Milford Track, through rugged mountains into the heart of New Zealand's fiordland, has long been billed as "the finest walk in the world."

RIGGED TRIP

It can be tough work. There are few luxuries on the way. Sandflies by the million have to be fended off in some places. And at some stage of nearly every trip visitors are drenched by torrential downpours.

Yet everyone who has ever made the trip votes it an unforgettable experience. And all records for numbers using the track have been broken each year for several years past. Bookings for next season are heavier than ever.

Parties leave in groups of about 30 several times a week. Wheeled transport is out of the question and even horses are not provided. Those undertaking the journey must travel on foot or not at all.

In spite of this, tourists of more than 60 often hike over the track, and recommend it enthusiastically.

WOMEN'S CHOICE
The New Zealand government, which maintains the track and facilities along it, has been astonished to find more and more women among the walkers. They now total 80 per cent of those using the track, and this has made it necessary to rearrange the sleeping accommodation to cater for the difference in sexes.

Hikers set out from the head of Lake Te Anau, a high altitude lake set amid mountains in the southern part of New Zealand. The track takes them through scenes of great grandeur to the Pampolona huts for the first night. Accommodation is in bunks in dormitories and tourists find friendships spring up quickly in the cheerful self-service dining room.

VARIED LANDSCAPE

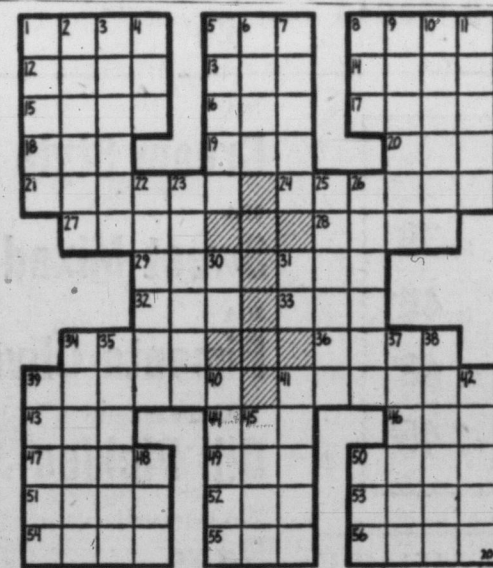

Past mountains draped with hundreds of waterfalls they climb on the second day to Mackinnon Pass. A guide takes them over rugged spurs and along precipices with fine views of glaciers and alpine terrain to the Quintin huts for the second night. Near here they get fine views of the 1904-foot-high Sutherland Falls, among the highest in the world.

The final stage brings the travellers into the fiordland rain forest, where bellbirds sing amid luxuriant ferns in scenes of breathtaking beauty rivaling the tropical jungle.

The track emerges on Milford

Sound, one of the most beautiful of the long narrow arms of the sea with which the southwest corner of New Zealand coast is indented. Dominated by Mitre Peak, its spectacular scenes have long been a mecca for artists and photographers.

A luxury hotel offers comfort for footsore travellers at the end of their journey, and the return trip from Milford Sound can be made by road through the Homer tunnel.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy.
Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.
The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and the second question a Hammond's Nature Atlas (Canadian edition) and the third question a "Ask Andy" Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Barbara MacKay, 9, Victoria, B.C., for her question:

How Many Eggs Does a Robin Lay in a Year?

Mr. and Mrs. Robin are busy raising children all summer long. No sooner has the first brood learned to fly than the parents get ready for a second brood. This brood grows up and flies off like the first. Have Mama and Papa had enough? Not at all. Chances are they will get the nursery in order and bring up a third brood of young robins.

Mrs. Robin lays from three to five eggs at a time. This means that the parents may launch nine to fifteen young birds during one summer season. Of course, it rarely happens that all the youngsters are lucky enough to grow up. Sometimes the eggs are stolen and the little brood does not even get started.

Many of the youngsters become food for other animals. Usually, just enough survive to keep the robin population about even. If too many of them survived, there would not be enough robin food to supply them all.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Phyllis Bryson, 10, Lancaster, Penna., for her question:

What Is a Shrew?

The furry coated mammals came to live in the world about 50 million years ago. And who do you think were the first ones to arrive? Perhaps it was the lions, the royal family of animals. Perhaps it was the monkeys because they are so smart, or maybe the elephants because they are so big. As a matter of fact, none of these outstanding animals arrived until millions of years later. The first mammals to make their homes on earth were shrews.

They found a world full of lizards of all sorts. The earth still trembled under the tread of the giant dinosaurs. There were hungry birds in the air and big amphibians wallowed in the swamps. But nobody noticed the secretive little shrews, just as nobody notices them today. If by chance you saw a little shrew rushing through a carpet of fallen leaves, you might mistake him for a mouse. In any case, he would be out of sight before you could spot the difference. Actually, our little shrew is not even related to a mouse.

Close up, you see that he has a long, pointed snout and a few hairs on his tail. His mouth is filled with very unusual teeth, often tipped with reddish brown. In the centre of the top jaw are two curved prongs as sharp as daggers. The lower teeth stick out towards the front. In some shrews the lower teeth are filled with poison glands. Though the poison is similar to the venom of the deadly cobra, the shrew has only enough of it to slightly stun a baby mouse. Even though the bite of a shrew cannot damage us, it is best not to handle the little fellow.

For when it comes to character, the shrew is he very opposite from a mouse. In spite of his small size, he is the fiercest, angriest, boldest little scrapper in the world. Mice, even fat field mice are scared stiff of him. In fact, he is most unpopular with most animals. The shrew is a very quick and active animal, but he cannot always dodge his enemies the owls, weasels, hawks, foxes, cats and dogs. Most of these animals kill, but refuse to eat him. For Mr. Shrew has musk glands on the sides of his body which make him unpleasant to smell and horrible to taste.

Perhaps for this reason, along with his fierceness, the little shrew has been unpopular with human beings. In all history, the little fellow had to flee to the people of ancient Egypt. Mummified shrews have been found in the tombs of ancient Thebes. These Egyptians were the people who also recognize the valuable services of the household cat.

Certainly our modern little shrew does not deserve to be look down upon him. He keeps well out of our way and he performs a valuable service to the farmer. For the shrew is an insectivore, living almost entirely on insect life. He dwells below the surface of the ground, usually in an old mole, rabbit or squirrel burrow. The food he finds, rooting around, is insect eggs and larva—youngsters which would otherwise grow up to dine on our crops.

Loss of Sight Not End of All Says Briton

VANCOUVER (CP)—Blind for 15 years, Robert Lloyd says there is no reason why people should change their lives because they have lost their sight.

The 41-year-old physiotherapist from Bournemouth, England, said in an interview here that his other senses have become increasingly keen since he was blinded during training exercises in the Second World War.

"I have even learned to sail a boat. Once I got over my fear of falling overboard it was easy. I steer by the breeze in my face and the feel of the rudder. It is necessary to have someone nearby to warn me of the approach of other boats."

Here to study North American methods in his profession, Mr. Lloyd said he finds his hands have become his greatest asset.

Like a ghost out of the past, the barque Nippon Maru is under full sail in Vancouver Island waters today.

IT'S WATER

New Dentrifice 'Discovered'; Slashes Decay

WINNIPEG (CP) — Dentists in the United States have discovered a "new" dentrifice which cuts the rate of tooth decay among adults in half.

This dentrifice used in a test involving 1,000 students at a U.S. university is cheap, easy to obtain and simple to apply. It's water, and results showed that brushing teeth with it after every meal reduced tooth decay more than 60 per cent.

This, and other unorthodox opinions, were given here to delegates at the annual board meeting of the Canadian Dental Association. SUGAR THREAT

A Toronto dentist said, "Canadians like to think their children are the best fed in the world but in reality most of our children are walking around with an acid bath in their mouths."

The cause was a high sugar diet which most parents give them, he said.

Educational programs to teach parents to reduce the amount of sugar they give their children resulted in a drastic drop in tooth decay in test areas in Toronto.

"The sugar habit is like any addiction," he said. "Children acquire it the same way adults do, become addicted to cigarettes and alcohol. The best way to preserve children's teeth is to see that they never get enough sugar to create a craving."

SPOILS APPETITE

"Milk is the best food in the world but it should be used carefully. No child under 12 years of age needs more than a pint of milk a day. Give him more and it takes away his appetite for other essential foods."

The Toronto dentist said young people who live on sandwiches usually have trouble with their teeth because the starch they consume turns to sugar in their mouths and promotes decay.

He suggested fewer sandwiches should be put in lunches and more fresh fruit and vegetables should be added.

The effect of a typical Canadian diet on children's teeth was evident in its effect on the teeth of children of European immigrants. "When they arrive they have perfect mouths," he said. "Two years on our diets and they're as bad as the rest of us."

HEAVY RAIN

An inch of rainfall over an acre of land would weigh 113 tons.

The big four-master was spotted from the air by an RCAF crew on routine patrol out of Comox. The barque was first sighted on Monday, and reported to the aircraft she was inbound for Vancouver to take a cargo of grain.

Nippon Maru has steam as well as sail, but operates under canvas most of the time. The RCAF patrol crew reported the barque was making about six knots when sighted off the west coast of Vancouver Island. If that rate were maintained, she would reach Vancouver Thursday morning.

At noon today B.C. Pilotage had not yet received request for pilot. Nippon Maru is a cadet training ship, used to provide "sea time" and sail handling experience for junior officers.

RAPE HEARING OPENS

PENTICTON — Preliminary hearing of the first of three youth charged with rape was continued Tuesday when John Clifford Brewer, 23, appeared without counsel.

The first witness, a 16-year-old boy, one of those charged, told of the events of the night of June 22 when he, Brewer and another youth came to Penticton from Hedley, west of the city.

Victoria College Requires Land Now, Chamber Urges

Additional property to allow it to offer a four-year liberal arts course must be acquired by Victoria College "immediately," according to the Chamber of Commerce university committee. The committee disagreed with the college council that expansion into university status should be done gradually.

It is expected to ask chamber directors to press for provincial government assistance for enlargement of the faculty to provide a full arts course.

In a letter to the council following four months' study of the matter, the chamber committee said "this city must have a college offering a four-year liberal arts course in the immediate future."

Obstacles to the expansion which have been raised by the college council "are not insurmountable, if, in fact, they do exist," wrote committee chairman G. R. Newell.

To accomplish the main objectives, additional acreage north of the present college site must be acquired in the immediate future.

"Failure to do this would destroy expansion plans which are in the common interest of both communities," the chamber group said.

The committee also claimed that present buildings on the campus are "shockingly inadequate."

Magistrate Threatens Loss of Citizenship

NANAIMO (CP)—A man who came to Canada six years ago was warned by a magistrate Monday he could lose his Canadian citizenship for assaulting a woman.

"I could send you to jail for two years, your Canadian citizenship could be cancelled, and you could be deported," Magistrate Lionel Beaver-Potts told Hurst Kyper when he pleaded guilty to the charge.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trade was mostly dull and routine today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Some selling was prompted by reports of beneficial rains in the prairie grain belt and this contributed to some irregularity in prices.

Activity occurred in flax trading with export houses and international interest the buyers.

Oats trading was routine and there was some evidence of shipping interest in barley. Rye trade showed no feature.

There were no reports of export business in Canadian coarse grains.

Gradual Changes Planned By Tory Labor Minister

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Energetic Mike Starr, who began as a $5-a-week printer's devil in Oshawa, Ont., and now is Canada's $27,000-a-year new labor minister, says he plans a fast scrutiny of federal labor legislation with a view to possible revision.

Hon. Michael Starr, 46, the country's first federal minister of Ukrainian extraction, says that at this early stage of the new Progressive Conservative regime he has no major upheavals in mind but will take a hard look at existing laws.

"I intend to review all federal labor legislation," he said in an interview, "and to see what changes are needed, with the co-operation of all those affected including the unions and the employers."

Down to shirtsleeves in the plush office suite he has taken over from outgoing labor minister Milton Gregg—a far cry from his conservative back-bencher's quarters of pre-election days—Mr. Starr said his main aim in office will be to do all he can to implement the Conservative platform policies.

"But I'm mighty green at this big job," he admitted, "and it's going to take me some time to feel around and get my footing."

Greenhorn that he might be in the labor ministry, the Commons member for Ontario riding is no newcomer to politics. He has been in the Commons since 1952, and before that was mayor of Oshawa in 1949-52 and previously five years as alderman of that industrial city.

CUT LABOR VOTE

Like his Liberal predecessor, the new labor minister has never been a member of a union.

"By the time I was old enough to join one," he said, "I was working in an office, and there was no attempt to organize the workers in our office."

Despite his lack of union connections, Mr. Starr had no trouble on June 10 in getting a plurality of about 4,400 over CCF candidate Jack Naylor, an official of the powerful United Automobile Workers of America, which has about 11,000 members in Oshawa. Officially, the UAW supports the CCF.

But Mr. Starr likes to refer to the facts that his late Ukrainian-born father held a card in the auto workers' union, along with a deceased brother.

Hon. Mike, a stocky, soft-spoken man not given to much talk in his days in the Commons, has no illusions about upsetting any existing applecarts.

NEW CREAM HOLDS THEM COMFORTABLE AND SNUG!

At last! No more uncomfortable rocking and slipping. No more sore gums from loose plates. Here's a safe, pleasant way to hold plates snugly in place. —Poli-Grip! It's a delightful pink cream that's easy to use, gives wonderful results. Poli-Grip does all this, too:

1. Poli-Grip forms a creamy cushion, eliminating friction on sore gums.
2. Holds even shallow lower plates.
3. Seals edges, so food can't get under.
4. Lets you eat anything.
5. Keeps plates tight while laughing, singing, even sneezing.
6. Made and guaranteed by Polident.

Double your money back if wonderful Poli-Grip doesn't give you more comfort, more security than you ever had before!

"I'm not out to make any upheavals," he said. "I just intend to do my utmost for Canadian labor in as short a time as possible."

Did this mean that the narrowly-ahead Conservatives might figure their days in government were numbered?

The minister just smiled. "What we hope to do," he said, "is to implement as much of our labor platform as soon as it is humanly possible to do so."

The platform contains these points as adopted at the Conservative convention last December:

1. An immediate review of all federal labor legislation by the combined efforts of government, management and labor.
2. Co-operation with the province with a view to uniform labor laws.
3. Adequate representation for labor on government boards dealing with matters of interest to labor.
4. Improvement of unemployment insurance legislation to widen coverage, increase benefits and eliminate "discrimination" against married women.

WONDER DRUG WON'T MIX WITH MILK

VANCOUVER (CP)—People who are allergic to penicillin can suffer reactions after drinking milk from penicillin-treated cows, the annual meeting of the Canadian Veterinary Medical Association was told Tuesday.

Dr. W. G. Stevenson of Guelph, Ont., said massive doses of penicillin used in treatment of mastitis, a disease of the cow's milk producing system, can cause such reaction in milk drinkers. He said about 10 per cent of the population is allergic to penicillin.

In the United States regulations prohibit use of more than 1,000 units of penicillin in each treatment, but there is no such restriction in Canada, he said.

PRAISE A-PLenty FOR COO-RAGEOUS PIGEON

Resting up after record-making flight from Edmonton to Victoria, two-year-old hen pigeon Revived

Hope modestly listens to praise from owner Bert Owens, 3332 Painter Road, Metchoshin.

HOMER HOMES

Modest Pigeon Whizz-Bang Performer

By Times Pigeon Reporter

Revived Hope, the two-year-old homing pigeon who completed a record-breaking 600-mile flight from Edmonton to Victoria at 7 p.m. Tuesday, is a quiet, soft-spoken, modest bird.

In pigeon parlance, she is a red checker hen. And in any language, she's a whizz-bang performer. So far, she is only one of 16 pigeons released at Edmonton on Sunday to reach home.

"Home" is the pigeon loft of Bert Owens, 3332 Painter Road, Metchoshin.

FLEW, FLEW, FLEW

Interviewed there today, Revived Hope was markedly reticent. "It was a good flight," she admitted. "But nothing unusual. I just flew and I flew and I flew, and then I stopped flying because I was home."

It was the longest speech she had made in many weeks, said Owens. "And she's still pretty tired," he added.

Asked if she flew at night, Revived Hope said "of course not. That's strictly for the owls."

Added owner Owens, "We figure she rested about seven hours per night. That's the number of dark hours, when pigeons don't fly. We figure her total flying time at 47 hours, five minutes — and that's real speed for 600 miles."

Revived Hope's actual course was probably much longer than 600 miles. She had to cross the Rockies — among other mountain ranges — and no doubt found her way through passes, rather than straight over the top.

Queried on this point, Revived Hope refused to open her beak. She simply shook her head.

Revived Hope's Edmonton-Victoria flight tops one made recently from Edson to Victoria, by Ruth, a blue bar hen pigeon who covered almost 500 miles a week ago.

The record flight will be the last solo for Revived Hope. Her immediate plans: to settle down and raise a family. In fact, lots of families.

Glitter, Pomp To Mark Royal Visit to Ottawa

OTTAWA (BUP)—A tightly packed program of receptions, dinners and a glittering state ball are being planned for Queen Elizabeth's visit to Ottawa in October.

The program now drafted, subject to the Queen's approval, will provide plenty of opportunities for Ottawans generally to see her and Prince Philip, and some opportunities for the socially prominent to meet her. But the time schedule will leave little if any room for extraordinary engagements.

In general, the program is expected to be this: Saturday, Oct. 12—Arrive by air in the late forenoon at Up-lands RCAF base, south of Ottawa, for a lavish military

CANADIAN DOLLAR SOARS TO YEAR HIGH AT N.Y.

NEW YORK (UP)—The Canadian dollar soared to a new 1957 record high of $1.05 13/32 in relation to the U.S. dollar in foreign exchange trading today, only just short of the $1.05 1/2 all-time record set in 1930.

Police Crack 'Human Wall' In Strike Clash

Cut Rough Stuff Union Leaders Urge

LONDON (UP)—Forty policemen swinging nightsticks today broke up a "human wall" picket line set up by some 300 strikers at London's Covent Garden fruit and vegetable market.

Eleven of the strikers were arrested after a melee in which a vegetable truck was set afire and hundreds of crates of fruit smashed.

The clash erupted when the strikers locked arms across streets in the Covent Garden area to prevent produce trucks from entering. The workers went on strike to protest reclassification of their jobs.

Transport union leaders appealed today to members to cut out similar rough stuff in the nationwide bus strike that has crippled bus transport outside of the London area.

Clashes between pickets and bus crews operating in defiance of the strike were frequent Tuesday, the fourth day of the walkout.

CHILDREN MANHANDLED

At Nantwich, Cheshire, children were dragged out of a school bus by strikers and made to walk. Police also made a baton charge to clear Nottingham's central bus terminal of pickets who refused to let non-strikers take out buses.

Frank Cousins, general secretary of the mammoth Transport and General Workers Union, issued an order that pickets are to use only "peaceful means and persuasion" to stop non-strikers handling buses.

Police were assigned to ride buses in many areas to prevent incidents.

Couple Adrift For 66 Hours

SODUA POINT, N.Y. (AP)—A Canadian couple was washed ashore today after being adrift for 66 hours in Lake Ontario in a 14-foot motorboat.

James M. Cook, 51, and his wife, Helen, 47, of Belleville, Ont., were taken to hospital in Wolcott, N.Y. They were reported suffering from exposure and shock.

New U.S. Jet Bomber Averages 930 MPH

DAYTON, Ohio (UP)—The B-58 Hustler, the air force's supersonic bomber, flew today from Fort Worth, Texas, to undergo a series of take-off tests.

The plane is described as "the most advanced jet bomber ever built."

The air force said the plane, flying an "around about route" averaged 930 miles per hour on its flight from Fort Worth.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Hear us, O God of grace, on behalf of those who have lost the joy that once they had. Lift them out of the indifference and the self-centred habits. Restore to them the joy of thy salvation. Bring them back into the fellowship of Thy people, the fellowship of love and grateful well-doing. Give them back their place and part in the work of Thy kingdom; in Jesus' name. Amen.

DEBTS GALORE INSTEAD OF COSY HOME

DETROIT (AP)—Where his dream house once stood, truck driver John Korenic now has a hole in the ground. He also has a mounting list of creditors.

The 35-year-old trucker's troubles started last month after he borrowed $4,000 to buy a small white bungalow. After 15 years of marriage, he was happy at the thought of moving his wife and two children into a home of their own.

Before he moved however he decided to install a basement. He paid a contractor $600 down on the $2,550 job.

One day he and his wife, Ann, 34, sat on the porch of their rented flat watching workmen put a basement under their bungalow across

Go Into Action Against Rebels

BAHREIN, Persian Gulf (Reuters)—RAF planes today flew 12 sorties against a mud-brick fort at Izki, about 50 miles south of the capital of the sultanate of Muscat and Oman.

A spokesman said severe damage was caused and that more sorties are planned for Thursday against a rebel headquarters fort at Nizwa, the stronghold of the leader of a rebellion against the British-backed sultan.

Nizwa is the regional capital of Oman. It was captured last week by rebel tribesmen led by Ghalib Ben Ali, the Imam or religious leader of Oman. He fled Nizwa in December, 1955, after a fight with the British-protected Taimur. The sultan claimed the Imam was attempting to set up an independent state in violation of an agreement between the two leaders.

Villagers Given Warning

The pro-British sultan asked Britain's help in quashing the rebellion.

The RAF planes took off from Sharjah, British base about 200 miles north of Nizwa. British troops moved up from Bahrain to Sharjah, but no large-scale use of British troops is foreseen. However, Britain probably will provide minor reinforcements of the sultan's land troops.

The sultan has 1,500 fighting men. They are officered by 10 Britons.

Prior to today's action, RAF planes dropped leaflets in rebel-held areas warning the villagers to leave.

Sir Bernard Burrows, British political resident in Bahrain, said further action against the rebels would be decided upon after the "show of force" from the area.

He said there was evidence the rebels were getting help from "someone on the outside" in their plans to detach Oman from the sultanate but said concrete evidence was lacking to point out where the help was coming from.

"Automatic weapons which have never been seen before in the area are being used by the Imam's forces," he said.

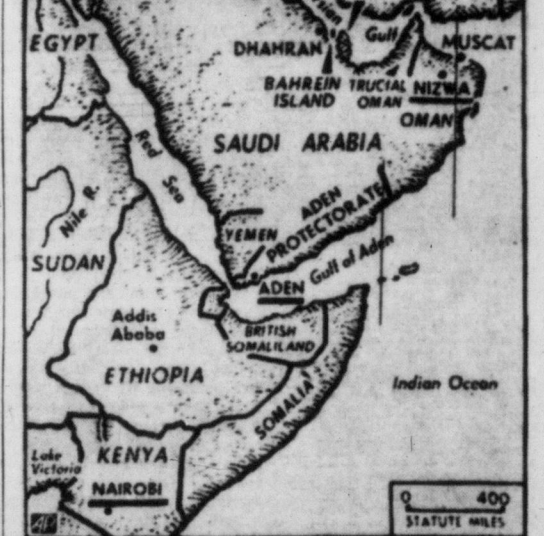

MULTI-MILLION LOOT DEBUNKED

MONTREAL (BUP)—Estimates of a multi-million-dollar loss in the January looting of safety deposit boxes in a Montreal bank are far too high, a police official said today.

Police director Joseph Grif-fiths of Outremont, the Montreal island city where the burglary occurred, said the figure was "plus or minus the $500,000 mark."

"Reports attempting to compare the theft with the celebrated $1,200,000 Brinks burglary are grossly exaggerated," he said.

MID-EAST CRISIS SPOT

Underlined on map is Nizwa, a rebel stronghold in the fight against the Sultan of Muscat and Oman, bombed by British planes Wednesday. The raids followed warning to rebels to halt their war against the pro-British sultan.

House That Jack Didn't Build Turned Into Hole in the Ground

DETROIT (AP)—Where his dream house once stood, truck driver John Korenic now has a hole in the ground. He also has a mounting list of creditors.

The 35-year-old trucker's troubles started last month after he borrowed $4,000 to buy a small white bungalow. After 15 years of marriage, he was happy at the thought of moving his wife and two children into a home of their own.

Before he moved however he decided to install a basement. He paid a contractor $600 down on the $2,550 job.

One day he and his wife, Ann, 34, sat on the porch of their rented flat watching workmen put a basement under their bungalow across the alley. The house slipped its supporting jacks and crashed into the basement.

Next he received a note from the city informing him that his capsize bungalow constituted a hazard and would have to be removed. For $350 a wrecking crew hauled away Korenic's dream house, leaving only the basement excavation.

Then Korenic borrowed another $1,000 and bought a brick home, condemned for the route of a new expressway. For another $1,000 he contracted to have the house moved. He paid $500 for lifting utility wires on the route. The moving date is next week, but now he has hit another snag.

PROVINCIAL OFFICES SHUT DOWN 12 TO 1.10

From Aug. 1, provincial government offices will be closed from 12 noon to 1.10 p.m. daily.

This was announced today by Premier Bennett, who said government employees now will be given a uniform lunch period in that time.

Previous method of staggering the lunch hour to keep government offices going on a skeleton staff has resulted in "confusion and public inconvenience," the premier said.

The order will not apply to necessary services and offices which must remain open throughout the day by statute. It does apply to government offices throughout the province, not just in Victoria.

Huge Surplus In Wheat Piled Up In Crop Year

Drop in Exports
Estimated Near
35 Million Bushels

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canada's wheat crop year ends next week with a surplus approaching the 700 million bushel mark, equal to about three boom years' wheat stocks.

The Bureau of Statistics reported today that exports of wheat during the week ending July 10 amounted to 4.9 million bushels, compared with 7.7 million in the same week a year ago. Weekly export figures for the past two months have been running generally well below the previous year's figures.

Little can be done in the time remaining before July 31, the end of the crop year, to clear the huge surplus, last reported as well over the 700-million bushel mark.

UNABLE TO SELL

Exports for the crop year to July 10, from last Aug. 1, have amounted to 209.4 million bushels, compared with 248.3 million in the same period of the 1955-56 crop year.

Government officials do not know exactly how much wheat is now in storage on producers' farms, but it must be in the neighborhood of 400 million bushels. Because of farmers' inability to sell wheat, they have been feeding some of it to livestock.

Farmers sent close to 10 million bushels to market during the week ending July 10, almost as much as in the same week a year ago, bringing cumulative total marketings for the year to 318.2 million bushels, compared with 295.2 as they approached the mid-July mark last year.

On July 10, the bureau said, there were 386.8 million bushels of wheat in storage and in transit in North America, compared with 337.6 million a year ago.

EXPORTS TRAILING

The last export report revealed that Canada has exported 204.5 million bushels from Aug. 1, 1956, the start of the current wheat year, up until July 3. Wheat was being exported then at just over six million bushels a week, and exports were trailing the previous year by about 35 million bushels.

Final figures for the 1956-57 crop year will not be published officially before mid-August. But it was clear that the nation would be left on July 31 with the largest stock of wheat on record, close to 700 million bushels. The average carry-over at the end of the crop year for the past 10 years has been about 234 million.

Accident Blamed On Poor Highway

CAMPBELL RIVER—Holes on the Island Highway here, left in the wake of sewer excavation work two months ago and not yet repaired, were blamed for cuts and bruises suffered Sunday by Catherine Cassidy.

The 2½-year-old tot, driving with her father, George Cassidy, fell from the car when it turned over after hitting a series of holes. She was treated at Lourdes Hospital.

Soo Indians Protest Change in Schools

OTTAWA (BUP)—The Diefenbaker government will treat all Canadian native Indians fairly and is "particularly anxious not to push the Indians around," Justice Minister Davie Fulton told British United Press today.

Fulton, acting minister of citizenship and immigration, in charge of Indian affairs, was commenting on reports that a group of Indians from the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., district were coming to Ottawa to protest against a reported plan to transfer their children from Indian to white schools.

Government officials said they understood that the Sault Ste. Marie delegation represented only a minority group of the Indians of the area.

The Indians, led by Chief William Measwage of the Serpent River Reserve Board, and Mrs. Cliff Lesage, one of the mothers, said they did not want to send their children to white schools in September, and would keep them home in protest.

Officials here said, however, there was no intention to force the Indian children to go to schools off the reservations, and that the

Multi-Million Loot Still Poser As Rest of Petrov's Body Sought

MONTREAL (CP)—Search resumed today in the Laurentians for parts of a body believed to be that of Larry Petrov, missing from his home since July 2 and feared by police to have been victim of a gangland slaying.

Petrov was awaiting trial on a narcotics charge and also was wanted for questioning in connection with a suburban Outremont bank robbery, believed by some police to be one of the largest in North America.

A man's leg found during the weekend in Lac Ouareau in the Laurentians has been identified by medico-legal experts as coming from a man fitting Petrov's description.

While the search for the body was in progress, speculation was revived on the amount taken in the Jan. 14 bank robbery during which 132 safety deposit boxes were emptied of cash and securities.

The Gazette says estimates of the loot "now run into the millions in cash and securities, but the only people who know are the thieves."

The newspaper says earlier estimates had placed the loot at between $300,000 and $1,000,000 "but these figures have been termed conservative in the light of additional information gathered by police in their search for Petrov."

"If the latest estimates are substantiated," the newspaper says, "this would dwarf the $1,200,000 taken in the celebrated Brinks robbery in Boston."

La Presse quoted Outremont Police Chief Joseph Griffiths as saying he believes the loot did not exceed $1,000,000.

"We may never know the exact amount," he said, "but I am almost certain that it is about $500,000. It is improbable that the safety deposit boxes contained such a fantastic sum as is reported, though this is not impossible."

Some police sources said people might be reluctant to complain about the full amount of their losses because of income tax regulations.

The Gazette says RCMP officers were surprised to find more than $1,000,000 in cash in a box they examined several years ago.

Seiners, Gillnetters Under New Rulings

Entirely new regulations govern the purse seine and gillnet fishermen now operating in Juan de Fuca Strait.

Seiners will be allowed to fish each Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Gillnetters, on the other hand, will start fishing at 6 p.m. each Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, pulling their nets in the following day at 6 a.m.

Previously the two groups could fish at any hours, and often got in each other's way. The changes keeping them apart were made at the fishermen's request.

Former Athlete Fred Young Paid Final Tributes

Funeral services were held at Hayward's funeral home today for Fred Young, 71, 311 Vancouver, who died Sunday in St. Joseph's Hospital.

He was well known as a lacrosse player prior to the First World War.

Rev. C. L. Streight officiated at the service. Interment took place at Hatley Memorial Gardens.

He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Lloyd Walker, Mimico, Ont.; Mrs. Peter Bruce, and Miss Gertrude Young, both of Ontario, and two brothers, William of Vancouver and Percival of Toronto.

10TH RECORD SET BY U.S. LIVING COSTS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government's cost-of-living index bounced up another one-half of one per cent in June to its 10th record high in as many months.

Food prices were reported to have jumped 1.4 per cent from May to June. That was the major factor in the advance, which carried the consumer price index to 120.2 per cent of the 1947-1949 average.

However, the price advance was an across-the-board affair. The average prices of all commodities except foods rose 0.2 per cent and the cost of services—transportation, laundry, repairs, medical bills and the like—also climbed 0.2 per cent.

NIKITA TO OFFER GERMANS UNIFICATION

BONN, Germany (UP)—Communist party boss Nikita S. Krushchev may unveil a new plan for German reunification when he visits Communist East Germany next month, Soviet embassy sources said today.

All previous attempts to achieve reunification have failed because of the Soviet refusal to permit free and secret elections in both parts of Germany.

China Dotted by Monster Lakes As Aftermath of Lethal Floods

SHANGHAI (Reuters)—Great areas of southern Shantung province still look like huge lakes from the air despite the fact that the devastating central-east China floods have obviously receded.

On a regular passenger flight from Peiping to this Yangtse metropolis traces of the flood over Shantung and Anhwei province could not be seen because of clouds, but the "dutiful son"—the Yangtse—seemed under control and was not flooding.

The third of the country's eastern rivers—the Huai—appeared to have been flooding fairly badly in the lower reaches, while further north in Shantung many smaller rivers had overflowed their banks, inundating huge areas.

Small boats dotted the landscape at a place where thousands of workers could be seen repairing a dike.

More than 17,000 square miles of land have been flooded in Shantung and Honan. A big dike on the Yellow River collapsed in Shantung on Sunday and prospects there are "alarming," the agency added.

Canada's Security

IN OPPOSITION, CONSERVATIVE members of Parliament criticized Canada's security arrangements, or at least their administration. In office Mr. Diefenbaker's Government proposes to study the present methods of guarding essential secrets from our foreign enemies and possibly to change them.

These investigations are wise. They may prove useful. No government is immune to mistakes in this highly complex matter and various foreign governments have made tragic mistakes from time to time when dealing with their servants who occupy sensitive posts.

If the Diefenbaker Government can administer security regulations more successfully than its predecessor by all means let it do so. But let the Government and the public realize at the beginning exactly what they are trying to do.

Unfortunately, during the last few months, the proper purposes and the methods of security in a free society like ours were widely confused by the tragic Norman case.

Some Conservatives obviously do not understand the Liberal Government's position, and a few misrepresented it for political reasons. To their credit, however, the leaders of the party rejected the temptation to play politics with this subject during the election campaign.

That temptation passed, or should have passed, when the Conservatives took office. They now bear the sobering responsibility of protecting both security information and the personal rights of their officials.

Whether the former Government's administration of security was efficient or inefficient is a question about which men may honestly disagree. There should be no question about the basic principles of the present system and Mr. Diefenbaker has not questioned it.

In brief, the former Government

held that it must carefully investigate the ideological opinions of all its servants who had information of possible value to a foreign enemy. But having decided that an official was reliable or unreliable, it refused to reveal its reasons in detail.

It would not give to Parliament the secret dossiers on which its decision was based. It could not do that without the risk of grave injustice to innocent men. For of necessity an RCMP file must contain all sorts of reports, rumors and unsubstantiated information, even some statements that (as in the case of the late Mr. Norman) turned out later to be false.

It is the duty of the police to seek out every clue but if every clue and suspicion is then to be placed on the public record the result is not security but witch-hunting.

If witch-hunting is to be avoided Parliament must trust the judgment of the existing Government in this peculiarly delicate field and so far that trust has been given. It should be given to the Diefenbaker Government, as to the St. Laurent Government, and happily in Mr. Davie Fulton the nation has a minister of justice entitled to full trust.

Mr. Fulton may be able to tidy up and improve the present arrangements. He and the Prime Minister no doubt will make sure that Canada's security files are not permitted to leak into Congressional committees and to be spread on the public record by irresponsible American politicians. If necessary Canada can refuse to share this information with the United States, as Mr. Pearson threatened to do after the Norman case.

But the new Government will be very unwise if it alters the present system fundamentally. It is certain, we believe, that the Canadian people do not wish to imitate their neighbors' system of trial by rumor, with which the great majority of thoughtful Americans already are disgusted.

Paper Is Precious

IN THE WESTERN WORLD WE take paper for granted. Paper carries the day's news. In one form or another it wraps just about everything we buy. It is used, or wasted, on a gigantic scale. In the United States, The New York Times reports, every person, man, woman and child, uses 300 pounds of paper, on average, every year.

It is hard for us to imagine a country where paper is a scarce luxury and must be used over and over again until it can be used no more.

Yet in most of Asia the average person uses less than nine pounds of paper a year. An out-of-date newspaper is a household treasure. An old magazine is a bonanza. If anyone doubts that, let him consider what his household would be without paper.

Inconvenience, however, is the least part of the paper shortage in the poorer countries. They lack the material necessary to convey information, to educate the people, to develop the democratic process, sometimes to print election ballots.

The Asia-Pacific Forestry Commission in Bandung is tackling this problem by planning to grow more timber, the cheapest source of paper, but this will take a long time. Meanwhile scientists are experimenting with other sources such as sugar cane residue, hemp, bamboo, sisal and straws.

Here we have no such problems. The material of paper grows all around us, and we have the machinery to process it. We have so much paper, indeed, that we waste it prodigally—and pay heavily for that waste.

As The Times remarks, we should begin to conserve paper, for at our rapidly increasing rate of use we shall need all we can get one of these days. And if international trade could be placed on a sane basis we would find huge, profitable markets for our paper among foreign peoples who will want more and more of it as their living standards rise.

Facts of Life

WHEN BRITAIN, WEST GERMANY and other Western nations decided to trade with Communist China it was thought that this move—vigorously opposed by the United States—would lead to a widespread official recognition of the Chinese Government. Actually, the effect seems to be just the opposite.

Having split with the United States on the issue of trade, few of the Western states are ready to press the disagreement further by sending ambassadors to Peking or voting to seat Communist China in the United Nations.

Without these formal steps they have already re-established relations of a sort with China and will receive the benefits of Chinese trade, whatever they are worth (probably not much at the moment, by financial reckoning anyway).

When the United Nations Assembly meets in the autumn Russia is expected to renew once more its proposal that the Peiping Government be given China's permanent seat on the Security Council, now occupied by the phantom regime of Formosa. But the United States probably can rally sufficient votes to defeat this resolution.

For some time to come the United Nations presumably must continue to live with one of the grim, illogical facts of international life—the phantom of Formosa representing a nation of six hundred million people, the real government of China excluded and such a barbarous oppressor as the Government of Hungary seated respectfully among the peace-loving nations.

This, unfortunately, is the sort of world we presently inhabit. But all the current fictions do not alter in the least the formidable fact of the Chinese Government, which is here to stay.

And Worse to Come?

THE QUEEN IS CONCERNED about the telephone bills for Buckingham Palace. They have risen to £25,000 a year against the £10,000 paid annually during her father's time.

Even to royalty the invention of Alexander Graham Bell is no unmixed blessing. Doubtless it summons them when they would prefer to remain undisturbed—even as it calls the least distinguished of subjects.

But serious as costs and annoyance may be to Buckingham Palace, Her Majesty escapes, at this point, what is probably the ultimate fault of the telephone. The Royal children are not yet teen-agers.

NEW GOVERNMENT HOUSE

ARCHITECTS' VIEW

'To Achieve Dignity'

This brief was prepared for the Vancouver Island Chapter of the Architectural Institute of British Columbia by Charles Craig and Roderick Clark, architects, and submitted to the Provincial Cabinet.

ON BEHALF of the Vancouver Island Chapter of the Architectural Institute of British Columbia, we herewith request consideration of the following brief in respect to a new Government House for the Province of British Columbia.

We believe that the best interests of the people will be served by an architectural competition for the new Government House, for these reasons:

B.C. is advancing more rapidly than any province in the nation, in wealth, in culture and in industry. Let us not house the titular head of our Government in an archaic, mid-Victorian structure, which flouts our energies, our progressive thinking and our tremendous future.

Our province has been built on free competition. What better way to build the core of our governing body than to compete for the design of such a core. History could only condemn a government which for the sake of expediency rebuilt a Government House copying a concept which is completely outdated, when the best designers of our nation are available to compete for the design of what should be, and must be, a great and lasting piece of architecture.

Unique Opportunity

Our Government now has the unique opportunity to build a monument to her people and to her Queen, and an opportunity which no other province has had in the past half century. This opportunity must bear with it a definite responsibility to produce a structure worthy of the dignity which must exist between a people and its monarch. We believe, very strongly, that this responsibility must be met with the highest quality of design, otherwise our Government will have failed to assume its responsibility.

For the sake of expediency, we understand that preliminary planning has been undertaken on the new building, at an estimated building cost of some $500,000. We are convinced by experience that the absolute minimum time required to produce working drawings and specifications for a structure of this size, if it is to be properly planned, is eight months after preliminary sketch plans have been completed. Any shorter period can only produce ill-conceived design, major discrepancies in structure and services, and incomplete drawings and specifications.

We also know from experience that the absolute minimum time required to obtain tenders and construct a building of this size, in this area, is 12 months after completion of working drawings and specifications. Any shorter period can only produce inferior structure and workmanship, higher costs and more expensive maintenance. Any action which might be taken to proceed with construction before working drawings are completed invariably results in much higher costs, major compromises in both design and operation, and in an unsatisfactory end result, without in the last analysis saving any appreciable time.

Assuming that preliminary planning is now complete, on the above basis, construction could start in March, 1958, and be completed in March, 1959. This would not make the new Government House available for the centennial year. An architectural competition could be programmed to add not more than two months to the timing as outlined above.

General Rules

We recommend that such competition be based on the following general conditions:

Open to registered architects in the Province of British Columbia and carried out in accordance with the requirements of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada.

The Chief Architect of the Government to be appointed as the assessor, responsible for conducting the competition.

The program for the competition to include the general requirements of the building with the object of selecting the best architect. The specific requirements of the building to be drawn up by the assessor during the period of the competition.

In this way the competition could be commenced almost immediately.

Premiums totalling $5,000 to be awarded for the competition in accordance with the assessor's report, the architect placed first being employed to carry out the work.

The period of the competition to be limited to two months following the publication of the program.

Native Materials

In conclusion, we request that the Government give its most earnest consideration to the achievement of a Government House which has been inspired by open minds, designed with a clear concept of its function and built with our finest native materials.

If we are to reflect the spirit of our own virile times, if we are to achieve a dignity and graciousness in today's democracy, if we are a proud people, then we must produce a residence for Her Majesty's representative which is a monument to such thoughts.

From Our Files

July 24, 1897 — Mayor Redfern will recommend a by-law to borrow $100,000 to put the city's streets in order. His recommendation will seek the opinion of the ratepayers on the issue.

July 24, 1917 — A "blood-and-iron" policy will be put into effect if necessary to save the new Russia, Premier Alexander Kerensky said today. The situation at the front was serious, he said.

New Zealand Conditions

With regard to the article (Monday, July 15) and your correspondent's letter (Saturday, July 20) regarding conditions in New Zealand, my wife and I would like to clarify one or two points, having recently arrived from there after a number of years residence.

Firstly, with regard to the free medicine and hospitalization mentioned by Mr. Jones in his article: it is quite true that everybody pays one shilling and sixpence in every £1 earned—as mentioned by the latter correspondent—but it is equally true that in most cases, and indeed where it is needed, medicine is free; because people with children, two or more, would get back as much as they paid in, or more, in child allowances. Therefore, all phases of the medical side of social security to these people, is quite free.

From our knowledge of current wage rates in New Zealand Mr. Jones' figure of 55 cents an hour for carpenters is quite wrong. The going rate when we left New Zealand one year ago was about $1.00 per hour—we know that since we left there has been a wage increase and on top of this to get employees in New Zealand every firm has to pay more than the basic rate. Also with 30,000 unfilled jobs, layoffs and unemployment are things New Zealand has not known for many years.

Misplaced Criticism

Criticism by Mrs. Lydia Arsens respecting the professional status of the investigating team about to study the controversial Hoxsey cancer treatment is so misplaced as to appear ridiculous.

No layman and especially the suffering laymen that Mrs. Arsens would send, are in a position to comb the files for factual evidence, or to bring back an objective and unprejudiced finding.

If faith can cure cancer, then the patient has the key within his own hand and heart, and his efforts to open the door would be backed 101 per cent by the entire medical profession. Doctors, surgeons and researchers are dedicated to throwing wide open any and every portal that would shed light upon the maladies of mankind.

Meantime, mankind is the arbiter of his fate especially when adulthood has been reached. Would Mrs. Arsens suggest a professional team would bring back the "wrong" answer? They, like herself, are also imbued with faith—otherwise why would they be "seekers."

Story of Crutches

For the benefit of those theists who write me such bitter and scurrilous letters from time to time, I would tell a simple story.

A surgeon once called upon a poor cripple and kindly offered to assist him in any way he could. The good doctor begin by discussing 'quite learnedly on the origin of disease; on the comparative values and properties of certain medicines; of the advantages of exercise, air and light, and the various way in which health and strength could be developed and enjoyed.

These remarks were so full of good sense, so filled with accurate thinking and knowledge, that the cripple becoming thoroughly alarmed cried out: "Do not, I pray you, take away my crutches—they are my only support and without them I would be miserable indeed! I'm not going to take away your crutches," said the surgeon, "for I am going to cure you and then you will throw the crutches away yourself."

That, my friends, is all that this writer has ever aimed at doing by his letters to the editor—encourage or persuade others to throw away their crutches of superstition.

Tourist Rebuff

Having purchased your paper of July 19, I am compelled to write you concerning a small paragraph in the Monte Roberts column, quoting a criticism of tourists.

To me, this is a little "bit" that could and should have been omitted. Being a Canadian, born a Canadian, of Canadian parents—English and Scotch originally—I have spent much of the morning trying to convince some of our neighbors at this court, that this is just one man's opinion of the "tourist."

These people are from California, Oregon, Washington, Alberta. Does Victoria really not want these people?

My husband and I are from Ontario, Sarnia to be exact. In our district we welcome all tourists—as we were sincerely welcomed in Calgary, Alberta.

This is our first trip to your beautiful city. We hope not many of these "tourists" resent this little article as the people in our immediate vicinity today do.

They Can Do It Here

A front page item in The Sunday Sun of Vancouver says a Vancouver heart specialist stated Ronnie Richardson had a hole in the wall of the lower part of his heart between the ventricles, and that his only chance was to go to the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, U.S.A.

Last November when I was a patient in the Royal Jubilee Hospital of Victoria the woman in the next bed had had a similar operation performed right here by a Victoria heart specialist. She made a glorious recovery.

And I have good reason to know the operation cost considerably less than the $5,000 to $6,000 stated in the Vancouver Sun.

Information could be obtained from the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

By NEAL STANFORD In The Christian Science Monitor

ALGERIA is the world's present hottest crisis spot. That is not just my opinion but the opinion of some of Washington's best informed officials. They do not say it out loud. They do not cry it from the housetops. But when talking quietly and privately about world affairs—disarmament, Korea, the Middle East—these top Washington officials always come back to Algeria.

Watch Algeria, they say; it's building to a blow-up; it was Korea, then Indo-China, then Formosa, then the Middle East; now it is Algeria.

The trouble in Algeria is that an immovable object has met up with an irresistible force. The irresistible force is Arab nationalism; the immovable object is French patriotism.

Those are not the names that Arab and Frenchmen apply to these opposite forces. The first denounce French chauvinism and colonialism; the latter, Algerian rebellion and subversion. The French insist that Algeria is a private internal problem; the Algerian nationalists, that it is a question of self-determination.

And to further inflame the situation the Arab countries are united back of the FLN's fight for independence. Also Communist elements are doing their best—or worst—to stir up trouble and chaos.

With the French insisting they will never accept the concept of an independent Algeria, and the Algerian nationalists swearing they will never take less than complete independence, you have the ingredients of a first-class crisis.

The current United States role in this North African crisis is that of peacemaker or middleman. The French are its allies; the Arabs, its friends. As President Eisenhower said the other day: Washington wants to be decent and fair to both sides.

What makes the Algerian issue so critical and immediately dangerous is that the French and the FLN (National Liberation Front) have taken outspoken and irreconcilable positions. They have talked and fought themselves into a deadlock. The bombast on one side has its equal on the other. The atrocities on one side have been matched by atrocities on the other.

BEFORE NATIONALITY

It seems to me that nationality is of little importance in a human being's general make-up. The same instincts are there, whether we are born under a northern or a southern sun; we rejoice and are happy about the same things, and the same things cause us grief and sorrow, and to my mind the influence that the actual country in which we are born wields over us is extremely small. I think that it's certainly smaller than that absorbed from our family background or gained through our education.

Big Job at Stake

NEW YORK—Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld is not the sort of man who would campaign openly for his own re-election as Secretary-General of the United Nations, but it might not be unfair to say that Mr. Hammarskjöld has been doing some fence-mending during his current visit to Europe.

What's happening during his visit no doubt will influence some of the European states in their thinking about whether or not they want to back Mr. Hammarskjöld for another term. It also will have an effect upon Mr. Hammarskjöld's own attitude about remaining in office.

The current betting here is that the European nations, although many of them are somewhat cool toward the Secretary-General, will back him for another term, and that he will accept. But it may not be just a cut-and-dried item on the agenda, because elections are never a certainty and because the job of Secretary-General is one of the world's diplomatic plums, plus the fact that the gross pay is $33,000 a year, plus $20,000 annual allowances, all tax-free.

The Secretary-Generalship is up for discussion because Mr. Hammarskjöld's five-year term of office ends in April of next year, and the subject is likely to be discussed by the Security Council and the General Assembly this autumn.

INFLUENCE, NOT POWER

The job is not one that carries much power with it, but in Mr. Hammarskjöld's hands it has come to represent considerable influence. The main problem that he has encountered has been that in trying to serve so many masters, he has been unable to endear himself to all. He is not a popular figure in Britain or in France, but it seems unlikely that this feeling is strong enough to bring official British or French opposition to his re-election for another term.

The United States has let it be known that she will support Mr. Hammarskjöld's re-election, and a good number of countries are expected to follow Washington's lead in this matter. How the Asian and African nations will react remains to be seen—should they develop an appetite to have one of their own number become secretary-general an interesting battle could be in prospect, especially if the Communist nations should decide to get behind an Asian or African candidate.

What might happen in such a case would be a repeat of the deadlock that occurred in 1953, after the resignation of the then-secretary-general, Mr. Trygve Lie.

In six closed meetings during the month of March of 1953, the council wrestled with the problem of a successor for Mr. Lie. There were three main contenders—General Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines, nominated by the United States; Stanislaw Skrzyszewski of Czechoslovakia, nominated by Soviet Union, and Mr. Lester B. Pearson of Canada, nominated by Denmark.

Seven affirmative votes were needed in the Security Council, and General Romulo received only five, with two against and four abstentions. The Soviet nominee was voted down, the vote being one in favor, three against, and seven abstentions.

Mr. Pearson then received nine votes in favor, which was enough to make him secretary-general, but the Soviet Union exercised the veto against him. It is reported that the Soviet delegate had asked for time to consult his government on Mr. Pearson's candidacy, but that the issue was pushed to a vote by the United Kingdom delegate, Sir Gladwyn Jebb—and it's always been a subject for speculation as to what the Soviet's vote might have been if a delay had been granted.

Following its veto of Mr. Pearson, the Soviet Union proposed Madame Pandit of India for secretary-general. But only two votes were cast for her. The name of the Iranian delegate to the United Nations, Mr. Entezam, was mentioned, but did not come to a vote.

HOW IT HAPPENED

Finally, it was the United Kingdom that thought of Mr. Hammarskjöld. The U.K. did not nominate him, presumably because of its close ties with the two Commonwealth candidates, Mr. Pearson and Madame Pandit. Instead, at Britain's urging, it was France that nominated the virtual unknown from Sweden, and he received 10 votes in favor, to none against. Mr. Hammarskjöld flew from Sweden and took the oath of office in April, 1953.

If there is to be a contest for the office, and at present the odds seem against it, it's certain that Mr. Pearson's name would again come up for consideration. That of course would raise the question of the attitude of the present Canadian government plus the question of Mr. Pearson's own personal ambitions. General Romulo no doubt would enter the ring again, and so would Mr. Entezam of Iran. The Soviets would doubtless have a candidate of their own.

Should Mr. Pearson become secretary-general, it would almost certainly mark the end of whatever domestic political ambitions he might have. Because the secretary-general must be to a great extent an appeaser and a tread-water expert. Whoever holds the office for the next five years is likely to be less popular in the West, including Canada, than Mr. Hammarskjöld is at present.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Is Tennis a Racket?

LONDON—An aftermath of this year's Wimbledon is that complaints by players about how much they were paid to appear in this tournament have brought out some intriguing facts about this "amateur" event.

Sweden's Sven Davidson, seeded No. 4 in the men's singles, complained that he received only £30 to appear in Wimbledon, whereas the payments to top-line Australian and U.S. players were in the hundreds.

Dorothy Knodel, seeded No. 4 woman, complained that she got £100 while her fellow American, Darlene Hard, seeded below her in No. 5, received £150.

The Lawn Tennis Association, which runs Wimbledon, likes it to be believed that they are dedicated to safeguarding the principles of amateur sport. To further this belief they refused permission to four British Wimbledon stars to appear at a commercially sponsored tournament at Margate to give expenses paid exhibitions.

Yet in what would seem to be an unguarded moment LTA secretary Basil Reay has replied to players' complaints in these terms: "We do no more than contribute towards a competitor's expenses. We come to an agreement with the player's own association on how much we can give. Naturally the question of a player's status comes into it."

The key word would seem to be "status."

REYBURN

The amount paid is not based on seeding. If one of the lower seeds is a big crowd-pleaser he will be paid more than an efficient, dull player seeded above him. Payment is made on the basis of box-office drawing power.

To call the money "expenses" is farcical, as borne out by the example of Miss Knodel and Miss Hard. Each came from the States to play at Wimbledon, so theoretically each was put to the same expense in getting over here. Yet the LTA "contributed towards the expenses" of Miss Hard £50 more than her compatriot.

Lew Had's payment to turn professional was $125,000, as against the hundreds he gets to appear at Wimbledon, so it would seem that the Lawn Tennis Association has helped us to arrive at a new definition of an amateur: An amateur is a player who is paid less than a professional.

Is the Queen left-handed? Based on the way she held a spade while planting a commemorative tree, people are asking whether she is basically a left-handed person who has been switched over to the right in most things she does.

Pictures of her planting the tree show her with the left hand at the top of the spade as she scoops the earth into the hole. But isn't that the way many right-handed people do it, using the strong hand to take the weight of the spade?

'Split Canada' Talk Stirs Controversy

LONDON (CP)—A British commentator has aroused conflicting views about relations between English-Canadians and French-Canadians.

In a comment on the June 10 election, BBC Washington correspondent Christopher Serpell said the voting emphasized the division between English-Canada and French-Canada. He illustrated this by telling of an incident in an elevator in a Montreal building when four French-Canadians refused to answer a question posed in English.

In Toronto, Serpell said, he found an "active dislike" of French-Canadians. He was beginning to believe there was something in the saying that "Canada is the child of a broken marriage."

R. M. Fowler, chairman of the royal commission on broadcasting, wrote from Montreal to challenge Serpell's argument. Fowler said there is no doubt in his mind that there has been a "significant improvement" in relations between Canada's two main language groups. He had lived in Montreal 12 years and he had never seen an instance of conduct such as that in the Montreal elevator.

A French-Canadian doing post-graduate work in London, Henri de Segur, wrote to support Serpell's argument.

"English-Canadians are more interested in New York than Montreal," wrote de Segur. "As for Toronto, it is Canada's largest provincial city. Its body, a mere carbon copy of the average American skyscraper city. Its soul, the stock exchange."

"French Canada, and especially the province of Quebec, is without a doubt the 'rendez-vous de l'élite intellectuelle' of Canada."

Nowlan Named Cabinet Member Handling CBC

OTTAWA (BUP)—Revenue Minister George Nowlan will report to Parliament on the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker announced Tuesday night.

Under the Liberal government the Crown agency had reported through the former revenue minister, Dr. J. J. McCann.

Under the act of parliament establishing the CBC, the responsible minister is to be designated by an order-in-council and is not identified by department as is the case with most Crown agencies.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that Nowlan would also be the minister to discharge any other functions specified in the Canadian Broadcasting Act.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Feeding, Watering Needs Study

The feeding and watering of garden plants is one of the phases of work which needs some study by every gardener.

There are certain rules of growth and nutrition which, once recognized, remain as essential details in the gardener's experience, ready to be called into use as the occasion arises.

As with human life, it is during the growing period that a balanced diet must be available at all times. Less is required through the ripening or maturing period, and during dormancy when there is no root action, it is unwise to supply extra nutrients.

With a normal garden soil of average loam to clay-loam texture, little additional fertilizer is required if composted material is added yearly as a top dressing. However, in poor soils which have been depleted through many years of growing plants with no replacement made, some of the favorites will need a boost at this time of the year.

The bush roses, for instance, which have been flowering for weeks, will produce a fine crop of bloom again in September if the old flower heads have been properly cut back. A little fertilizer now will help.

The fall flowering perennials which have a long growing season will make finer stems and blooms if given a feeding at this time.

No fertilizer should be applied in the garden to shrubs or perennials after the end of July.

Most plants will then be busy at maturing their growth to survive the vagaries of winter. Fertilizers would induce further new growth, which, being immature, would succumb to frost.

Dry fertilizer may be applied at the rate of a measuring tablespoonful around a large plant, or watered with a solution at the rate of a teaspoonful dissolved in a gallon of water. The soil should previously be watered in either case to allow the fertilizer to reach the root areas. When using dry fertilizer, also water well after applying.

By the beginning of August, garden watering will have to become more selective, applying it in quantity only to those subjects which require it to complete their cycle of growth. The remainder will need only an existence allowance from them.

Victoria Chemist Helped Allies Overcome Nazis

The story of a German woman in New York who unconsciously helped Britain to beat Germany in the First World War is told by Noble W. Pirrie, retired Victoria chemist.

The woman was employed as librarian at the Chemists' Club in New York two years before the United States entered the war.

Mr. Pirrie, formerly an assayer in Vancouver, went there on assignment from the British Ministry of Munitions to try to discover a new method of producing much-needed acetic acid for the manufacture of explosives.

"There was a desperate shortage of acetic acid at the time," Mr. Pirrie said. "And Britain's supply of explosives was seriously threatened."

WORKED IN DARK

The German lady who worked as librarian in the Chemists' Club had no idea I was working on explosives and, as America was then a neutral country, she kept any feelings she may have had about the war to herself.

"She gave me every help in seeking a method of producing acetic acid. Every day she dug out volumes of books and spent hours plowing through them."

"This went on for close on a week. Then one morning she greeted me with a bright smile and said 'I think I have what you want.'"

"She produced a German textbook and translated a passage which said that acetic acid had been obtained from acetylene by means of a catalyst. (A chemical which, without undergoing change itself, aids a chemical change in other bodies)."

CATALYST FOUND

"The next task was to find a suitable catalyst. I caught the night train to Montreal and consulted first thing with the professor of chemistry at McGill University."

A number of experts were called in and it was decided that mercury would make the best catalyst.

Mr. Pirrie then consulted with the British ministry of munitions and the Canadian government and later a large plant for the manufacture of acetic acid was set up at Shawinigan Falls, Ont.

"The plant produced four times as much glacial acetic acid as could be found anywhere else in the world and the problem of supplying sufficient explosive for our war effort was solved."

Mr. Pirrie was appointed director of explosives for Canada in November, 1915, and became special representative of the British ministry of munitions on all matters pertaining to chemicals and explosives in Canada and the U.S.A.

Later in the war, Gooderham & Worts, the whisky distillers, turned over their plant for the manufacture of chemicals needed to manufacture cordite for shells and cartridges.

Tric Tics Clicks With 'Peg' College

WINNIPEG (CP)—Tric Tics, a United College newspaper that almost died because its first edition was too successful, has just celebrated 30 years of publishing with a 130-page year-book.

College authorities in Winnipeg almost burned the paper after its first issue in the spring of 1926 because the student staff worked so hard their marks suffered.

This year's anniversary book contained a reproduction of the first Tric Tics as well as histories and pictures of the graduating class.

When some of the students who worked on the first issue failed their exams, school authorities stipulated that all staff members must have a good scholastic average before working on the newspaper.

HOT?

ALL DAY DEODORANT WITH LANOLIN

"They refused an offer from the British Ministry of Munitions to pay them a rental equivalent to their profits for the previous three years," Mr. Pirrie said.

"It was a patriotic gesture on the part of Albert Gooderham, the head of the firm, and it earned him a knighthood after the war."

His war work completed, Mr. Pirrie settled in Victoria and for many years conducted his own financial investment business. Now retired, he entertains friends at his home at 1310 Summit Avenue and enjoys looking back over an eventful life.

Born at Bombay, India, 1878, he was taken to England as a child and was educated at Chatham House, Ramsgate, Kent, and the Royal College of Science in South Kensington, London.

He served in the South Africa War with the Royal Engineers and afterwards studied metallurgy in Australia, Nevada, California, Mexico and British Columbia.

He opened an assay office in Vancouver in 1911 and conducted it successfully until 1915 when he turned his talents to the study of wartime explosives.

Mr. Pirrie's vast chemical knowledge is now limited to the occasional production of home-made wine in which he is assisted by his wife, the former Muriel Evelyn Young, daughter of Col. T. F. Young.

NOBLE W. PIRRIE ... he found a way

"I am quite content now to just talk about the places I have visited," Mr. Pirrie says. "I have no desire to live anywhere else but Victoria."

French-Canadian Tourists Enthuse At Flowers Here

The current show of Victoria flowers evoked delighted exclamations from a party of more than 200 French-speaking Canadian tourists from Quebec who spent Monday in the city.

An employee at the Empress Hotel said the visitors spent several hours in the Empress gardens and conservatory between visits to the legislative buildings, Helmcken House, the Malahat Drive and the Butchart Gardens.

"C'est magnifique!" was a phrase frequently heard around the hotel lobby between visits.

90th Birthday Celebrated By Victorian Fred Ramplly

Forty-seven years a member of the same church in which he was married—this is the record of Fred Ramplly, 1335 Belcher, who Tuesday marked his 90th year in a quiet celebration with friends in his home.

Married in 1910 "to an English girl" in St. John's Anglican Church here, he has rarely missed a Sunday in attendance. His wife died in 1940, the year he retired.

Prior to retirement, Mr. Ramplly was for 25 years a gardener, "everything from grave digging to looking after the walks" in Ross Bay Cemetery. And before this for a couple of years had an express agency in the city "with two horses." The latter was in 1904-1910.

He's lived in the same house tea, cake, and a bit of violin music—he had them off.

"My eyes are fairly good. If there's a little sun on the newspaper I can see to read it without glasses."

What accounts for his old-age?

"I'm not sure what... perhaps keeping Sunday and living a good Christian life." He doesn't drink, never has, but "likes the occasional puff" of tobacco.

Usually he wears glasses, but at the birthday party—sandwiches.

CAR POOLS SUGGESTED FOR GARDEN CONCERT

An appeal was issued today by Ian Ross, owner-manager of Butchart Gardens, for those planning to attend the final Victoria Symphony concert of the season, Thursday evening, to form groups, thus sharing transportation. While a limit to the number of people the gardens will hold has yet to be reached, parking facilities are limited. Fewer cars therefore, will make it possible for more people to enjoy the concert.

Two buses, operating on a shuttle system, will again convey patrons of the "fairyland" concerts from the furthest parking point to the gates.

Unimpeded departure from the gardens has been made possible by Mr. Ross and the Saanich police through well-organized parking which allows any car to leave at any time, and by this season's new two-lane dispersal.

MONTE ROBERTS

Anybody like to join Whoa-Backs, Unanimous? Whoa-Backs, Unanimous, is an organization which I have just this minute thought up, but I feel sure it will go a long way.

Whoa-Backs, Unanimous, is open to all persons who agree with me that things are going along too blamed fast these days.

Whoa-Backs, Unanimous, is dedicated to slowing things down.

I will admit my interest in WBU may be due to my advancing years. Psychiatrists could no doubt prove the desire to launch this organization stems from my unconscious wish to hold back the hands of time.

This is no doubt true. But there must be many kindred spirits who would appreciate a slackening of the maddening pace of everyday life. I assure you, they are all welcome in Whoa-Backs, Unanimous.

Nor should it be thought that WBU is embarked on a losing cause. I can see no reason why victories can't be scored on a dozen fronts.

For instance, one of the first acts of WBU would be to prevail on the publishers of the Saturday Evening Post to publish the Saturday Evening Post on Saturday Evening, not the previous Tuesday morning.

From this beginning it would be an easy step to persuade other magazine publishers to publish the August issues of monthly magazines in August, not in July.

It is too late to change the situation this year (see advertisements in this issue), but by next year Whoa-Backs, Unanimous, hope to persuade the furniture manufacturers to hold their August sale in August.

A much tougher job for WBU will be the campaign to Whoa-Back the automobile people.

Any minute now, the automobile people will unveil the 1958 models, thus making the 1957 models obsolete in time to start designing the 1959 models.

The minutes, hours, days and years rush past at a fast enough pace as it is, without this added assistance from the car manufacturers.

Only a united front can have any effect.

Do your part. Join Whoa-Backs, Unanimous.

But take your time about it.

SWING THAT AXE

Working drawing for statue of logger, based on Times photo taken by Bill Halkett at Sooke loggers' sports, has been prepared by W. St. J. Miller, a patent attorney who divides his time between Calgary and Victoria.

Mr. Miller, an enthusiastic supporter of the idea to make the logger statue a centennial project, will present the drawing to L. J. Wallace, chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee.

Police Asked To Take Stand In Bottle Case

J. Alan Baker, legal counsel for teacher Pat Thomas in the "broken bottle" case, has sent a letter to the Esquimalt Police Commission asking whether or not the police intend to lay a charge against the youth involved.

"Until we know what the police intend to do, Mr. Thomas cannot decide whether to lay a charge himself," Mr. Baker said.

The letter relates a legal scramble following an incident at Esquimalt High School May 31, in which a 17-year-old student allegedly threatened Mr. Thomas with the jagged end of a bottle and said "I'm going to kill you."

Famous Swimmers Arriving For Jaycees Strait Swim

With only 12 days to go before the mass Juan de Fuca swim, internationally known swimmers are beginning to arrive in Victoria to train for the Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored race.

Two contestants, Jene Perle, Long Beach, Calif., and Jason Gregatos, New York, a former Greek army major, arrived here Tuesday to start their training.

Amy Hilland of Long Beach, Calif., began her training several weeks ago.

Several other swimmers are expected to arrive here from California and eastern United States within the next few days.

In all, 18 swimmers will take part in the race on August 4.

Mike Goeghean of Campbell River, and Bert Thomas who swam the Strait last year, were refused admission in the race because they filed their applications after the July 15 deadline.

Lieut. George Colwill, chairman of the Jaycee swim committee, said the two swimmers had plenty of time to file their applications before the deadline.

"We thought they were not interested," he said. "The two applications came too late."

California will have the largest representation in the swim. There are six. All are experienced swimmers who have won or participated in major swimming events in the United States.

Victoria will be represented by five swimmers.

The remainder will be from Vancouver and eastern United States.

The Junior Chamber has set aside a jackpot of $10,000 for swimmers who cross the strait. The first prize is $5,000; 2nd, $2,500; 3rd, $1,500 and 4th, $1,000.

If none of the swimmers cross the strait, the prizes will be cut in half.

The chances are high that some of the contestants will cross the strait, providing, of course, there are no high winds. The tide on Aug. 4 will be at its lowest ebb and swimmers will be challenged by few swift currents.

72 DEGREES ON THURSDAY CITY OFFICIAL TEMPERATURE

Victoria's official thermometer is expected to touch 72 degrees Thursday at Gonzales Observatory, according to the weatherman.

It will be even warmer in sheltered areas in the district, he said.

Minimum temperature overnight will be 50 degrees and winds will be light.

Decision Reserved In Robbery Hearing

Decision on a charge of robbery with violence against Donald Quaithe, 130 Linden, was reserved to Aug. 1 by Magistrate Henry C. Hall in city police court today.

At a preliminary hearing crown evidence was heard. Quaithe has elected trial by judge and jury.

Quaithe was charged on complaint of Donald William Carson, 618 Greenville, who said he was beaten and robbed of his car and $110 the night of July 8 on Harbor Road, the car being recovered at Lampton Street School next morning.

Defence counsel George Gregory submitted that if the case were brought to a judge and jury, the evidence heard today would cause a verdict of not guilty.

Carson said he had been drinking considerably, met three or four young men, then took them for a drink in his car at Harbor Road. One of the men was Quaithe, he said.

Arriving near department of transport wharf, Carson said he was attacked by someone, but could not say whom. He said he felt someone take his wallet from his pocket, but did not know whom.

In cross-examination Mr. Gregory suggested: "The only reason you picked on Quaithe is because his was the only name you could remember."

Oak Bay Student Tops List

Merritt Girl Leads All B.C.

Oak Bay High School graduate Robert Michael Taylor, 18, has been named top student in the Greater Victoria school district.

List of grades 12 and 13 scholarship winners in B.C. was released today by the department of education. A statement of marks has been mailed to each student.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Taylor, 2795 Foul Bay Road, Robert scored an average of 91.6 per cent in June provincial examinations.

He will receive a Chris Spencer Foundation Award of $225 and a general proficiency scholarship of $175. Robert intends to enter Victoria College in September, majoring in history or English.

Governor-General's Silver Medal was awarded to Catherine Ann Batten of Merritt, B.C., for top average in the province, 94.8 per cent.

'NOTHING NEW'

Bennett Aims For Uniformity On Tax Rebate

Premier Bennett said today the government had not made any new interpretation of the provincial Home Owners' Grant Act in recently extending the $28 rebate to more landlords.

"We were just making it uniform," he said.

Mr. Bennett said that under new instructions sent out to municipal tax officials, the rebate is extended to persons living on premises where up to three sleeping rooms are rented out.

This would be in place of, not in addition to, the one housekeeping unit specifically allowed by the act.

Previously, officials of the provincial finance department interpreted the new order as meaning that a landlord could have one housekeeping unit and three sleeping units.

VANCOUVER ACTED

The premier said the City of Vancouver has been allowing rebates to landlords renting out three single rooms, and the new order is to extend that practice throughout the province.

The relaxation order followed protests by Victoria Social Credit MLA and Alderman Donald Smith against interpretation of the act. He urged that all resident homeowners who rent out any number of rooms receive the rebate.

George Gregory, Victoria Liberal MLA, charged that the government had made a "mockery" of the legislature by making a new interpretation of the act.

Premier Bennett said today the extension of the rebate to include sleeping rooms was within the statutory limitation of the act.

Top Service Athletes For Highland Games

A march-past of British Columbia's top servicemen athletes will be the highlight of the opening ceremonies at the annual Victoria Highland Games and service sports at Macdonald Park Saturday.

Air Commodore A. D. Ross, GC, CBE, CD, commander of 5 Air Division, RCAF, in Vancouver, will open the games officially, then will take the salute of the athletes.

Navy competitors will wear blue uniforms, the army red, and the air force white. Sea Cadets also will take part in the march past.

The games will constitute inter-service championships for B.C. as far as the track and field events are concerned, but the "heavy events," such as hammer throw, discus throw, shot put, and tossing the caber, will be open to all comers.

Highland dancing and piping events will take up a large portion of the program, with more than 200 entries already on hand, including one of the largest totals ever from outside the province.

Dancing and piping will start at 9 a.m., and the sports at 1.30 p.m. A Sea Cadet tug of war has been scheduled.

Official opening and parade, with upwards of 70 athletes taking part, will be at 2 p.m. Massed bands will play for the ceremony.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A Washington motorist wants to know if he can bring his cat to Victoria in August—and has written to publicity commissioner George Warren about it.

"We would like to know about bringing a cat into Victoria and if it should need shots and things," the letter said.

Mr. Warren welcomes everyone to Victoria and cats are not excluded. He said so in his reply to Renton, Washington.

Ten by-laws will be considered at city council meeting Thursday.

They cover local improvements, working agreements with commissionaires and firemen, traffic and the gas station exemption by-law dealing with closing hours at which a public North-South-Otto Leeseent hearing will be held.

World famed lieder singer Aksel Schlotz will be heard in recital at Victoria College, Friday, at 8.15 p.m.

The recital is sponsored by the Victoria College Summer session.

The public is invited to attend. There is no charge.

Some 25 persons have applied for the position of truant officer since the job opened about two months ago, senior municipal school inspector John Gough said Tuesday.

Decision on the appointment will not be known until the school board meets in August.

The job requires "some social work experience," Mr. Gough said, as it is not merely a question of finding children and taking them to school, but also to determine why they have not been attending.

Premier Bennett insisted today he still has given "no special thought" to the dates of three provincial by-elections which must be held this year.

To reports that he will name the dates at a Social Credit banquet at Cloverdale Saturday night, Mr. Bennett said:

"The premier doesn't announce these things. It has to come from the provincial secretary."

The Cloverdale banquet follows a nominating convention for Delta Riding, one of the three now unrepresented. The other two are Cariboo and Burraby.

Writ for the Burnaby by-election, made necessary of the death last January of veteran CCF member Ernest Winch, must be issued not later than Aug. 9. Polling must take place within 60 days after that.

Last dates for issuing of writs in the other two ridings are Oct. 27 for Delta and Jan. 10, 1958, for Cariboo, but it is expected that all three will be held on the same day in September.

Air Force Band Enthralls Crowd In Beacon Hill

Band of the Royal Canadian Air Force played to an audience of more than 1,000 in Beacon Hill Park Tuesday night, prior to their appearance at today's Government House garden party.

The Air Force musicians, a number of whom come from British Columbia, delighted the audience with their expert rendition of martial, ballet and show music, earning particular plaudits for their melody from "My Fair Lady."

Premier Still Tight-Lipped On By-Elections

Premier Bennett insisted today he still has given "no special thought" to the dates of three provincial by-elections which must be held this year.

To reports that he will name the dates at a Social Credit banquet at Cloverdale Saturday night, Mr. Bennett said:

PGE Sale Possible For 'Fair Price'

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today held the way open for possible sale of the PGE railroad in the future.

Questioned about reports that sale of the PGE to two U.S. railroads for $114,500,000 is being considered, the premier said:

"I say that we are not negotiating a sale, but I am not making a statement that for all time we wouldn't accept... a fair sale."

Mr. Bennett also said there is "still a hope" that the PGE may be extended into Alaska.

The premier disclosed that the board of directors of the PGE, of which he is president, will meet Monday on the train. He did not know how far north he would be travelling.

Mr. Bennett also disclosed that the PGE station at Little Prairie, where the railroad splits into two forks, one to Fort St. John and the other to Dawson Creek, will be called "Chetwynd Station" in honor of the late minister of railways, Ralph Chetwynd.

No More Bathtime Battle If Dog Has Dry Shampoo

By PENNY SAVER

Aren't dogs the spoiled critters these days! They don't even have to endure being immersed in a bathtub and scrubbed with soap and a brush anymore, and what's more important, their owners don't have to have the ordeal of doing the scrubbing.

There's a new dry shampoo for dogs (and cats, too) in a local store that means that even a weekly bath won't be much of a chore.

The shampoo comes in a pressurized can, and you just spray a few blobs of the soapy lather onto the dog.

Then you rub it all over him, and wrap him in a towel and rub him until he's dry and fluffy. It's an ideal method for cool weather, as the dog doesn't have a chance to get chilled. And since he's hardly dampened at all, he won't get himself all muddy by leaping straight from his bath into the nearby loose dirt.

The shampoo kills fleas and deodorizes at the same time. I'm told that dogs really enjoy the whole process!

A good-sized tin of the shampoo costs $1.49.

CANNED COLD

I knew that you can buy canned heat, but I've somehow missed the fact that you can also buy canned cold.

You place the can, unopened, in the refrigerator until you're ready to use it; then put it, still unopened, into your cooling chest or picnic basket with the food you want to keep cool.

The cold will last until you're ready to eat. It's also useful for a fisherman to keep his catch fresh until he gets home, and you won't have any bother with dripping melted ice.

A tin is $1.19.

LETHAL WEAPON

Seems to me that toy water pistols are getting more lethal all the time. No longer does a water pistol only give out a squirt or two of water before it has to be re-filled.

I found one that has a storage tank connected by a tube to the pistol. The tank can be filled with water and put into a large jeans pocket or a shirt front, so that the young gunman can carry out a prolonged attack. Price is 75 cents.

Give me a ring at 2-3131 if you'd like to know where I shopped to day.

Glorious Weather Adds To Success of Party

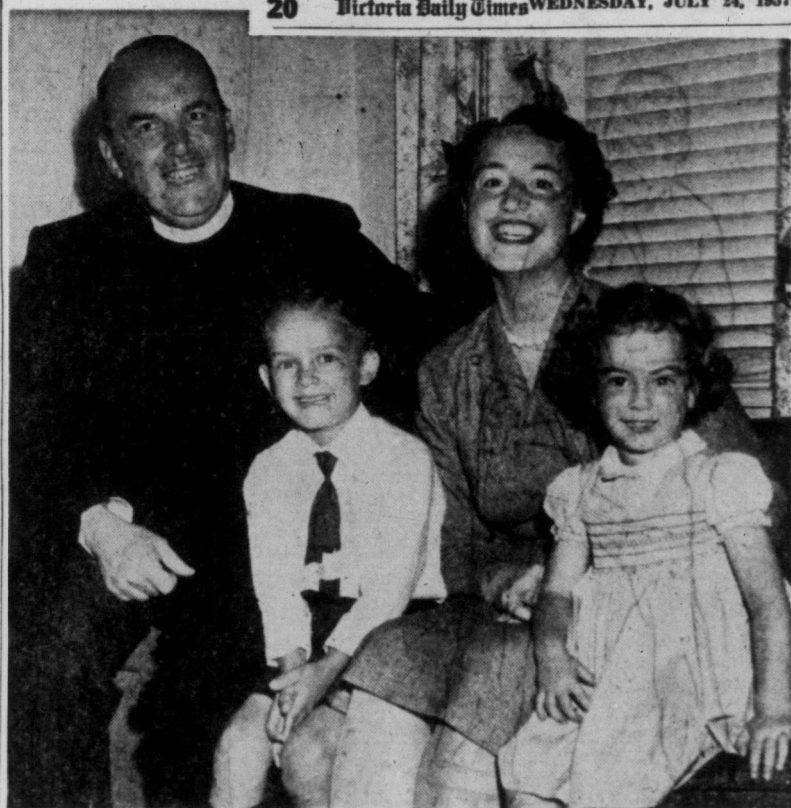

Rev. J. C. McDonald opened the garden party at Metchoshin in the beautiful gardens of Capt. and Mrs. H. E. Hubbard.

The party, arranged by members of the Women's Auxiliary, St. Mary's Anglican Church, Metchoshin, was a great success, due to the glorious weather which brought out many friends of the parish from Victoria.

Ronald Weir operated a public address system and music added to the pleasant atmosphere. A ballet dance was performed by Frances Weir during the afternoon.

Sales proceeded briskly at all the stalls, to make a net result of $365 for the W.A. General conveners were Mrs. R. Weir and Mrs. J. F. Taylor. Mrs. G. Nelson and Mrs. J. Taylor were in charge of a home-cooking stall, and Mrs. L. Evans and Mrs. C. Rhode managed a Griffith.

A book stall was convened by Miss Glyde and Mrs. McCreight and Mrs. Freeman convened the candy stall. Mrs. C. Pike was in charge of a miscellaneous stall and Mrs. Hawkins organized games. Ice cream and soft drink sales were handled by Gilbert Taylor and Robert Arroll, and Mrs. J. Hodge and Capt. H. E. Hubbard sold tickets. Mrs. G. Griffith, Mrs. R. Weir, Mrs. R. Willing and Mrs. C. Panting made tea; and Mrs. Ross Davidson, Mrs. H. Gardner and Mrs. C. G. Argall looked after tea tables, with assistance from Mrs. G. Inness and Misses Diana and Jill Nelson, Lyn Weir, Judy McDermott and Shirley Inness. Tea was poured by Mrs. John Meade, Mrs. F. G. Dobie, Mrs. G. F. Weir and Mrs. W. Whitney.

RETURN SOON TO ONTARIO HOME

Rev. and Mrs. Handley Perkins, Elspeth and John, are returning to their Toronto home on Monday after a few weeks' visit with friends and relatives in Victoria. They motored up-Island on the weekend, and Mrs.

Perkins, the former Miss Gwendolyn Cox of the city, who hasn't been on the Island for 15 years, was "so interested to see the changes." The family will travel back on the "Canadian."

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Toasts and fees:

What is the amount that the bridegroom gives to the clergyman at a wedding of about fifty guests? At the trousseau tea, the groom's mother will receive with the bride-to-be and her mother. Does the groom's mother wear a hat? Is it correct for the best man to propose a toast to the bride, and do the bride and groom remain seated when it is proposed? Do they drink to the toast or not? What should the groom say when he responds? Is it proper to click glasses?

Louise Davis Answers:

The amount that the bridegroom gives the clergyman isn't determined by the size of the wedding. It depends on what he wants to give and on how much he can afford. Twenty or 25 dollars is a fair figure but it might vary according to localities and their economic standards. However, the clergyman would be grateful for any amount, more or less, but he would never want anyone to go beyond his means just for the sake of a gift. I suggest that the bridegroom's mother wear a hat at the trousseau tea unless the bride's mother would like her to remove it. Even though she will assist in receiving, she is actually a guest. Therefore, a hat is in order. Anyone can propose a toast, but the best man is generally the one who makes the first one. He rises, as do all the others except the bride and bridegroom, and he proposes the toast to the couple. Then the bridegroom rises and acknowledges the toast with just a "thank you" for both. He isn't expected to make a speech unless he is really inspired to. Neither he nor his bride drinks to the toast. The touching of glasses isn't necessary, but when it is done, it is spontaneous.

Victoria Girl Becomes Bride At Recent Vancouver Ceremony

Of interest to Victorians is the recent wedding of Miss Verna Jean Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Graham, Southgate Avenue, Victoria, and William David Smythe, son of Mrs. J. D. Smythe, Ottawa. Rev. R. A. Redman officiated at the afternoon ceremony in Marpole United Church, Vancouver.

Pink and white floral arrangements decorated the church. The bride, charming in a pink wedding gown, walked up the aisle on the arm of her father. Velvet threaded beading and lace appliques outlined the border and Empire waistline of her dress, which was ballerina length with a bouffant skirt of tulle over taffeta. A coronet of lace and seed pearls held her veil in place. She carried a bouquet of cascading pale pink elfin roses, lily of the valley and stephanotis.

Mrs. Gordon Graham, matron-of-honor, and Miss Judy Smythe, bridesmaid, wore identical gowns of deep pink nylon over taffeta, with Empire waistline outlined with velvet ribbon. Miss Kathleen Auld, junior bridesmaid, wore a dress of pale pink, similarly styled. All carried deep pink elfin roses with stephanotis, and wore pink velvet headresses.

Mrs. Graham, mother of the bride, chose a dress of beige lace over satin, with beige accessories and a corsage of bronze roses. A deep turquoise taffeta dress with black accessories and a corsage of white roses created the costume of Mrs. Smythe, mother of the groom. Gordon Graham, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and Jim Spencer and Ken Vansacker were ushers.

After the wedding reception a beige wool suit, beige accessories and a bronze orchid corsage for her travelling costume. The couple will honeymoon in Washington and Lake Louise, and are planning to make their home in Ottawa.

New Dentrifice 'Discovered'; Slashes Decay

WINNIPEG (CP) — Dentists in the United States have discovered a "new" dentrifice which cuts the rate of tooth decay among adults in half.

This dentrifice used in a recent test involving 1,000 students at a U.S. university is cheap, easy to obtain and simple to apply. It's water, and results showed that brushing teeth with it after every meal reduced tooth decay more than 50 per cent.

This, and other unorthodox opinions, were given here to delegates at the annual board meeting of the Canadian Dental Association.

SUGAR THREAT

A Toronto dentist said, "Canadians like to think their children are the best fed in the world but in reality most of our children are walking around with an acid bath in their mouths."

The cause was a high sugar diet which most parents give them, he said.

Educational programs to teach parents to reduce the amount of sugar they give their children resulted in a drastic drop in tooth decay in test areas in Toronto. "The sugar habit is like any addiction," he said. "Children acquire it the same way adults become addicted to cigarettes and alcohol. The best way to preserve children's teeth is to see that they never get enough sugar to create a craving."

SPOOLS APPETITE

"Milk is the best food in the world but it should be used carefully. No child under 12 years of age needs more than a pint of milk a day. Give him more and it takes away his appetite for other essential foods."

The Toronto dentist said young people who live on sandwiches usually have trouble with their teeth because the starch they consume turns to sugar in their mouths and promotes decay.

He suggested fewer sandwiches should be put in lunches and more fresh fruit and vegetables should be added.

"The effect of a typical Canadian diet on children's teeth was evident in its effect on the teeth of children of European immigrants. "When they arrive they have perfect mouths," he said. "Two years on our diets and they're as bad as the rest of us."

HEAVY RAIN

An inch of rainfall over an acre of land would weigh 113 tons.

The big four-master was spotted from the air by an RCAF crew on routine patrol out of Comox. The barque was first sighted on Monday, and reported to the aircraft she was inbound for Vancouver to take a cargo of grain.

Nippon Maru has steam as well as sail, but operates under canvas most of the time.

The RCAF patrol crew reported the barque was making about six knots when sighted off the west coast of Vancouver Island. If that rate were maintained, she would reach Vancouver Thursday morning.

At noon today B.C. Pilotage had not yet received request for pilot.

Nippon Maru is a cadet training ship, used to provide "sea time" and sail handling experience for junior officers.

Victoria College Requires Land Now, Chamber Urges

Additional property to allow it to offer a four-year liberal arts course must be acquired by Victoria College "immediately," according to the Chamber of Commerce university committee.

The committee disagreed with the college council that expansion into university status should be done gradually.

It is expected to ask chamber directors to press for provincial government assistance for enlargement of the faculty to provide a full arts course.

In a letter to the council following four months' study of the matter, the chamber committee said "this city must have a college offering a four-year liberal arts course in the immediate future."

Obstacles to the expansion which have been raised by the college council "are not insurmountable, if, in fact, they do exist," wrote committee chairman G. R. Newell.

To accomplish the main objectives, additional acreage north of the present college site must be acquired in the immediate future.

"Failure to do this would destroy expansion plans which are in the common interest of both

Mystery Shopping Woman Identified

The Wednesday shopping "mystery woman" was identified at 2:30 p.m. today by Neville Howard, 17, 252 Ontario, and Jerry Walter, 20, 1697 Earle.

She was stopped by the pair as she left the Persian Arts shop on Government after only 1½ hours in the city centre area.

She is Mrs. F. R. Moore, 2386 Queenswood Drive.

Tories Gain One as Independent Joins

OTTAWA (CP)—Progressive Conservative strength in the House of Commons has been increased by one to 111 through acceptance of Henri Courtemanche into the party caucus.

Mr. Courtemanche, member for Labelle, Que., was elected June 10 as an Independent Progressive Conservative, but has since been accepted into the caucus and now can be designated as a Progressive Conservative, a party spokesman said today.

B.C. Fruit Board Defied; Charge Laid

CRANBROOK (CP)—The B.C. Fruit Board said today a charge has been laid against the East Kootenay Co-operative Berry Association after a consignment of tree fruits were seized at an RCMP road block Sunday as it was being transported to Alberta.

Inspector J. B. Holder said the association officials are charged with transporting fruit in violation of a board order and will appear in magistrate's court here July 31.

New Sub-Killing Tricks Near Perfect

OTTAWA (CP)—New equipment to increase the sub-killing potential of Canada's fleet is in the final stages of development.

Dr. John E. Keyston, vice-chairman of the defence research board, says the new equipment—an advanced type of sonar—will be installed in Royal Canadian Navy ships in the next three or four years.

Israeli-Hired Ship
Runs Suez; Man Held

JERUSALEM (AP)—The Danish freighter Birgitte Toff, en route to Israel with a cargo of Burmese rice, radioed early today she had cleared the Suez Canal and expects to reach Haifa by nightfall.

Israeli sailor-writer Rahnaf Eylon, whom Egyptian police removed from the ship for questioning at Suez, was not returned to the vessel.

Egyptian officials said they arrested Eylon because he was taking photographs of the waterway and his behavior was "suspicious."

Israel awaited a reply from UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and the Security Council to her appeal for action.

PRAISE A-PLenty FOR COO-RAGEOUS PIGEON

Resting up after record-making flight from Edmonton to Victoria, two-year-old hen pigeon Revived

HOMER HOMES

Modest Pigeon
Whizz-Bang
Performer

By Times' Pigeon Reporter

Revived Hope, the two-year-old homing pigeon who completed a record-breaking 600-mile flight from Edmonton to Victoria at 7 p.m. Tuesday, is a quiet, soft-spoken, modest bird.

In pigeon parlance, she is a red checker hen. And in any language, she's a whizz-bang performer. So far, she is only one of 16 pigeons released at Edmonton on Sunday to reach home.

"Home" is the pigeon loft of Bert Owens, 3332 Painter Road, Metchosis.

Interviewed there today, Revived Hope was markedly reticent. "It was a good flight," she admitted. "But nothing unusual. I just flew and I flew and I flew, and then I stopped flying because I was home."

It was the longest speech she had made in many weeks, said Owens. "And she's still pretty tired," he added.

Asked if she flew at night, Revived Hope said "of course not. That's strictly for the owls."

Added owner Owens, "We figure she rested about seven hours per night. That's the Continued on Page 33

Glitter, Pomp To Mark
Royal Visit to Ottawa

OTTAWA (BUP)—A tightly packed program of receptions, dinners and a glittering state ball are being planned for Queen Elizabeth's visit to Ottawa in October.

The program now drafted, subject to the Queen's approval, will provide plenty of opportunities for Ottawans generally to see her and Prince Philip, and some opportunities for the socially prominent to meet her.

But the time schedule will leave little if any room for extraordinary engagements.

In general, the program is expected to be this:

Saturday, Oct. 12—Arrive by air in the late forenoon at Uplands RCAF base, south of Ottawa, for a lavish military reception. Drive by a circuitous route through the federal parkway to Centertown, to lay a wreath at the National War Memorial, and then drive along the Ottawa River embankment to Rideau Hall, her (and Governor-General Vincent Massey's) state residence in the capital.

Late in the afternoon, attend a reception—but not a press conference—about 200 correspondents covering her visit, at Government House. Dine quietly in the evening with Mr. Massey and his family.

To Open Parliament

Sunday—Attend morning prayer at the Anglican Cathedral, atop Nanny Goat Hill, east of the parliament buildings. Relax in the afternoon, and attend a dinner given by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker at his official residence, 24 Sussex Street, near Rideau Hall.

Monday—Spend the forenoon working on dispatches from London, open the first session of Canada's newly elected parliament in the afternoon, and attend a state banquet at Government House for possibly 100 guests, followed by a ball for 24 Sussex Street, near Rideau Hall.

Tuesday—Rest and work on

New U.S. Jet Bomber
Averages 930 MPH

DAYTON, Ohio (UP)—The B-58 Hustler, the air force's supersonic bomber, flew today from Fort Worth, Texas, to four-engine turbo-jet bomber, undergo a series of take-off is 95 feet long and has a wing span of 35 feet. The height of the plane is described as "the its tail is 30 feet. The plane most advanced jet bomber ever built."

The air force said the plane, mated at 1,200 to 1,500 miles flying an "around about route" per hour.

CANADIAN DOLLAR SOARS TO YEAR HIGH AT N.Y.

NEW YORK (UP)—The Canadian dollar soared, to a new 1957 record high of $1.05 13/32 in relation to the U.S. dollar in foreign exchange trading today, only just short of the $1.05½ all-time record set in 1930.

U.K. Acts to Smash
Mid-East Rebellion

BAHREIN, Persian Gulf (Reuters)—RAF planes today flew 12 sorties against a mud-brick fort at Izki, about 50 miles south of the capital of the sultanate of Muscat and Oman.

A spokesman said severe damage was caused and that more sorties are planned for Thursday against a rebel headquarters fort at Nizwa, the stronghold of the leader of a rebellion against the British-backed sultan.

Nizwa is the regional capital of Oman. It was captured last week by rebel tribesmen led by Ghalib Ben Ali, the Imam or religious leader of Oman. He fled Nizwa in December, 1955, after a fight with the British-protected Taimur. The sultan claimed the Imam was attempting to set up an independent state in violation of an agreement between the two leaders.

Villagers Given Warning

The pro-British sultan asked Britain's help in quashing the rebellion.

The RAF planes took off from Sharjah, British base about 200 miles north of Nizwa.

British troops moved up from Bahrain to Sharjah, but no large-scale use of British troops is foreseen. However, Britain probably will provide minor reinforcements of the sultan's land troops.

The sultan has 1,500 fighting men. They are officered by 10 Britons.

Prior to today's action, RAF planes dropped leaflets in rebel-held areas warning the villagers to leave.

Sir Bernard Burrows, British political resident in Bahrain, said further action against the rebels would be decided upon after the "show of force" from the area.

The sultanate of Muscat and Oman is a poor country of desert and mountains on the southeast tip of the Arabian peninsula. Oil prospectors are surveying the area but no oil is currently being produced. The sultanate has from 350,000 to 830,000 persons, mostly of Arabic stock, but with Asian and African mixtures in the port cities.

Police Crack
'Human Wall'
In Strike Clash

Cut Rough Stuff
Union Leaders Urge

LONDON (UP)—Forty policemen swinging nightsticks today broke up a "human wall" picket line set up by some 300 strikers at London's Covent Garden fruit and vegetable market. Eleven of the strikers were arrested after a melee in which a vegetable truck was set afire and hundreds of crates of fruit smashed.

The clash erupted when the strikers locked arms across streets in the Covent Garden area to prevent produce trucks from entering. The workers went on strike to protest reclassification of their jobs.

Transport union leaders appealed today to members to cut out similar rough stuff in the nationwide bus strike that has crippled bus transport outside of the London area.

Clashes between pickets and bus crews operating in defiance of the strike were frequent Tuesday, the fourth day of the walkout.

CHILDREN MANHANDLED
At Nantwich, Cheshire, children were dragged out of a school bus by strikers and made to walk. Police also made a baton charge to clear Nottingham's central bus terminal of pickets who refused to let non-strikers take out buses.

Frank Cousins, general secretary of the mammoth Transport and General Workers Union, issued an order that pickets are to use only "peaceful means and persuasion" to stop non-strikers handling buses.

Police were assigned to ride buses in many areas to prevent incidents.

LOOT DEBUNKED

MONTREAL (BUP)—Estimates of a multi-million-dollar loss in the January looting of safety deposit boxes in a Montreal bank are far too high, a police official said today.

Police director Joseph Grifflin of Outremont, the Montreal island city where the burglary occurred, said the figure was "plus or minus the $500,000 mark."

"Reports attempting to compare the theft with the celebrated $1,200,000 Brinks burglary are grossly exaggerated," he said.

Gunmen Loot
Montreal Bank
Of $10,000

MONTREAL (CP)—Two gunmen and an accomplice who drove the getaway car escaped today with more than $10,000 from a bank holdup. A woman teller fainted and thereby saved the bank another estimated $10,000.

Police, who reported the loss estimate, said the two armed and masked men hid in the furnace room before the bank—an east-end branch of La Banque Canadienne Nationale—opened for business.

The two then burst into the main lobby. One herded the staff into the vault at gunpoint while the other stuffed money into pillowcases.

Monique Dufresne, only member of the staff who knew the combinations to various compartments in the vault, fainted. The bandits gathered what loose money they could find in the vault and in the teller's tills. They then fled to the waiting car, which was later found abandoned.

Gradual Changes Planned By Tory Labor Minister

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Energetic Mike Starr, who began as a $5-a-week printer's devil in Oshawa, Ont., and now is Canada's $27,000-a-year new labor minister, says he plans a fast scrutiny of federal labor legislation with a view to possible revision.

Hon. Michael Starr, 46, the country's first federal minister of Ukrainian extraction, says that at this early stage of the new Progressive Conservative regime he has no major upheavals in mind but will take a hard look at existing laws.

"I intend to review all federal labor legislation," he said in an interview, "and to see what changes are needed, with the co-operation of all those affected including the unions and the employers."

Down to shirtsleeves in the plush office suite he has taken over from outgoing labor minister Milton Gregg—a far cry from his conservative back-bencher's quarters of pre-election days—Mr. Starr said his main aim in office will be to do all he can to implement the Conservative platform policies.

"But I'm mighty green at this big job," he admitted, "and it's going to take me some time to feel around and get my footing."

Greenhorn that he might be in the labor ministry, the Commons member for Ontario riding is no newcomer to politics. He has been in the Commons since 1952, and before that was mayor of Oshawa in 1949-52 and previously five years as alderman of that industrial city.

CUT LABOR VOTE

Like his Liberal predecessor, the new labor minister has never been a member of a union. "By the time I was old enough to join one," he said, "I was working in an office, and there was no attempt to organize the workers in our office."

Despite his lack of union connections, Mr. Starr had no trouble on June 10 in getting a plurality of about 4,400 over CCF candidate Jack Naylor, an official of the powerful United Automobile Workers of America, which has about 11,000 members in Oshawa. Officially, the UAW supports the CCF.

But Mr. Starr likes to refer to the facts that his late Ukrainian-born father held a card in the auto workers' union, along with a deceased brother.

Hon. Mike, a stocky, soft-spoken man not given to much talk in his days in the Commons, has no illusions about upsetting any existing applicarts.

NEW CREAM HOLDS THEM COMFORTABLE AND SNUG!

At last! No more uncomfortable rocking and slipping. No more sore gums from loose plates. Here's a safe, pleasant way to hold plates snugly in place — Poli-Grip! It's a delightful pink cream that's easy to use, gives wonderful results. Poli-Grip does all this, too:

1. Poli-Grip forms a creamy cushion, eliminating friction on sore gums.
2. Holds even shallow lower plates.
3. Seals edges, so food can't get under.
4. Lets you eat anything.
5. Keeps plates tight while laughing, singing, even sneezing.
6. Made and guaranteed by Polident.

Double your money back if wonderful Poli-Grip doesn't give you more comfort, more security than you ever had before!

"I'm not out to make any upheavals," he said. "I just intend to do my utmost for Canadian labor in as short a time as possible."

Did this mean that the narrowly-ahead Conservatives might figure their days in government were numbered?

The minister just smiled.

"What we hope to do," he said, "is to implement as much of our labor platform as soon as it is humanly possible to do so."

The platform contains these points as adopted at the Conservative convention last December:

1. An immediate review of all federal labor legislation by the combined efforts of government, management and labor.
2. Co-operation with the province with a view to uniform labor laws.
3. Adequate representation for labor on government boards dealing with matters of interest to labor.
4. Improvement of unemployment insurance legislation to provide coverage, increase benefits and eliminate "discrimination" against married women.

WONDER DRUG WON'T MIX WITH MILK

VANCOUVER (CP)—People who are allergic to penicillin can suffer reactions after drinking milk from penicillin-treated cows, the annual meeting of the Canadian Veterinary Medical Association was told Tuesday.

Dr. W. G. Stevenson of Guelph, Ont., said massive doses of penicillin used in treatment of mastitis, a disease of the cow's milk-producing system, can cause such reaction in milk drinkers. He said about 10 per cent of the population is allergic to penicillin.

In the United States regulations prohibit use of more than 1,000 units of penicillin in each treatment, but there is no such restriction in Canada, he said.

Stagecoach in Crash

LONDON (Reuters)—A 107-year-old stagecoach collided with two cars on its way to take part in the International Horse Show. The four horses drawing the coach bolted after a shaft broke, but were recaptured by one of the passengers.
